SATURDAY, DECEMBER 21, 1878. OUR SENATORS IN THE RECENT DISCUSSIONS.

In the recent debates which have growing out of Mr. Blaine's investigahave borne prominent and honorable posed to shuffle off their barden of thebt by repudiation. political controversies their partyfriends Journal hits it squarely between the invariably vanquish the adversary, it eyes: is but truth to say that in the recent instances the North Carolina Senators defeated Mr. Blaine both in their studied arguments and in the colloquial debates in which they measured arms with him. The text of the speech of Senator Merrimon, delivered in the Senate last Tuesday in reply to that of Mr. Blame, of Wednesday a week ago, is just to hand in the Congressional Record. It occupies more than seven columns of that journal. It is exhaustive, labored, argumentative, and its force was not broken by the remark of Mr. Blaine, at its conclusion, that "the Senator from North Carolina was probably addressing an the striking to the careful observer. The assemblage soon to meet at Raleigh anti-Vance writers are now urging rather than the Senate that is before daily that he is such an excellent goy: him to-day." Mr. Merrimon's speech ernor that it would be next to eniminal closed with the following truthful and in a Legislature to deprive the State of forcible utterances:

ply one remark made by the Senator from Maine a moment ago. What . wish to say is that of all the curses that have beset the Southern people in the Southern States since the war, I believe that agitations like that now going on in the Senate chamber are the greatest. I believe the South would be happy, would be filled up with capital and immigration but for the fact that capital and immigration have been frightened away by slanders like those that are proclaimed not only from this point but from a thousand other points against the Southern people. Notwithstanding these misrepresentations and slanders, in many of the Southern States immense amounts of capital are there profitably invested. I know many Northern citi zens who have gone into my own State, and many of them are among the best there. They are hopeful; they are prosperous; they encourage others to go there. I wish this agitation would been a Republican? And how it alleg- house of the last Legislature, is dead. tion that goes to the West would go South; and the day is not distant when | it will do so. But I must say that I trust the Senate will vote down the res- a quality much more to be admired. olution, and frown on everybody who engages in agitation.

In rejoinder to this Mr. Blaine asked a question:

Before the Senator sits down will he pared with ten years ago?

Judge Merrimon responded that he could not undertake to state. Senator second. I cannot state to the Senator from Maine specifically or exactly how many there are but I can assure him of the fact that the number of Northern men who have settled in North Carolina in the last ten years is very large, and I think I can very truly, I know can most sincerely say that as a general rule they are doing very well.

Let me be a little more particular.

There is a large settlement, rather what we in North Carolina would call a large settlement, at Elizabeth City. I think a friend of the Senator from Maine is there, the chief, if I may say so, of that settlement. They are doing uncommonly well. They are engaged in manufactures, slightly in commerce, and in agriculture. On the Roanoke River, at a hood of Guilford, there is another large settlement of Northern people. I see from the papers that a large colony have recently purchased land in the mountains of North Carolina and memountains of North Carolin tains of North Carolina and propose to make that their home. It is so all over the State. They had been following the lines of the rivers and along the lines of the railroads, and now they are going out into the mountain region of North Carolina off the lines of railroads,

I beg leave to say furthermore to the Senator from Maine and to the country that those people are satisfied with their own homes, and invariably, when they have come as good men, regardless of political associations or what we may consider partisan prejudices, they have been taken by us by the hand. We regard them as our friends and fellowcitizens, and they regard us as theirs. Marriages have taken place between them and natives of the State; partner-ships have occurred between them. The face of the Senator from New York (Mr. Conkling) now reminds me that I introduced but a few days ago to his colleague a distinguished gentleman from his own State with whom I had the honor to be a partner in a small transaction, with a great deal of hope. I fear not too much reality, in North Carolina. I regret that I cannot state the exact number of such cases, but that would be impossible to arrive at. I wish the Senator from Maine could see them. If I had it in my power today I do not know any argument that I be $51 for the same time. could present to the country that would ing disposition of our people, and of our impending extinction. truth and fidelity to the nation.

The answer was complete-all the more so since the facts bear out all the statements of the distinguished gentleman. At this stage of the debate Mr. Blaine drew in his horns. He had been answered to his conviction if not to his satisfaction, and he wisely concluded that there was nothing for him to make by a prolongation of the controversy.

It may have been because he had to bear the brunt of the fight without aid from his Republican colleagues; it may have been owing to the fact that he was on the wrong side of the question. Whatever the reason it is quite certain that from first to last throughout the debate which continued sporadically for more than a week over his resolution, failure in that Territory, declaring that

WASHINGTON, December 20.—SENATE. -Mcst of the morning hour was occupied in discussing the order of business after the holiday recess, but the Senate declined to make any special order.

Beck, of Kentucky called up the bill reported yesterday from the committee on the revision of the laws to repeal section 820 of the revised statutes of the United States, prescribing additional causes of disqualification and challenge of grand and petit juries in the courts of the United States, and submitted an amendment thereto to repeal section 820 of the revised statutes prescribing the test oath for iuries in United States courts, and a debate followed. After some discussion on the bill to repeal section 820 of the revised statutes, Hoar, of Massachusetts, said it was evident that this bill could not be passed to-day and he therefore moved to adjourn, but subsequently withdrew the motion at the request of Edmunds, who moved that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business. This motion was supported by the Republicans and opposed by the Democrats. The vote resulted yeas, 25, nays, 25. It being a tie vote the Vice President voted in the affirmative and the Senate, at 1:20, went into executive Session.

The Senate passed the bill to repeal section 820 of the revised statutes and adjourned until the 7th of January.

Ease Attainable by the Rheumatic. Yes, although they may despair of relief, it is attainable by rheumatic sufferers, for there is a remedy which carries off, by means of increased activity of the kidneys-important channels for blood purification—the acrid element to which pathologists the most eminent attribute the painful symptoms—a theory completely borne out by urin ary analysis. The name of this grand depurent is Hostetters, a preparation likewise celebrated as a Hostetters, a preparation likewise celebrated as a remedy for constipation, which causer contamination of the blood with the bile—and a certain means of relief in dyspepsia, fever and ague, and nervous aliments. It is, perhaps, the finest tonic extant, and is highly recommended as a medicinal stimulant by distinguished physicians and analysts who pronounce it to be eminently pure and very benefited. The press also endorses it beneficial. The press also endorses it.

An Astonishing Fact.

A large proportion of the American people are to-day dying from the effects of Dyspepsia or disordered liver. The result of these diseases upon the masses of intelligent and valuable people is the masses of intelligent and valuable people is most alarming, making life actually a burden instead of a pleasant existence of enjoyment and usefulness as it ought to be. There is no good reason for this, if you will only throw aside prejudice and skepticism, take the advice of Druggists and your friends, and try one bottle of Green's August Flower, your speedy relief is certain. Millions of bottles of this medicine have been given away to try its virtues, with satisfactory results in every case. You can buy a sample bottle for 10 cents to-try. Liverpool Cotton Brokers' Association says: Considerable business was done in the early part of the week, a large proportion being for exports. American cotton was nearly a farthing higher on Tues-day. On Wednesday the market was quieter and the improvement was partly lost, but to-day (Thurs day) it is again firmer. American is about is above the price of last Thursday, with a good demand. In Sea Island business has been very limited. Prices unchanged. Futures advanced a farthinga5-16 by Monday and then declined to 3-16d, the market remaining dull until Wednesday afternoon, when there was a strong re-action, which increased in orce, the market closing at the highest prices o
