The warlike preparations of the Russians and Turks about Constantinople

The Servians have established a two days' quarantine on the Austrian frontier. It is believed that this is rather from political than sanitary reasons. Apprehensions are expressed in Bucharest that the Russians intend enforcing strict martial law.

A special from London to the Edinburgh Scotsman says that the secret de-terminations of the cabinet, that Lord Derby meant as compelling his retire-ment therefrom, were the seizure of Gallipoli and the landing of an army banks cannot assume any great risks corps in Anatordian.

London, April 11.—The news from Cittenje says the districts in Albania on the seacoast and the Bayara river, occupied by the Montenegrins, have been so ravished by war that the inhabitants are starving. The Montenegrins are unable to help them, being scarcely able to feed their own people. An appeal has been made to Austria for the entire amount offered by Secretary Sherman. H C Fahnstock, George Bliss and August Belmont called on Sherman and had an interview with him. They informed him that they did not come as the syndicate, but as representatives of the banks and banking forms to render substantial

The Manchester Guardian prints a London dispatch saying: "A rumor is current in military circles that the British have sustained a disastrous defeat in South Africa. The colonial office is ignorant of such defeat. At last advices, however, the whole frontier was very restless and a war feeling was strongly abroad. All the government's prudence and firmness were needed to prevent a general native war."
