

THE LEGISLATURE.

(Special Observer.)

February 14.

Mr. McEachern, a bill to establish a new county, to be called Scotland, out of portions of Robeson and Richmond counties, was introduced.

Mr. Dorch called up, under a suspension of the rules, the bill for the relief of the sureties of Jonas Chime, late sheriff of Catawba county. Mr. Henderson explained the bill, which is to authorize the collection of arrears of taxes, and it passed its several readings and was ordered to be enrolled.

The unfinished business of yesterday, House bill to abolish the office of State Geologist, was resumed, the question being on the substitute of Mr. Davidson for the amendment of Mr. Merritt. Mr. Merritt withdrew his amendment.

Mr. Austin was for the unconditional abolition of the office. Two years ago the office had been stigmatized as a nuisance, and no new light had been thrown upon the matter since. It was strange that all the wealth trumpeted to the Senate as the results of the survey should be kept in the dark, and no attempt made to make it known to the people. He could not account for this apathy—there was a screw loose somewhere. He did not desire his remarks to be construed into an attack upon the geologist as a man, but upon the people he demanded something for their money expended in this matter.

Mr. Austin called up Mr. Taylor, who had nothing to say against Prof. Kerr or his qualifications, but to get rid of the incumbent, and would support the amendment of Mr. Davidson, particularly as it provided for the continuance of the survey.

Mr. Erwin was surprised to hear the purpose proclaimed to strike down a department of the government to get rid of an obnoxious incumbent, or from mere pique. He had hoped to see Senators busy in the State House, and not in the streets, and in reply to Mr. Austin he had read, as part of his remarks, the "Protest of the Mining Board of Charlotte," protesting against the abolition of the office of State Geologist. This board, Mr. Erwin said, was not only the Mining Board of Charlotte, but of the whole Piedmont region. He trusted Senators who pleaded ignorance of the results of the survey as a reason for its abolition, and pointed to the large sums invested in mines and mining as the results of Prof. Kerr's labors.

Mr. Erwin was in favor of the geological survey and of fully developing the resources of the State. But men should be honest before being generous. He desired the credit of the State to be re-established and the State brought back to the honesty of its old days.

Mr. Alexander asked Mr. Erwin if he would vote against the $50,000 appropriation to the Western North Carolina Railroad till the State's credit shall be restored.

Mr. Erwin, in reply, said that the Western North Carolina Railroad was one of the grandest enterprises on the continent, and promised the richest returns for the proposed outlay. In this view the work should be pushed forward and the needed supplies voted. Returning to the question before the Senate, he went on to show that notwithstanding the gigantic efforts of the geological survey and the agricultural department during the last two years, the taxable value of the property of the State had decreased seven millions of dollars—instead of an increase this decrease started in the face, and this on the authority of the State Treasurer.

Mr. Scates defended the State Geologist, and insisted he had been assailed on insufficient grounds, and without adequate reasons.

Mr. Everett, in reply to Mr. Austin, said that it was the Senator's own fault to be in ignorance of what had been done for his county (Union). Mr. Everett had that morning visited the geological museum and found from 50 to 75 specimens of metals and minerals from Union. He defended Prof. Kerr, spoke of his unassuming and unobtrusive bearing, and insisted that with the means at his disposal he had done his duty, and had done it well.

Mr. Vanhook spoke in support of the bill and against the amendment.

Mr. Scott argued in favor of the bill, and that his citizens wanted the bill.

Mr. Norment argued in opposition to the bill, and submitted an amendment to submit the question to the voters of the county.

Mr. Vanhook spoke in support of the bill and against the amendment.

Mr. Scott argued in favor of the bill, and that his citizens wanted the bill.

Mr. Scott argued in favor of the bill, and that his citizens wanted the bill.

Mr. Norment argued in opposition to the bill, and submitted an amendment to submit the question to the voters of the county.

Mr. Vanhook spoke in support of the bill and against the amendment.

