

STATE NEWS.

Pitt county has peaches. The telephone is in Asheville. Hickory has five tobacco factories.

A party in Asheville will make a summer excursion to Bald Mountain. Rev Dr Patterson, of Wilmington, is sick at Chapel Hill.

Asheville went wet last week by a majority of 75. Wilmington heard the roar of the ocean for two days last week.

They say another paper is about being started in Salisbury by a Mr Quantz. There is a children's memorial association in Wilmington.

The Concord Sun has Bald Mountain illustrated by "our special artist." Tilden, formerly Shoe Heel, voted against prohibition.

Jonah Boughton, the temperance lecturer, is in Wilmington. The Wilmington Light Infantry will have their prize shooting at Smithville on the 20th of this month.

A negro man killed a deer with a hoe near Pantego recently, says a correspondent of the Tarboro Southerner. Hickory voted last week on the question, "hog or no hog." "No hog" was elected by 9 majority.

The editor of the Monroe Enquirer denies that it was he who went snipe hunting and held the bag. Capt Jos H Green has been re-elected chief of the Raleigh fire department.

Wilmington was to have had another regatta yesterday. Five boats had entered. Dr TH Mann, a prominent citizen of Franklin, died on the night of the 6th, aged 47.

Cotton receipts in Raleigh last week, 96 bales; while for the year to date, 44,101, increase in receipts this year over last to date, 1,518.

The Witness says the people of Wilkes are in favor of a greenback currency and urges upon them the formation of greenback clubs. The Statesville American says Gen John O Gorman, of Raleigh, has gone to Asheville to take charge of the Pioneer, the Republican paper, as editor.

Happy Home (Burke county) Educator, 7th: Maj Wright, formerly of Statesville and later of Hickory, is lying very ill of dropsy at Mrs Connelly's house at Icard. Dr Happoldt tapped him on yesterday and drew about four and a half gallons of water from him.

A mill stone quarry has been discovered on the land of John B Weaver, of Buncombe. Some of the stones are now in use in a mill in that county and the mill men publish a card in the Asheville Citizen, saying that they are the best they ever saw.

In the United States Circuit Court at Raleigh last Thursday, Johnstone Jones was, upon motion of T C Fuller, admitted as an attorney and counselor at law, solicitor in equity, and proctor of the court.

The Wilmington Review corrects its statement that the music teacher at St Mary's, Raleigh, has skeddaddled. Rev Dr Smedley telegraphs the Review that the music teacher was called suddenly from his post of duty by the severest domestic affliction.

Tarboro Southerner: Col Polk's affirmation was that the fences in Edgecombe could not be replaced for less than $800,000, instead of "in the State." The State fences cost over $300,000 for one building. In Edgecombe there are 119,008 acres of improved land.

Tarboro Southerner: "Old Mrs Sallie Currie," as she was familiarly called by all who were wont to consult her oracle, died in Halifax county near the Edgecombe line, on Tuesday last week. She has been quite a character in her day. If money was lost, a man drowned and submerged, she could tell where the one or the other could be found. Young ladies sought her shrine to have their horoscopes spread out. Peace to her prophesies.

A new military company has just been organized in Wilmington. It is called the Lamb Light Infantry, and is officered as follows: Captain—B. S. Radcliffe; First Lieutenant—J W Fawcett; Second Lieutenant—J T Pate; Third Lieutenant—C P Roseberry; Ensign—E J Luskany; Surgeon—Dr W J H Bellamy. There are forty-five members.

Wilmington Star: A covered wagon both sides labeled with the bill of fare of the Republican barbers, so take place at Hilton-to-day with a string band inside, and headed by James Heaton and Col Wm Tecumseh Cutler in another vehicle, decorated with the "flag of our country," paraded through the streets yesterday and attracted no little attention.

Wilmington Witness: Mr Joe D Cowles, while out driving last Wednesday, met with a serious accident. It seems that his animal took fright and ran off, capering his buggy and tearing it literally to pieces, and throwing Mr Cowles some distance on the ground. But we learn that he is not seriously hurt, his horse being hurt the worse of the two.

Raleigh News: Dr Hammond of New York, has written an open letter to Dr Grissom, in reply to the speech of the latter at the convention of asylum superintendents, in Washington City, on 10th inst. The subject of Dr G's address was the "Ethics of Medical Expert Testimony in the Medical Jurisprudence of Insanity." This speech is to be published in the Utica Journalist. The letter of Dr Hammond is circulated over our State, and the publication of the address will, therefore, meet and answer it.

Wilmington Witness: We learn that Mr Robert Davis was bitten by a large black spider, while in the field at work on last Saturday, and died from the effects of it on Monday morning. Mr Davis was the son of Mr Alfred Davis, a citizen living on Lewis' Fork, in this county. On Saturday he was hale and hearty, and the next Monday was a corpse. These large black spiders are said to be more poisonous than a snake.

Joseph McCarver, white, of Gaston county, sentenced to the penitentiary where he has been confined since November 3, 1873, for manslaughter, has been released, his term having expired.

The Union Express announces that at the wet and dry election in Monroe last week, "many of the most prominent ladies were present at the polls, provided with prohibition tickets, and did all in their power to induce men to vote against license." We are embracing the "civilization" of the North.

