Listing All—The Ruled Farmer.

A cottage home with sloping lawn and trellis'd vines...

And little feet to chase away the rosy-finger'd hours...

A fair young face to part, at eve, the shadows in the door...

I picture thus a home I knew in happy days of yore...

And did you see?—let me do so 'till 'tis at date...

And did you see?—let me do so 'till 'tis at date...

A SUNDAY IN THE COUNTRY.

Flint Hill Baptist Church—Cemetery Reopens—

Ordination of Deacons—Sermon and Sunday School Address.

Correspondence of the Observer.

Sunday, March 9th, 1879, was a day which will long be remembered in this vicinity...

On the ground where a goodly number of the neighbors and friends had assembled to clean off the graves and to decorate the last resting places of their loved ones...

The pastor then introduced Mr. Wm. A. Graham, who was the subject of the first sermon, who died at an advanced age, and is buried there, in rather a dilapidated condition, and should receive the attention of the descendants of those whom he served in his lifetime.

In the afternoon a church conference was held, in which some business of importance was transacted; at the close of which the pastor announced that two newly elected deacons would be ordained the next day, and that two brethren from the church in Charlotte would be there on that occasion and deliver addresses.

Accordingly the next morning a carriage, drawn by a span of fine horses, containing the driver and three or four gentlemen, was seen approaching the church, and in a few minutes arrived at the Baptist Sunday school in Charlotte, Brother Graham, was introduced. Mr. Graham is a small man physically, but with a fine, open and intellectual face.

I never he has a serious expression, and his shoulders containing nine quart ounces of nitro-glycerine. A few minutes later the town was shaken and the inhabitants terribly frightened by a most terrific explosion. Investigation revealed the fact that the man had slipped down, causing the explosion, which scattered fragments of his body in every direction.

The Conflict of Jurisdiction in Virginia.

A deputy United States marshal on Friday last arrested Judge J. D. Coles, of the county court of Pittsylvania county, Va. Judge Coles is one of the five judges recently indicted in the United States district court for failure to place colored men on juries. The arrested judge informed the marshal that he would offer neither bail nor personal recognizance, but at the same time would offer no resistance, and was his prisoner, ready to be dealt with as such. The marshal then said he would not imprison the judge, but would hold him as his prisoner, at the same time signed an application, which had been already prepared, to Chief Justice Waite, of the United States Supreme Court, for a writ of habeas corpus, and forwarded it to Attorney General Fields, at Richmond. Judge Rives telegraphed to Danville on Friday expressing great surprise that the marshal should have been so hastily in serving his warrant.

The Supreme Court of the United States, in answer to a petition from the counsel for the State of Virginia, has issued a rule requiring Judge Rives to appear before it on the 15th day of April to show cause why a writ of mandamus should not issue commanding him to cause to be delivered to the jailor of Patrick county, Va., the bodies of Burwell and Lee Reynolds, the colored men about whom the controversy between Judge Rives and the State authorities has grown.

A Remarkable Man.

(Yorkville, S. C. Enquirer.)

York county contains within her borders many elderly persons, noted not only for the longevity they have attained, but also for remarkable characteristics. Not of the least notable of the long list we might enumerate, is Mr. Abraham Hardin, who lives at Whitaker station on the Air-Line Railroad.

Mr. Hardin was born on the 22nd of June, 1789, on the line between Lincoln and Rutherford counties, near Patterson's Springs, in what is now Cleveland county, N. C. Descended from Revolutionary stock, and born soon after the close of the war, which a youth he was contemporary with many of the actors in the struggle for American Independence, and from their own lips heard the narrative of the thrilling events of that memorable time. These stories he handed down to him by the participants in the events which culminated in giving birth to a Nation, are still fresh in his remarkably retentive memory, and his recital of them are entertaining and instructive, not only to the younger people, who are frequently his delighted listeners, but alike interesting are they to the students of history. His description of the manner and customs of the people, and the prevailing fashions of male and female attire in his youthful days, are heard by many an inquisitive belle and beau of the present time with wonder and astonishment.

Mr. Hardin, in an East India mission, as he has been called, for much of the valuable information contained in his history of the Heroes of King's Mountain.

A hotel war based on gold prices. In order to accommodate both classes of travelers, the Grand Central Hotel, on Broadway, New York, is now kept on both plans, the American at $2.50 to $5.00 and the European at $1.00, and upwards, per day. An elegant restaurant, at moderate prices, is conducted by the hotel.

Consumption cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy, for curing consumption, catarrh, asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt his duty to make it ready to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send, free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and using in German, French or English. Sent by mail, addressing with stamp, naming the paper, W. W. Sherman, 139 Powers' Block, Rochester, New York, Oct 4

Brief News Items.

Maj. Gen. Thos. W. Sherman died at his residence, in Newport, R. I. Sunday afternoon after a severe illness, of pneumonia. His wife died of consumption only a few days ago.

A sleeper on the New Orleans and St. Louis Railroad was thrown from the track by a broken rail, at Abbeville, Miss., and several passengers badly injured. Senator Kellogg received a cut in the forehead.

The pest-house buildings belonging to the government, and attached to the naval hospital, near Portsmouth, Va., were destroyed by an accidental fire Saturday night, involving a loss of several thousand dollars.

Patrick Kenny, the wool-dealer, who failed at Providence, R. I., some months ago, was savagely horse-whipped on the market square in that city, Saturday, by a theatrical woman known as Ninon Duclou, who claims to have loaned him $27,000.

Richard Cook Tighman, chief judge of the orphan's court for Queen Anne county, Md., is dead, aged 70. He was a graduate of West Point, being in the same class with Gen. Joe Johnston and ex-President Jefferson Davis. At the marriage of Gen. R. E. Lee, he acted as groomsman.

A New Orleans dispatch of the 15th inst. says: A telegrapher arrived yesterday from Rio Janeiro in charge of her made, who reports that during the voyage the captain, second officer and a boy died of yellow fever. The vessel is now at quarantine.

A tramp who outraged Mrs. Truesdale, near Newport, Ky., recently, was arrested Saturday. He confessed his crime, and Sunday a mob marched to the jail, overpowered the jailor, knocked down the mayor and two policemen, and marched off with Klein. They took him to Mrs. Truesdale, who identified him, and then dragged him to the woods and hanged him.

At Red Rock, Pa., Saturday, an unknown man, evidently intoxicated, staggered about the streets of that town, his shoulders containing nine quart ounces of nitro-glycerine. A few minutes later the town was shaken and the inhabitants terribly frightened by a most terrific explosion. Investigation revealed the fact that the man had slipped down, causing the explosion, which scattered fragments of his body in every direction.
