

Senator Ransom.

(Washington Star.)

A correspondent of the Nashville American some weeks ago, writing from Washington, paid Senator Ransom a high and deserved tribute. We noted at the time one remark. He said that he was "not great at a set oration, but a fountain of eloquence when he touches his heart and spins his brain to action." We have never met with worse criticism than this. Gen. Ransom's "forties" in "set orations" his famous speech delivered three or four years ago in the Senate in defence of the South and in behalf of conciliation and peace between the sections, was a model of elaborate thought and fervid eloquence. It was the effort of his life. It attracted universal attention. It was complimented exceedingly and deservedly by men of all parties. The Republican Senator from Vermont, Mr. Morrill, declared it was one of the most eloquent efforts ever delivered in the Senate. The late Abram W. Venable pronounced it the most rhetorical speech that he had read in twenty years.

We have a new book which contains nothing less than three extracts from that splendid oration. The speech is very long, very eloquent, very impressive and persuasive. There is a fine vein of humor, of wit and of sarcasm. Of the speech, it is not only a far more complete and accurate summary than any other, but it is also a far more complete and accurate summary than any other. There was once in the British Parliament, in the days of Burke and Pitt, a very gifted man who made one speech that made him immortal. It was praised by every one. He never again raised his voice in those famous halls of debate. He has passed into history as "Single-Speech Hamilton." If Gen. Ransom had never made another speech in the Senate he would have been long remembered because of the dignified, beautiful, logical and brilliant oration to which we have referred. "We do not know him the gift of touching the hearts of his hearers on the spur of the moment." At the point we make of that speech, we find a noble and that he surpasses himself on such occasions. As Macaulay said of Warren Hastings "writing about himself," so Senator Ransom on a "set occasion" speaks above himself.

Silver Mine Romances.

(Virginia City (Nev.) Enterprise.)

About ten o'clock yesterday morning a crowbar was dropped down the main vertical shaft of the Savage from the surface and went directly through a cage at the bottom, passing the bonnet and floor. No one was on the cage at the time and no one was hurt, yet it is unpleasant to make a trip into a mine to reflect that such things sometimes occur. A shaft fell some twenty over five hundred yards it was traveling with the rapidity and vim of a cannon ball when it struck the cage. A bit of gravel no larger than a fibert singh like a bullet to the latter of which it exploded like a bomb, causing the shaft to think a rock had cut open the top of his skull and let out his brains. A grain of birdshot dropped into the top of a shaft 1,500 feet in depth would probably bury itself in a plank or any piece of wood it might happen to strike at the bottom. This being the case, we repeat that it is not pleasant to think of such things as crowbars going down shafts.

Cheap Education.

(Detroit Free Press.)

Yesterday afternoon, while a Detroit justice of the peace sat warning his fee, by the stove and his nose by a cigar, a stranger entered and presently inquired: "Judge, how much will you charge me to read over about fifteen lines of printed matter from a book I have?" "Why, can't you read them?" replied his honor. "I can, but I want to hear how the lines sound when read aloud. I'll give you a quarter to read them to me." "All right," replied the justice. "I can't read to you, but I can read to a woman opened the door at that moment and the stranger put down the book on the desk, clasped her hand, and said: "Begin at the pencil mark there and read slowly." His honor's chin dropped exactly eighteen inches by the measure as he saw that the reading matter was the usual form of marriage, but he didn't cheat down from his own. It was the cheapest marriage he ever attended, and he didn't half enjoy the chances of bride and groom as they went out.

Jefferson Davis - The Work He is Engaged in. (The Air) - Norfolk, Virginia. The Hon. Jefferson Davis, whom Mr. Hoar and the Senate excluded from the benefits of the pension bill, is living at the Mobile & New Orleans Railroad near the coast, and in circumstances which make him entirely independent of the benefits of that pension bill. He is working quietly on his book, "The War with W. T. Wallah, formerly of Virginia, and his secretary, Maj. W. is a gentleman of great culture and ability, and the author of several able and able New Encyclopaedia on Jefferson Davis. Mr. Davis's correspondence with the London English writer, will, with the aid of his talented assistant, produce a book which, apart from the interesting subject treated of, will be of splendid literary character. There is nothing alarming about the ex-President's health.

How Much Wealth Will They Be? A Chicago friend of several attractive girls put fashionable little-legged by the frequently used chair which the furniture was broken. He asked the girls about it, and one of them, as reported by the Chicago Tribune, said: "I was sitting in the easy chair by the fire, and I was saying to myself, 'How much wealth will they be?' when the window, when suddenly crack down went the little rocking chair that no one was sitting on at all. I must be the poor girl that used to sit on the subject 'How much wealth will they be?' The father and mother of the subject were sitting on the floor, and on each chair was a silver plate bearing the name and weight of the subject. 'How much wealth will they be?' 'Now, if there's any more chairs broken down, I'll be sure to get a new one, or else because they are bent on materialism and destruction of property.'"

