Love's joy and pain;
"How long," he asked, "will you remember this?" "How long?" She lifted from his breast her cheek Red with sacred love, Yet when her redder lips essayed to speak, And when her heart did move

To answer grave and sweet, "How long, how long will I remember this? Say you," she murmured low— Say you,"—and while she trembled with her bliss, That smile went to and fro Across her flushing face, And hid a grayer grace— "Say you, how long will you remember this?" He bent above her in that moment's bliss, He held her close and fast; "How long, how long will I remember this? Until I cross at last,

With falling, dying breath, That river men call Death— So long, so long, will'I remember this." But, when apart they stood, did he remember His words that summer day?
Did he remember through the long December
The warmth and love of May,
The warmth and love, and bliss,
The meaning of that kiss,

A WORD FROM TILDEN.

WHAT HE HAS TO SAY FOR HIMSELF. He Repudiates the Cipher Telegrams and Makes a Few Remarks About Negotiating for Electoral Votes. NEW YORK, October 17.—1 p.m.—The following card from Mr. Tilden has been given to the press: "I have read the publications in the Tribune of the 8th instant, purporting to be translations of cipher telegrams relating to the gapping of votes in Florida at the Presi canvass of votes in Florida at the Presidential election of 1876, and have looked over those printed in the Tribune of this morning, relating to the canvass in South Carolina. I have no knowledge no appeal from its decision, was declarof the existence of these teelgrams, nor NEW GOODS: any information about them, except what has been derived from or since the publications of the Tribune. So much for these telegrams generally.

I shall speak yet more specifically as to some of them. First, those which relate to an offer purporting to have been made in behalf of some members of the State board of canvassers of Florida, to give for a pecuniary com-pensation certificates to the Democratic electors who had been actually None of these telegrams, nor any telegram communicating such an offer, or answering such an offer or relating to such an offer, were seen by me, translated to me, or the contents of it in any manner made known to me.

I had no knowledge of the existence or purport of any telegram relating to that subject, nor did I believe the fact that such an offer of the Florida certificates had been made until after the 6th of December, at which time the certificates were divided and the electoral vote cast.

The information casually reached me as of a past event. It was accompanied by the statement that the offer had been rejected.

Secondly, as to the publication in the Tribune of this morning, purporting to be a translation of cipher telegrams relating to the canvass of votes in South Carolina in 1876, which I have seen since I wrote the foregoing, I can speak of them no less definitely or posi-canvassers of any State to the Demoty; no negotiation of any such member, as a black-gum post!" or to influence the action of any elector of President and Vice-President by such motives was ever entertained, considered or tolerated by me or by anybody within my influence, by my consent or with my knowledge or acquiescence.

No such contemplated transaction could at any time have come within range of my power without that power being instantly exerted to crush it out. A belief was doubtless current that certificates from Florida conforming to the actual vote of the people were in the market. I have not the slightest doubt in the world," said Mr. Saltonstall, who was in Florida at the time, in a recent interview with the Herald, "that the Florida vote could have been bought favor of the Democratic candidate who lacked but one vote."

How accessible to venal inducements they were is shown by the testimony of McLin, the chairman of the board of State canvassers, in his examination before the Potter committee in June last. He admitted that the true vote of the people of Florida was in favor of the Democratic electors, and that fact even appeared on the face of the county returns, including the true return from Baker county, not with standing the great frauds against the Democrats in some of the county returns. He confessed that in yoting to give certificates to the Republican electors, he acted under the influence of promises that he should be rewarded in case Mr. Hayes became President. Adding 'certainly these promises must have had a strong control over my judgment and action.'

After the certificates of the Louisiana returning board had been repeatedly offered to Mr. Hewett and others for money, they were given in favor of the Republican electors, who had been rejected by a large majority of the voters, and members of this board now possess the most important Federal offices in that State.

that none of these corrupt boards gave their certificates to the Democratic electors, but they all did give them to Republican electors. I had a perfectly fixed purpose from which I never deviated in word or act, a purpose which was known to or assumed by all with whom I was in habitual communication. If the Presidency of the United States was to be disposed of by certificates pendence. To have surrendered or compromised the advantages of this position by a degrading competition for returning bond certificates would have been to abandon all that made victory desirable-everything which struggles that victory would have imposed upon me. I was resolved to go into the presidential chair in full command of all my resources for usefulness, or not at all. While thus abstaining from an ignominious competition for such certificates, I saw these certificates as obtained for the Republican electors who had been chosen by the people. These false and fraudulent certificates now confessed and proven to have been obtained by corrupt inducements, were afterwards made the pretexts for taking from the people their rightful choice for the Presidency and Vice-Presidency These certificates were declared by the tribunal to which Congress had abdicated the functions of deciding the count of disputed electoral votes to be absolute and indisputable consequence of the title to the Chief Magistracy of the nation. Florida, which had united all her executive, legislative and judicial powers to testify to Congress long before the count, who were then genuine agents, which had, by statute, caused a recanvass, the issue of new certificates, and a formal sovereign authentication of the right of true electors to deposit votes entitled to be counted, was held to be incapable of communicating to Congress, a fact which cannot now be disputed. Congress, though vested by the constitution with authority to count the electoral votes, though unrestricted either as to the time when it should receive evidence or as to the nature of [Fayetteville Gazette.] A correspondent writes to us, giving some remarkable information regarding Mr. Henry Sessoms, of Blockersville, in this county. He will have attained the extraordinary age of 105 years some time during this month. He is the grandfather of Mr. Kelly Sessoms, a well-known and esteemed citizen of the county. The old gentleman was never beyond the borders of the State of North Carolina; he retains his mental faculties to a wonderful degree, but his sight is very dim, and he is almost entirely deaf.

> S. J. TILDEN. "The Oldest Inhabitant."

Since writing the above we have gathered some additional facts regarding Mr. Sessoms, from his grandson. He has not only never been out of the State, but, although living almost on the banks of the Cape Fear, he has never been to Wilmington, and he could count on his fingers the number of times he has been to Fayetteville. Every day for twenty-five years a loco-motive has been steaming out from the depot here, but Mr. Sessoms has never looked upon the railroad track or beheld a train of cars. Imbued with all the Anglo Saxon love of home, he has been best content to pass his days about the old homestead, and to enjoy No one of such telegrams, either in cipher or translated, was ever shown to or its contents made known to me. No offer or negotiation in behalf of the State canvassers of SouthiCarolina, or any of them, or any dealing with any of them, in respect to the certaficates to the electors was ever authorized or the elector was ever elector to the elector elector was ever elector to the elector cipher or translated, was ever shown to the hours of his leisure under his own ly or through any other person.

I will add that no offer to give the certification of the disciples of Galen!) In the words of one of his descendants, "Were he not tificates of any returning board or State | blind he could do some right good work now, for he is hale and vigorous, but if cratic electors in consideration of he got started on a job he would never promises of office, or money, or proper- hear the dinner-horn, for he is as deaf

the Florida vote could have been bought if Mr. Tilden had been dishonorable enough to desire it done for a great deal less than $50,000 or $20,000. It was known that either one of the two members who composed a majority of the Florida State canvassers could control its action and give certificates to the Democrats; either one of them could settle the Presidential controversy in to be won from corrupt returning boards by any form of venal inducements, whether of offices or money, I was resolved to take no part in the shameful competition, and I took none. The main interest of the victory which resulted in my election was the expectation that through the Chief Magistracy a system of reforms similar to that which has been accomplished in our metropolis and State administration could be achieved in the Federal government. For this object it was necessary I should be untrammelled by any commitment in the choice of men to execute the official trust of the government, and untrammelled by any obigations to special interests.
