WEED OF CHRECTION OF PROCESSIVE

RERWANGER & BROLL The States known as the South will cease to be sectionalized in politics just as soon as they are actually and consciously freed from the adverse outside pressure which has so long been maintained by politicians who find their chief resources in sectional acrimonies and recriminations. Do away with sectional issues, and the solid South will dissolve. Given the first condition, the other comes as a natural sequence. Do away with sectional issues, and the machinations of the Grant clique for the presidential battle in 1880 will be so thoroughly disconcerted that Grant and Grantism, Conkling and Conklingism. Blaine and Blaineism, Chandler and Chandlerism and all such characters, such methods and such morals will be utterly disarmed for further mischief before another presidential canvass opens. All the hopes of this clique are solid North against a solid South. It is essential to the game that the South should be stung and provoked into unitel and persistent adhesion to one party. It is also essential to the game that circumstances should be so shaped as to give a specious guise to the theory that the whole colored vote is rightfully Republican, and that in so far as it is not Repubican it is amalgamated by force and terror with a solid voting mass of whites against the Republican party. It is a game that contemplates, in a poss. ble contingency, the virtual disfranchisement of the opposition, on the ground that Southern solidity means a new rebellion and a mighty usurpatior. But it is not certain that the game will be accommedated with the requisite conditions. At this moment it is evident that the organs of the Grant clique have exaggerated the extent to which sectionalism operated in determining the successes of the Republican party in the North, or the success of the Democratic party in the South. "It is perceptible that new issues having no rcference to the war or the reconstruction Northern States momentarily unfavor- ton to live. able to the Democratic party, and in the South brought influences into play calculated to break up in a perfectly legitimate manner the old Republican solidity of the colored vote. While the solidity of the colored vote is thus broken, the South in general is by no means as solid in point of party adbesion as the politicians whose fortunes are staked on the game in question have clamorously represented. Two Republican congressmen are elected in North Carolina, where there was before have held their ground. A solid Alabama delegation is broken by the election of one independent. The fact is that things are ripe for a healthy division of the Southern whites on issues apart from old sectional grudges. Such a division of the whites of a gentleman of this city, who has would be attended with a corresponding division of the colored vote. The voting masses in the South are no more the country, including two or three of prepared than the voting masses in the the Greenback Congressmen elect. GOV. HAMPTON'S CONDITION.

Last Friday and Saturday there was great alarm throughout South Carolina by reason of a decided change for the worse in the condition of Gov. Hampton. Surgeons were telegraphed for and hurried to Columbia from Charleston and Augusta by special trains, and the matter of immediate amputation of the broken leg was under consideration. During Sunday, however, the condition of the patient commenced to improve and it was resolved that extreme measures were not necessary. Since that time he has grown much better, and the federate operations for the first year of Columbia Register, of yesterday, says editorially:

The condition of Gov. Hampton was much improved last evening, and we Confederate chieftains. The movement is not attracting much attention, perhaps, among other reasons, for the fact that, with two or three exceptions, rather obscure individuals are engaged in it. The Greenbackers have determined to try their hands at constitutional amend-ments, and will petition Congress to pass some of their tenets in that shape.

THE CONFEDERATE ARCHIVES. The Secretary of War will ask of Congress an appropriation for the publication of the Confederate archives and records. The Secretary of War in July last appointed as the editor and compiler of these records Gen. Marcus of Tennessee. The secretary considered that it would be best to appoint a Confederate officer for this work, not only because exception could not be taken to the work as being in an unfriendly or partial hand, but because many documents and other memoran-da would be furnished which otherwise would not be swalable. Gen. Wright, since entering on his duties, has performed a great deal of labor. He has already completed, so far as may be, a connected history of the official Conthe war. He has had placed at his dis-posal all the papers of the Southern Historical Society, also the order and telegraph books of most of the leading Confederate Secretary of State. It is designed to make this publication of propriation bills on the second day of the Confederate records as complete as the session is unprecedented in the his-the Confederate records as complete as those of the United States operations, if the material can be obtained, and it is thought there will be no difficulty in this. An exceedingly valuable contribution to history will thus be obtained. In connection with this subject it will be of public interest to state that the loss of the son of Mr. Davis by yellow fever, and the illness of both Mr. and Mrs. Davis, have caused some delay in the preparation of the personal memoirs of the President of the Southern Confederacy. But it is thought that the work will be put to press some time in the spring. So great is the public the session is unprecedented in the history of the House.

At the conclusion of the morning business, Mr. Matthews, of Ohio, called up the Texas Pacific Railroad bill and addressed the Senate at length in favor thereof.

Matthews, in advocating the Texas Pacific Railroad bill, said the bill should be passed as a matter of justice to the Southern States. He believed that if the bill became a law, it beneficent influence would not be felt in the South alone but throughout the whole country. At the conclusion of Matthews' remarks the bill resumed its place upon the calendar.

Senator Allison, who is chairman of the committee of investigation which was appointed on motion of Senator Matthews last session, intends to call a meeting for next Saturday, when arrangements will probably be made for prosecuting the required inquiries. It is not unlikely that the Senate will devolve upon this committee the investigation called for by Mr. Blaine's resolution concerning violations of the election laws.

There was an executive session of the Senate to-day, but no business was transacted except to refer the President's nominations to appropriate committees. A large number of recess appointments were sent to the Senate to-day, including the nominations of Messrs. Merritt, Graham and Burt as custom officers at New York City, and Mr. Hillhouse, assistent treasurer at New York. The following nominations were made for the New Orleans mint: Henry S. Foote, of Mississippi, superintendent; Maximillian Ferdinand Bonzono, of Louisiana, refiner; Jas. Albrecht, of Louisiana, assayer; Newton Davis, of Pennsylvania, coiner.

Among the nominations sent to the Senate, to-day, of persons appointed during the recess, was that of John S. Mosby, to be United States consul at Hong Kong, and Sam. W. Johnson, to be collector of customs at Corpus Chris-

A Problem Long Since Solved.

How to remedy those prolific causes of disease, an impoverished circulation and an impaired digestion, was a problem the solution of which had often baffled medical skill, but which was solved over a quarter of a century ago by the introduction of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters to public and professional notice. Since that time, which may well be said to have initiated a new epoch in the history of medicine, the remedy and preventive referred to has obtained a foothold in the confidence of the American people that each succeeding year has only served to strengthen. It is recognized throughout the Union as a tonic of the first order, a remedy Shenandoah River, at Port Republic, in for and sure means of preventing fever and ague, and disorders of the stomach and bowels; as a reliable means of reforming a disordered state of the liver, and of counteracting a tendency to rheumatism, gout, urinary and uterine disorders.
