ELECTION, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 5Th.

THE CONVICTION OF H. C. SECREST.

The Observer has already informed its readers that the trial, in McDowell Superior Court, of the case of H. C. Secrest, for the murder of his wife and step-child in the spring of 1877, has resulted in the conviction of the prisoner. The case has excited unusual interest by reason of the peculiar circumstances surrounding it, and by reason of the ektreme barbarity of the act alleged against the defendant; and since the jury has found its verdict, and that verdict is a matter of public record, the case is a fit subject for public comment. We remark, therefore, that the finding of the jury gave no ground for surprise to those familiar with the testimony taken at the coroner's inquest, or to those who have read the evidence as adduced in the trial last week and published in the Observer. The defendant, accompanied by the woman and child, all in a authority of one. State concerns the buggy together, is traced from Union | whole people of the United States; but county, the home of all three, through the country to Newton, Catawba county, where Secrest and the woman are married. They go along the public road then in the direction of Icard Station, and the next day Secrest returns through the country, coming in the direction of Governor of South Carolina, to add Charlotte, driving the same mule to the same buggy; but now he is alone. Returning to his home in Union he gives out that Maggie Stevenson and Minnie, the child, went West from Charlotte on an emigrant ticket. Ten months later a grave is discovered in the woods near Icard Station, and in the grave the bones of an adult and a child. The hair, shoes, snuff-box and articles of clothing taken out of the grave are found to correspond with those of Mrs. Stevenson and her little daughter. This is the gist of for the defense is to the effect that the testified to material facts was able to is only intended to be temporary. prove a good character.

In the face of this testimony it is fifficult to understand how the verdict of the jury could have been other than what it was. The link in the chain of complete; so complete, indeed, that the jury was only half an hour, in reaching the conclusion that Secrest was a guilty man. If so, he is guilty of a fearful crime-of a foul and most unnatural Burke were so exasperated against him that when he was first carried to Mor- to be. ganton to be imprisoned he stood in imminent danger of lynching as the train passed Icard, near where the dead bodies were discovered. 1 0

It is true that no motive has thus far been made to appear for the commission of such a crime as that of which Secrest the woman was in possession of some testimony of Gertrude Bost, of Newton, who heard the prisoner say to deceased as they passed along the street in rear of the garden of the Bost House, at Newton, "If you ever tell it, d-n you,

I will kill you," or words to that effect. The case now goes to the Supreme Court, with which it remains to say whether Secrest shall have a new trial or whether the sentence of the law shall be executed upon him. The appeal, however, operates in the nature of a stay of execution, since the Supreme Court does not meet until January, and re-sentenced until next spring; and to prolong the life of the client to the latest possible day, rather than the hope of securing a final acquittal, was prohably the motive which prompted his counsel in praying an appeal to the court of last resort

SOURY REPUBLICAN PROSPECTS.

The Republican outlook for the fall elections is not encouraging to the members of that party. Maine has fooled them and it looks like New Hampshire even would go back on them: Leastways the well-informed Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun telegraphs that paper under date of the 23rd:

The New Hampshire Republicans, like their associates in Maryland, are in sad need of funds. Several emissaries from the State committee have arrived here, and are sending up a loud wail for help. From what they say it is doubt-ful, even, whether the most plentiful supply of funds would avail to "electrify" the people into electing the Republican ticket. As the funds here are very low it is not much that they will be able to get and to labels it

And worst of all Iowa is getting to be a doubtful State-Iowa which was heretofore never known to falter. The Greenbackers have done it with their litlittle hatchets. The same correspondent that we have quoted above, continues as follows:

The greenback oraze is, running like wildfire in Iowa. Senator Kirkwood, of that State, writes here that four Greenback Congressmen will be elected next month. Iowa has for a long time, almost without intermission, sent a solid Republican delegation to the House, The Greenbackers who are elected are very certain to vote with the Demo-

HAMPTON WRITES TO RICE-A MANLY AND A RINGING LETTER.

His Excellency Wade Ha npt ernor of South C rolina ha a to Governor Rice, o Masses the letter which we re-produce. This letter grows out of Rice's refusal to honor Governor Hampton's requisition for the thieving ex-Treasurer, Kimpton, and is just such a manly and dignified document as might have been expected. under the circumstances, from the South Carolina executive. We find the letter, as follows, in the Columbia Register of yesterday:

THE STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA. EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, COLUMBIA, September 24, 1878. To His Excellency Alexander H. Rice,

Governor, Beston, Mass. SIR: Owing to my unavoidable absence, your letter refusing to surrender Hiram H. Kimpton, a fugitive from justice, arrested in Massachusetts, for whose delivery upon indictment regularly found against him here for a crime committed in this State, Las the Governor of South Carolina, made de-mand upon you as the Governor of Massachusetts, in accordance with the constitution of the United States, and the act of Congress, passed in pursuance thereof, has not been previously replied to I regret that the chief executive of the great State of Massachusetts should have committed so flagrant a violation of the supreme law of the land-a violation irreparable in its nature, as the State suffering thereby has no possible redress. Had you confined yourself to giving a simple refusal to surrender the fugitive, I should make inasmuch as you have seen fit to base your actions on the ground that in your judgment the object in procuring the indictment against Patterson, Parker and Kimpton does not appear to be for that your statement is entirely unwarranted, and to repel the unworthy imputation, as I do, with indignant scorn.
I am your obedient servant, WADE HAMPTON, GOVERNOR.

