Prop yer eyes wide open, Joey,
Fur I've brought you sumpin' great.
Apples? No, a durned sight better,
Ain't you got no interest? Wait—
Flowers Joe—I knowed you'd like 'em.
Ain't them scrumptious? Ain't them fine?
Tears, my boy? What's them for, Joey?
There! poor little Joe, don't cry!

was slippin' past a winder Where a bang up lady sot
All amongst a lot of bushes,
Each one climbin' from a pot.
Every bush had flowers on it,
Pretty? Mebbe not—oh no—
Wish you could ha seen 'em growirg,
It was sich a stunnin' show!

Well, I thought of you, -poor feller !-Lying here so sick and weak, Never knowing any comfort, So I puts on lots of cheek, "Missus," says I, "if you please, mum, Might I ax you for a rose?
For my little brother, missus, Never seed one, I suppose."

Then I told her all about you, How I bringed you up, poor Joe— Lackin' wimen folks to do it— Sich an imp you was, you know;
Till you got that awful tumble
Just as I had broke you in,—
Hard work too—to earn yer livin'
Blackin' boots for honest tin.

And how that tumble crippled of ye Till you couldn't hypper much: Joe it hurted when I seed you For the fust time on yer crutch.
"But," says I, "he's laid up now, mnm, 'Pears to weaken every day,' Joe, she up, and went a cuttin' That's the hew of this bokay.

Say, it seems to me old feller. You is quite yerself to-night, Kind o' chirk--it's been a fortnit Since yer eyes has been so bright. Better? Well, I'm glad to hear it, Yes, they's mighty pretty, Joe, Smellin' of 'em's made you happy? Well, I thought it would, you know.

Never seed the country did you? Flowers growing everywhere, Sometime when you's better, Joey, Mebbe I can take you there. Flowers in Heaven?-umph-I s'p'ose so. Dunno much about it though---Ain't as fly as wot I mought be On them topics, little Joe.

But I've heerd it whispered somewhere That in Heaven's golden gates
Things is everlastin' cheerful—
B'heve that's what the Bible states— Likewise there folks don't get hungry, So good people when they dies Finds themselves well fixed forever-Joe, my boy, what ails yer eyes?

Thought they looked a little simple Oh I no, don't you have no fear, Heaven was made for such as you is. Joe, what makes you look so queer?

Here! wake up, oh, don't look that way!

Joe, my boy, hold up yer head...

Here's yer flowers...you've dropped 'em, O my God I can Joe be dead 2

A Duel Between a Richmonder and a North Caro linian Prevented by the Arrest of the Parties.

[Special Telegram to the Richmond Dispatch.]

WILMINGTON, June 22.—Henry Bur-well, of Henderson, N.C., and Willie Manson, of Richmond, Va, en route to South Carolina, where they, it is alleged, had agreed to fight a duel. Mayor Harris, of Henderson, telegraphed Mayor Fishblate, of this city, and on his demand, Col H B Short, of Flemington, arrested the parties at that this city, whence they say they will return home. They are unreconciled. Mesers Egbert G Leigh, Jr, Charles P Stokes, of Richmond, and A L Hunt accompanied the party. It is stated that the difficulty arose in the follow-blows over his head and arms. The latter, gentleman was carrying his satchel in his hand, and was therefore unable to defend himself. Mr Burwell was accompanied by his brother, Mr Joe Burwell, Mr Barker and Mr "Great credit is due my colleague in Great credit is due my colleague in the lower bears and me to the control of the control Len Bullock, who prevented any one from interfering. Archælogical Discoveries Near Wilmington.

[From the Star, 22d.]