Mr. Davidson's substitute, and quoted from the message of Gov. Vance to show that his views concurred with the policy suggested by the Governor. He insisted that the General Assembly was powerless to abolish the office, the amended constitution (Art. 9, section 14) being made a part of the fundamental law of the State. He deprecated the attacks made upon the incumbent, and said if they were true, both the office and the man should be abolished.

As the point of the debate, on motion of Mr. Davidson, Gov. Jarvis, who had just entered the hall, was invited to a seat on the floor.

Mr. Caldwell, in the debate, he disclaimed any ill feeling toward Prof. Kerr, and eulogized him; but he had a duty to perform, and would do it despite all outside influences. The great results of the geological survey, as he stated, were the discovery of the correctness of Mr. Leach's interpretation of the constitution in regard to the office of geologist. He was straight out for abolishing the office until he saw the results. Superficial surveys, like partial analyses of fertilizers, he regarded as delusive.

Mr. Alexander again took the floor and showed that the proposition to abolish the office of geologist was destructive to the usefulness of both. The average income of the Agricultural Department for the last two years had been $18,000, and the opposition came from those who failed to be provided with gold mines at their doors.

Mr. Waldo deprecated the introduction of sectional feeling. His people were opposed to the whole affair, and considered it of no good.

Mr. Ormand moved to lay the whole matter on the table. Rejected—yeas 18, nays 28.

Mr. McEachern moved to adjourn. Rejected—yeas 7, nays 33.

Mr. Williamson's amendment was then adopted, accepted by Mr. Davidson—yeas 38, nays 8.

The previous question was then called upon Mr. Davidson's amendment, and it passed its second reading. Under a suspension of the rules it also passed its third reading—yeas 37, nays 9.

Mr. Dorch moved to reconsider this vote and lay the motion to reconsider on the table. Adopted.

The special order, the bill to change the name and authorize the Western Railroad Company to change its name to that of the Mount Airy Railroad, was postponed and made the special for 11 o'clock Thursday next.

books of the same in order, and prescribed the method by which such books may go on the lands of another for such purpose. It passed a yeas and nays.

Bill to incorporate the town of Matthews, Mecklenburg county. The names of the officers in the bill were further amended by Mr. Ardrey, and the bill passed.

Resolution in relation to the Albemarle and Chesapeake canal company. Mr. Blaisdell spoke in favor of the resolution, and said Mr. Turner, Mr. Turner moved to amend by providing that no member of the committee shall accept any wine orysters from any member of the association to be investigated. This amendment was lost and the resolution passed the second time.

Mr. Turner moved to amend by requiring the committee to arrest and hold over any persons who are found to be in violation of the law. This amendment was voted down and the resolution passed a third time.

Bill to relieve farmers from special taxes on the sale of grain in trucks, &c. It passed a yeas and nays.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES. February 15.

Bill to change the time of holding the Superior court in the eighth judicial district. It passed a yeas and nays.

Mr. Council opposed the bill. Mr. Berry wanted the bill passed. As there seemed to be a difference of opinion in regard to the necessity of a change in the time, the bill was postponed.

Bill for the removal of causes, where the ends of justice absolutely require it. Mr. Atkinson spoke in favor of the bill. On the call of the previous question, the bill passed its third reading.

A bill to punish tramps. If they will leave the county jail, and then to make them in custody, they are forbidden to carry arms. Mr. Norment opposed the bill; his idea of a tramp was a poor man, and he thought the vagrancy law was sufficient. Mr. Dorch moved to lay the whole matter on the table. Rejected—yeas 18, nays 28.

Mr. McEachern moved to adjourn. Rejected—yeas 7, nays 33.

Grocery and Glassware.

Having met with such flattering success in the Wholesale and Retail Grocery business since I opened last November, and from the fact that I have received many orders from merchants in North and South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama, I am confident that my success is certain.

Owing to the above facts I have been compelled to enlarge my business a hundred per cent. I compete with any Northern "Jobbing House" in prices, &c. All my ware I buy directly from the Factories; therefore it does not pass through second hands, and I am enabled to sell goods as low as they can be bought at the NORTH.