THE BAY STATE DEMOCRACY. It Nominates Judge Abbott for Governor and Adopts a Hard Money Platform.

Boston, September 25.—The Democratic State convention met at Fanueil Hall at 11 o'clock, pursuant to adjournment, as voted by the State central committee at Worcester. Mr. Avery called the convention to order and spoke at length. The usual committees were abbointed

Gen. John S. Whitney was appointed chairman and addressed the convention. At the close of his speech, Josiah G. Abbott was nominated for governor by acclamation; lieut. governor, Wm. R Bunkett; secretary of State, Henry C. Dewing; treasurer and receiver, Gen. Fitzgerald; attorney-general, General Richard Olney. - -

Reuben Noble, of Westfield, made a motion that the Democratic committees throughout the State, calling conventions and caucuses, address the call to all Democrats who propose to support the candidates of this convention. When any such committees oppose the nominations of this convention, the members of the several councillors of the senatorial and district conventions be authorized to exclude such members from the convention.

After considerable discussion the resolution was indefinitely postponed. The platform declares that the policy of the Republican party throughout the United States has had a constant tendency to centralize the powers of the government in Washington; demands the overthrow of monopolies and the enactment and execution of such laws as shall protect the rights of labor as well as those of capital, not discriminating against either but framed for the mutual benefit of both; that the scheme intimated and carried into effect by the Republican party of providing a paper currency not redeemable in coin, and compelling the people to receive the same in payment of debt, is without authority of the constitution; Congress has no power to make any thing unless it be gold and silver legal tender; whatever power it may have to authorize the issue of notes to circulate as money, whether issued directly from the Treasury or indirectly through the banks, should be exercised only subject to certain restrictions, and no executive, officer of the government should have discretion to enlarge or contract the value of the currency; that the total amount of currency authorized should be fixed by law; that whatever that amount is it should be one that shall at every moment be redeemable in coin; that all coins of the same denomination shall be as nearly as possible of equal value; that whatever currency is issued by the government shall be redeemable by the gevernment in payment of public debts at its face value.

ROME, Sept. 25.—The Pope on receiving a number of piedmontese pilgrims. expressed pleasure that the season for oilgrimages had returned and that the first to arrive were citizens of Italy, a country destined to preserve within its bosom the See of the vicar of Christ. He said efforts are making to root out the faith, but the people of Italy would not allow it to be taken from them. He was confident that the Catholics of Italy would continue their allegiance to the Church, the more so because the difficulties of the Pontiff's position are becoming more serious, and the devoted sons of the Church ought to devise some just and legitimate means for ameliorating this situation.

TAMMANY IN A TANGENT. The New York Democracy in a Row-Tammany Wins the Day -The End Not Reached SYRACUSE, Sept. 25—The Democratic

State convention met here to-day. Hon. A. P. Laning was chosen temporary chairman. When the secretary began to call the roll a scene of great disorder ensued. The question being on the admission of contesting delegates, Jno. Kelly, of New York, said: "Year after year Tammany has come here and met with contestants, notwithstanding decisions that we are regular." He wanted the question settled now and forever. He hoped the chair would mallow the delegates from New York and Kings counties to vote. The chair stated that he had no other means of knowing who were members than the roll call submitted to him by the State committee. He therefore was obliged to take the roll, and had directed the secretary to call the county of Kings. Mr. Weed called attention to the fact that notwithstanding the chair had the roll of the State committee, notice had been given that New York and Kings counties were contested. The chair directed the secretary to call Kings county to vote on the question. Weed appealed from this decision and the uproar was tremendous. Peckham, Weed and others filled the aisles, shouting and threatening. The mayor and police en-tered the hall and insisted that the members take their seats. Some resisted, and every one was on his feet, while the hall resounded with confusion. Mr. Weed had half a dozen police about him trying to get him off the seat he had mounted, but he defied them. The police were finally withdrawn to the front of the stage.