Bolton Argus: Farrow Jones and Simon Jones, both colored, were cutting down some trees, Thursday afternoon, about half a mile from this place, and one tree lodged against some others, when they cut down another so that it would fall against the lodged tree and carry that down also, which it did not do, but in slipping off the top overbalanced the but, which flew around, striking Farrow and mashing into a jelly his head and left side.

Tarboro Southerner: Gen Bryan Grimes passed through from Pitt on Monday, having a pair of six-pronged antlers found in the woods almost indissolubly locked together. A neighbor was attracted to the spot in the forest by buzzards, and there he found the bucks dead and only slightly decomposed, with their antlers locked together. The neck of one was broken and the other had evidently started. What a thought of jealousy, revenge, death crowds the mind and points the moral. Gen Grimes will present the antlers to Hon K P Battle, for the University museum.

Concord Star: Yesterday about noon a negro woman named Susan Thompson, working a cotton patch on the lot on Spring street, untenanted at present, but owned by Wm Cook, saw what she supposed to be an infant in the well in the rear of the house. The alarm was given and a crowd collected almost immediately. A basket was lowered and the body of a negro baby was drawn up. From appearances, the body must have been in the well five or six days. A coroner's jury was impaneled late yesterday evening, and the matter will receive a full investigation.

Wilmington Star: Yesterday morning at a point on the Wilmington & Weldon Railroad, about half way between Halifax and Enfield, a colored man was in a hand car in company with one or two other colored men, and holding on behind a material train by the aid of poles, when by a sudden cessation of the speed of the train, or the pole slipping, the colored man referred to was projected forward with such violence against the end of the pole that it entered his side, just under the left arm, and the end of it was forced through his breast, making a terrible wound. He was alive at last accounts.

Parole's Unexpected Defeat. It has already been announced that the race for the Westchester cup, 2 1/2 miles, at Jerome Park, last Tuesday, was won by S D Bruce's General Phillips, who defeated Lorillard's Parole, (the conqueror of Ten Broeck), and Bissell's St James. The New York Tribune furnishes the annexed description of the race.

"For half an hour before the race began men were shouting offers to wager $100 to $25 and $100 to $20 that Parole would win, and proposed to give the odds of ten to one against any horse but Parole. The three contestants started off easily, and came down by the stand in the first quarter of a mile at a moderate pace, Phillips leading and Parole and St James running side by side. Parole was impatient under the strong pull that his jockey kept on him, and shook his head repeatedly. For a mile the positions did not change materially, Phillips being still in advance, and Parole and St James galloping along as if they were harnessed together. Then Phillips increased his lead a little, and as the three passed the stand a second time he was four or five lengths in advance. Still the backers of Parole were not at all uneasy, expecting a tremendous dash of speed in the home stretch, which would settle the matter. When the three horses entered upon the last half mile St James lost heart and was quickly far behind the others. Phillips was still running strong and well, and for the first time a doubt troubled the side of Parole. But they felt reassured as they saw the favorite gaining a trifle on Phillips. When the two swung round the turn and entered the last quarter of a mile Phillips was three lengths ahead of Parole. It was now or never with the champion, and Barrett, his jockey, urged him to a supreme effort. He could not lash him, for Parole always swerves under the whip, and the horse failed to mend his pace. Consequently he fell upon those spectators—and they were many—who thought nothing in the country could beat Parole. The Texas horse was still full of fire and vigor, and easily retained his advantage. His jockey turned him to the outside of the track, where the ground was the firmest and best for running. Parole ran close to the inner rail, and labored heavily on the soft, sticky earth. Without a stroke of the whip to call forth his resources, Parole fell upon Phillips dashed in an easy winner by four lengths, Parole second, and St James a long distance behind. The time was 4:18. A great shout of surprise and exultation (for the general public always exults when a favorite is beaten, no matter how worthy of admiration the defeated racer may be,) filled the air, as the great Parole, victor in countless contests, was overcome. Phillips was greeted with much applause when he came back to the judges' stand.

"Parole never carried heavy weight patiently, and had on his back 121 pounds. To this fact, to the softness of the track and to the real merits of the winner, General Phillips, must be ascribed the championship defeat. Phillips ran in the Fordham handicap last Thursday, but did not distinguish himself, not being placed. The track was heavy both days, and a horse that could beat Parole ought to have run better in the Fordham, carrying only 114 pounds. In any case, General Phillips must now be put in the front rank of the racers of the year at long distances. He hit by Gleneg out of La Polka, and is a powerful, well-framed, and in the best of his color, he is a chestnut. He will be considered a dangerous antagonist hereafter in whatever race he may start. The prize won by him was worth $1,500."

Arrest of a North Carolina Merchant. (Special Dispatch to the Baltimore Sun.) RICHMOND, VA, June 7.—W F Trogden, of the firm of W F Trogden & Co., merchants, of Greensboro, N C, has been arrested in that city, brought here, and committed to jail to-day, to answer an indictment charging him with obtaining goods under false pretenses from merchants in this city. Trogden's creditors have notified those in Baltimore and Philadelphia of his arrest. His creditors have employed counsel to assist the Commonwealth's attorney in the prosecution. Trogden is confident that he can establish his innocence.