A Congressman's Comforter. An amusing episode occurred in the House recently. An Arkansas member was on the floor in the act of removing his eyeglasses, and while doing so a well-filled whiskey flask dropped out of one of the pockets on the floor. It did not break, and the statesman had nerve enough to claim it. He said while the members are crowding in upon Congress to bear the burden of national traffic, and it would seem that they are doing it with a vengeance.

War and Gold. A hotel was based on gold prices. In order to accommodate the influx of travelers, the Central Hotel on Broadway, New York, had a special rate of $2.00 per day for the European at $1.00, and the American at $1.00. The hotel was crowded, and the price of gold was higher than it had been for some time. The hotel was crowded, and the price of gold was higher than it had been for some time.

Patent Medicines. VEGETINE. HER OWN WORDS. Baltimore, Md., Feb. 13, 1879. Dear Sir - Several years ago I got a sore and very painful eye. I had some physicians, but they couldn't cure me. Now I have heard of your Vegetine from a lady who was sick for a long time, and became all well from your Vegetine, and I went and bought one bottle. The pain left me, and I began to eat, and then I bought one other bottle, and so I take it. I thank God for this remedy, and as long as I live I never expect to find a better. Yours truly, W. H. CLARK, 120 Monterey Street, Allegheny, Penn.

VEGETINE. THE BEST SPRING MEDICINE. Mr. H. R. Stevens, Esq., Charleston, S. C. Dear Sir - This is to certify that I have used your "Blood Preparation" in my family for several years, and think that for Scrofula or Cankerous sores, or Rheumatic affections it cannot be equalled, and as a blood purifier and spring medicine it is the best thing I have ever used, and I have used almost every kind of medicine, but I can recommend it to any one in need of such a medicine. Yours respectfully, W. H. CLARK, 120 Monterey Street, Allegheny, Penn.

VEGETINE. WHAT IS NEEDED. Mr. H. R. Stevens, Esq., Boston, Feb. 13, 1879. Dear Sir - About one year since I found myself in a feeble condition from general debility. Vegetine was strongly recommended to me by a friend, and I bought a bottle. It cured me, and after using several bottles, I was restored to health, and discontinued its use. I feel quite confident that it is a medicine superior to all others for the purpose for which it is especially prepared, and I can cheerfully recommend it to those who feel that they need something to restore them to perfect health. Respectfully, U. L. POTTINGILL, Firm of S. M. POTTINGILL & Co., No. 10 State Street, Boston.

VEGETINE. ALL HAVE OBTAINED RELIEF. South Berwick, Me., Jan. 17, 1872. Dear Sir - I have had dyspepsia in its worst form for the last ten years, and have taken hundreds of dollars worth of medicine without obtaining any relief. In September last I commenced taking your Vegetine, since which my health has steadily improved. My food is now enjoyed, and I have gained fifteen pounds of flesh. There are several other persons in my family who are suffering from the same complaint, and all have obtained relief. Yours truly, THOMAS H. MOORE, Overseer Card Rooms Portsmouth Co's Mills.

VEGETINE. How to Live at a Hotel. I was talking with a gentleman the other day, who has spent nearly thirty years at a hotel in New York, hale, hearty, vigorous - outliving by a decade his associates in hotel life. "Yes," he said, "I have outlived all my companions. Most of them were young men, but I myself, and gave promise of a long life. My style of living is living right. The bill of fare was large and generous. They paid for what was in it, why not eat it? They began with soup, and ended with nuts and fruit. Their diet palmed on their palate. Vigorous condiments were added to give their food relish. Copious draughts of liquor were enjoyed. Their mode of life and had a fast life's reward. My style of living is entirely different. I regarded the hotel as my home, where I was to live for years. The spread was simple, but my living was simple. I change my food daily, and changed it every day. The dessert was varied enough to give me seven new courses of food. Sometimes I had coffee, sometimes I had milk, and then occasionally water. My associates were always ailing, always in need of a doctor. The hotel's physician made me a friendly call occasionally; I have not seen him for many years. I have seen many a man eat his way out of his home and home. I have followed in my associate to the grave, who died from over-eating and indigestion. I am hale, and hearty, with a decade longer to live."

45 Years Before the Public. THE GENUINE DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS FOR THE CURE OF HEPATITIS, OR LIVER COMPLAINT, DYSPEPSIA AND BILIOUS HEADACHE. Symptoms of a Diseased Liver. DAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases in pressure; sometimes the pain is on the left side; the patient is rarely at ease on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels are irregular, are costive, sometimes alternate with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his sleep is disturbed, and he complains of cold or burning, and he complains of a peculiar sensation of the skin; his spirits are low, and he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, in some cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.