The resolution which was the cause of the rumpus was carried. It says that whereas a delegation from New York commonly known as the Tammany delegation and a delegation from Kings, known as the McLaughlin delegation, having been repeatedly recognized by the State convention as the regular delegation, and having been so recognized after the contest at the last Democratic convention, and the facts of the regularity being the same as then; and whereas it is unjust to disfranchise so large a Democratic constituency, therefore resolved, that the delegates be allowed to take their seats and participate in the proceedings of the conven-

A motion to reconsider was declared lost amid great cheering, At 4.30 a recess was taken, and those who did not sympathize with the action taken, left the hall to meet at the Park Opera House. These dissenters passed a resolution denouncing the action of Temporary Chairman Laning in usurping the powers of the convention in the interest of Tammany Hall, and determined to return to Wieting Opera House and fight it out.

MADLY IN LOVE WITH HIS COUSIN.

And Shoots Her Because She Rejected His Offer of Marriage.

OLEAN, N. Y., September 20.—At least two hundred men are scouring the woods of southern McKean county, Pa., in search of Andrew Tracy, a lawyer of Smithport, who shot and killed Mary Reilly in that village on Wednesday night. Miss Reilly was Tracy's cousin. She lived with her parents on a farm two miles from Smithport. She was exceedingly handsome and accomplished, and Tracy was madly in love with her. A fortnight ago he proposed to her and was rejected. On Wednesday Miss Reilly was in Smithport visiting friends. In the evening she was out walking with Belle Mullin, with whom she intended spending the night. The two girls saw on the street Andrew Tracy and his friend, Frank McCabe. The young men were behind the girls. "I don't want to meet Andrew," said Miss Reilly to her friend; "let us hurry on home." It was about 81/2 o'clock. The girls hurried on. When they reached the gate of Miss Mullin's residence, on Main street, a man ran up behind them. They both turned quickly to see who it was. The man drew a pistol and shot Miss Reilly through the brain. she dropped dead on the powder from the pistol burned Miss Mullin's face, and the concussion threw her to the sidewalk also. The man ran rapidly away. A large crowd soon collected. The pistol ball had entered Miss Reilly's left temple and passed clear through her Miss Mullin had no suspicion as to who the murderer was, as he had not been recognized by her. It was mid-night before it was ascertained that Andrew Tracy had fired the fatal shot. Then a crowd of men went to his mother's house. Mrs. Tracy and John, another son, were the only ones at home. They denied all knowledge of Andrew's whereabouts at first, saying that he had gone to Port Alleghany that day, and had not returned. Mrs. Tracy after-ward acknowledged that her son had come home about 9 o'clock, greatly agitated. He said: "Mother I have committed a fearful crime, and must fly from this place. You will never see me again." He took a loaf of bread and a quilt, saying that he should need both in the timber, and then fled to the woods. All efforts thus far to find him have proved fruitless. If he had been captured yesterday he would have been lynched. It is not possible for him to escape alive. Tracy was a promising young lawyer, and well thought of. He is 25 years of age. Miss Reilly was 23. STATE NEWS.

MYSTERIES OF YELLOW FEVER.

Is the Pestilence Infectious ?- An Unprofessional Opinion.

[New Orleans Times.]

That the hypothesis of contagious or infectious will not answer for yellow fever is sufficiently shown in the fact that other places, subject to daily and hourly and most intimate intercourse with New Orleans, and lying in the socalled yellow fever belt, have thus far remained entirely free. What the real explanation is, no one at this moment can even conjecture. Science fails as utterly here, as it has failed to state any proposition touching the origin of the disease or nature of the germ and propagation-any proposition, at least, which appeals to the reason of intelligent men. An unprofessional person called upon to pronounce judgment, would be apt to say that this thing we call yellow fever is, in the United States, simply a malignant type of the billious or malarial fever, liable to break out spontaneously in any place where the sanitary and atmospheric conditions favored its development. If this be not true, why does it devastate small interior towns. quarantined to the point of extinction, while its spares suburbs of New Orleans in hourly communication with the fever foci? Why or how did it appear in Gallipolis, on the Ohio river, more than seventy-five years ago, at a time when a journey from New Orleans consumed two or three months, or more, and when, to build up a theory of infection from here, one must assume that the yellow fever prevailed here in March? The truth is that the infection hypothesis will not stand the simplest test of experience and fact. Where one set of events seem to support that hypothesis, another set, equally genuine, contradiets it as positively.

Of course the unprofessional opinion above described, would be indignantly secuted by the doctors, just as any opinion advanced by any of them is derisively pooh-poohed by the rest of the fraternity and received gingerly, to put it mildly, by the rest of the world. Nevertheless it is as good and respectable a proposition as any in the field. The fact is that at this season the fever has wandered at its own sweet will all over the Southwest, skipping one locality and pouncing upon another, though both have suffered equally from the dangers of infection, and generally demolishing the most heary traditions of the disease. If nothing else has been proved, we think it safe to say that no one will question our proposition that the total absence of any specific knowledge has been proved, and, such being the case. yellow fever becomes at once a national peril and a national calamity.
