PROTECTION OF THE COURTS. A Few Words from Judge Kerr's Charge to the Grand Jury.

In his charge to the grand jury, yesterday morning, at the opening of the Superior Court, Judge Kerr, in the clean cut English by which his public speeches are characterized, said something like this: A gentleman of Virginia, who had often sat in the courts of his own Stale and of Nor h Carolina, I imself a cultivated and learned man once recultivated and learned man, once remarked to him that the system of administering justice in the courts of this State was the most perfect he had ever seen in operation or read of. He believed this to have been true until in these latter years. By some most lieved this to have been true until in these latter years. By some means or other, he hardly knew what, the old forms were gradually drifting out of use, and their places filled by cheap modes of administering justice. This will be taken up. This reversal of the usual order of business is due to the usual order of business is due to the ciple which seemed now to be governing the American people, to-wit: That the object of life is to make and save money. "I believe," said he, "that it was a great misfortune to the human race that Benjamin Franklin was averaged and the Inferior Court having disposed of the criminal cases that fell in its jurisdiction, the criminal docket of the race that Benjamin Franklin was ever born. He had printed in Poor Richard's Almanac, that maxim, 'A penny saved is two pence gained,' which had superseded almost every other of divine or human teaching."

The act referred to gives the magistrates jurisdiction over all except "serious offenses." Who should save the building, but rendered efficent aid in protecting several adjoining houses. Mr. Smith saved say what this term meant? He conspit in another's face and curse and abuse him, but how could such offense be punished by a magistrate? On his last circuit, a burly negro man was up before him for assault upon a lady of refinement and delicacy. The defendant met the lady in a country road and commanded her to stop. She was greatly alarmed and ran, and the negro pursued her almost to the door of the house of a neighbor. He sent the negro to jail for two years, and afterwards regretted that he hadn't made it five. What sort of punishment could have been administered in a magistrate's court for an offense of this sort? What sort of restraint is there on criminals, when they know that they can only be imprisoned for thirty days? The protection of the innocent depended in a great measure upon the punishment of the guilty. Those who were out of office were frequently so influenced by this motive that they were not willing to allow a just compensation.

Again he was compelled to say to the grand jury that felt himself unable to tell them what crimes it was their duty to consider beyond those which were recognized as the higher crimes. He could only tell them to present such offenses as they saw proper, A genuine March day with the and the solicitor could decide whether streets as full of dust as in August. or not they came under the jurisdiction of the court.

Murder Trials.

The community will be surprised to know that there are five murder trials to come off at the present term of the Superior Court, four of which originated in this county; the fifth, that of Pethel for poisoning his wife near Mooresville, having been removed from Rowan to Iredell and thence to Mecklenburg. The four alluded to are as follows: Logan Having the specific Margaret Reed Hoover for shooting Margaret Reed, both colored, in Berryhill township, two weeks ago, (claimed to have been accidental); Isaac Jenkins, colored, for striking a negro in the head with a brick, in a difficulty which occurred near the opera house about three months ago, from the effects of which, it is charged, he died several weeks afterwards; Alf Harris, Amzi Wright and Jerry Camp, all colored, for killing two negroes in the row between North Carolina and South Carolina negroes, which occurred in Steel Creek township, near Mr. H. M. Crowell, the merchant tail-or, who was arrested Saturday by the city authorities for selling goods in the county poor house, in December.

It will be observed from the above that all the actors in the tragedies which occurred in Mecklenburg county are negroes. The case of Pethel, the only white man among the accused, will be taken up Thursday. The time for the other trials has not yet been agreed upon.

PATAPSCO

BAKING POWDER.

The Patapsco Baking Powder is unquestionably healthful, and is in daily use in the families of the proprietors and by every employe in the factory. This simple fact will be a sufficient answer to every fair-minded person on this point. When manu facturers use daily on their own table the same ar ticle they commend to the public, they give the strongest and most unequivocal opinion of its merits. But to place the healthfulness of our Baking Powder beyond question, read the clear and emphatic testimonials of the following distinguished chemists and physicians on this point, and also as to its practical utility.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 30, 1878. Messrs. Smith, Hanway & Co., Messrs. Smith, Hanway & Co.,
Gents—The Patapsco Baking Powder is a thoroughly scientific combination, and great skill has been shown in devising it. It particularly commends itself by the slowness in which the carbonic acid is generated. It requires heat for the complete evolution of the gas; hence in baking, the bread must become lighter than when ordinary powders are used. I use it in preference to all others in my own family, which emphatically expresses my opinion of its healthfulness.

Respectfully,

P. B. WILSON.

P. B. WILSON, Analytical and Consulting Chemist, No. 30 Second St., Baltimore. University of Maryland, January 8, 1879.

Messrs. Smith, Hanway & Co.,

Gentlemen—I have examined the composition of your Patapsco Baking Powder, and can certify that it contains nothing that can be in the least degree objectionable or injurious to health. I consider it a judicious and valuable preparation, and when used "ccording to directions it must be considered perfectly safe and wholesome. Since all the active constituents undergo important chemical changes, when the Baking Powder is used, it is absurd to suppose that any of these can be transferred unchanged to the food prepared with it. The whole value of the preparation depends on this chemical action which liberates the carbonic acid gas required; and its peculiar value depends on the slow and gradual manner in which this action goes on. It is simply impossible to detect the slightest trace of aium or any other deleterious substance in bread or any other article of food prepared with the Patapsco Baking Powder.

Respectfully, &c. Messrs. Smith, Hanway & Co.,

Respectfully, &c. WILLIAM E. A. AIKIN. M. D., &c. Prof. Chem & Pharm. BALTIMORE, Jan. 11, 1879.

on the subject-question, to the full and explicit opinions of Profs. Wilson and Akin, except to express my surprise that any chemist or other educa-ted person could find anything injurious in the powder to which you refer, or in its effects and re-