The attention of scientists has recently been attracted to the neighbor-hood of Mr A R Black, formerly sheriff hood of Mr A R Black, formerly sheriff of this county, upon Middle Sound, some ten miles east of this city, by the discovery there of large quantities of human remains of an unknown race and period, scattered at intervals along the ocean front of this plantation.—

Yesterday a party of gentlemen, consisting of Rev Dr Wilson, Mr Edward Kidder and Col Edward Cantwell, of the Historical Society, attended Mr Black, at his request, upon the opening of two mounds which he had discovered and which he conjectured concovered and which he conjectured con-tained some memorials of the aborigi-nal inhabitants. The party first pro-ceeded to examine the remains already described in this paper months ago, and of which two specimen skulls, it will be remembered, were exhibited to the Historical Society. Dr M J De-Rossett, late of this city, but now of New York, pronounced them of European origin. These bones appear to have been originally deposited in square pits about twelve feet in diameter, and to consist of fragments, some perfect and some fractured, mingled together confusedly and covered with heaps of oyster and clam shells, apparently deposited there a long time. The plantation has been in possession of the present owner and the Moore family for more than one hundred years. There is not the slightest record or tradition which explains the presence of these interesting European remains, probably centuries old, in this locality. Proceeding up the creek a little over a mile, Mr Black carried his visitors to a field near his house, in the corner of which the land rose some twelve or fifteen feet into broken knolls or ridges, covered with a thick forest growth, and consisting of the usual sandy soil, underlaid with clay and marl. In the neighborhood there is a large lake, some four or five hundred yards across, covered with water lillies of unusual size. There is also, as is usually the case in the neighborhood of Indian remains, a fine spring of cool, delicious water. The mounds are situated at twelve or fifteen feet above the level of the adjoining fields. Following the instructions of the Smithsonian Institute at Washington, for the opening and examination of these tumuli, Mr Black first caused a treneh to be dug from the circumference to the centre of the first mound, some twelve or fif-teen feet long and about four deep, without result, except in the exhuma-tion of a few fragments of charred bone, which from their great age could not be positively located. The examination of the second resulted in a very interesting discovery. Digging a circular well in the centre of the mound, at a depth of six or seven feet, there was found a circular deposit of charred coals, mingled with fragments of human bones, which had evidently lain there undisturbed for a long period of time, and in their original deposit. The gentlemen employed verified portions belonging to the human cranium, vertebræ, the clavicle, humerus, ing. The following ticket was nominated on the first ballot: For the Senate—Col J I Scales; for the House—Cyrus Wheeler and Joseph McLean; clerk of the Superior Court—J N Nelson; treasurer—W N Ragsdale; sheriff particular identification. Among the popular than the original deposition. The gentlemen employed verified portions belonging to the human cranium, vertebræ, the clavicle, humerus, ulna and phalangus. These fragments were, however, too minute for more particular identification. ing and unknown substance, resemb-ling mica, which they reserved for fur-ther examination, and a fine specimen of brown and transparent quarts. The persons to whom these bones belonged were evidently fastened together and burned at this spot, and afterwards covered with soil. Who they were, or what the occasion of their fate, is of course a matter of conjecture. Further course a matter of conjecture. Further explorations may determine their race and nation. We hope this article will have the effect of cailing the attention of archæologists to this interesting and unexpected discovery. A Serenade to Senator Merrimon

[Raleigh News, 22d.]

A serenade was on last night given Senator Merrimon on his return home, Harris, of Henderson, telegraphed Mayor Fishblate, of this city, and on his demand, Col H B Short, of Flemington, arrested the parties at that point. They were released on bail, and are now at the Purcell Heuse, in this city, whence they say they will return home. They are unreconciled. Mesers Egbert G Leigh, Jr. Charles P comfort I have come to meet you. It is sweet to a public servant to enjoy the respect of his fellow citizens; I recognize that fact here. I am deeply sensible of the honor you do me by this manifestation of your respect and stepping out of the cars he was as saulted by Mr Harry Burwell, who was samed with a heavy stick, with which he dealt Mr Manson several severe your midst. I trust to meet you and able to sustain your honor and dignity.

"Great credit is due my colleague in ed from exhaustion to cease speaking.

Hon T C Fuller then came forward, thanking the assemblage for the com-pliment to Senator Merrimon and briefly reviewing his distinguished services in the Senate.

An Item of Interest to Every Lady who Desires to be More Beautiful than she now is.

Unfortunately not one woman in a hundred, subjected to the whims of an American climate possesses that basis and starting point of real beauty—a pure and clear complexion.

What nature has thus denied, art must be called upon to furnish. It can be done; it is done daily. Prof. W. E. Hagan placed beauty within the reach of every unblessed daughter of Eve when he discovered that surprising article known in fashionable circles as the true secret of beauty, and called
