THE ARMY AT THE POLLS—THURSDAY'S DEBATE IN THE HOUSE.

Thursday was a great day in the House and those were excellent speeches delivered on both sides of the question of repealing by riders on appropriation bills the section of the Revised Statutes which authorizes the use of troops at the polls on election days.

But the speech of the day was that delivered by Blackburn, of Kentucky. It was a most happy and effective observation which marked the introduction of the logical, eloquent and manly effort which followed, when he said, in reply to Robeson that "the performance would not have been fairly rounded off, unless some member of the privy council of that imperialistic dynasty under whose administration the very vicious practice had grown up to what it was now sought to repeal, had testified on the floor on its behalf."

Only this in reply to Grant's henchman, and then he addressed himself to Garfield who had spoken only a few days before on the same question. The associated press gave us an outline of this speech—lengthy and most excellent. A few passages from this report had to be omitted from yesterday's Observer, on account of the very unsatisfactory late hour at which the report closed, and to-day we take much pleasure in laying before our readers so much of this speech as was necessarily crowded from our columns yesterday.

The speech was so forcible and striking that we can afford to withhold no part of it, and taken in connection with that which was printed yesterday, the following will be readily understood:

What provision of the Federal constitution undertook to clothe anybody, either the President himself or one of his privy council, the Secretary of State, to sit as he has done, on the floor of the House last Saturday and by his presence and approval seek to intimidate, overawe and brow-beat the American Congress? [Derisive laughter on the Republican side.] Who had commissioned the gentleman from Ohio, to tell the House that it had better be careful because the issue was made and the President would not be coerced into a measure of approval? Did the gentleman from Ohio or any other gentleman, put such a low estimate on the respect, the integrity, the courage and the manhood of the House, without regard to party, as to believe that such a threat, so flouted, was to intimidate the law-making branch of the government and shape its action on measures of legislation?

Mr. Blackburn proceeded to quote from Mr. Garfield's speech to the effect that no article had been presented to Congress for the proposed repeal, and continued:

Did the gentleman mean to stand by this declaration? Did he not know that the Congress just expired bore upon its files petition after petition in contested election cases protesting against the presence of military troops at the polls, denouncing the usurpation and demanding the repeal of this law? Did he fall to remember that the State of Louisiana, a sovereign State, had sent her memorial, in which in thundering tones she announced the present law? But the gentleman was generous and it is possible did worse. It is generally true that the grave silences the tongue of distraction, but the gentleman from Ohio forgetting himself in his speech forgot to observe that rule.

Continuing he said: Let me tell you that the next year of his country's history, the next year of his own life, he would tell me whether he lies in the mouth of this session of a force great but now wanting better to read legislation to anybody, either on the score of revolutionary legislation or extraneous introduction of legislation on appropriation bills. Better far, in the face of the record which they have made, better to listen patiently to the confirmed drunkard as he deals on the virtues of temperance, or better let the queen of the demi monde elaborate the beauties of female virtue, or let the devil prate of the scheme of universal redemption than for homilies on good morals and lectures on revolutionary legislation to be delivered from such a source. [Applause on the Democratic side.]

Having read the act of George II he continued: From that day till now I do declare that it is not this power, of any man and to find a scion of the saxon race that has not ever held in utter contempt the effort of him or them who sought to control the freedom of the ballot by the employment of military power. [Applause on the Democratic side.] The very army of this country protests against such a prostitution of it. I see before me the distinguished General-in-Chief of the American army, [Gen. Sherman was occupying Garfield's seat] and do not believe that I mistake the fact when I say that from him down to the lowest subaltern it is difficult to find a commissioned officer who has not repugnance for the services which under this prostitution of the army he has been called to perform.

From the debt statement just received at this office from the treasury department, we learn that the national debt, at the close of business March 31st, was $2,479,774,12. At the same time the total amount of cash in the treasury was $490,767,488.29. The increase in the debt during the month of March amounted to $892,794.17. The decrease in the debt since June 30, 1878, has been $6,880,575.90.

Mr. Vance was absent from his seat in the Senate last Tuesday on account of sickness. He was paired with Mr. Seymour, of Nebraska.

BLACKMAILING.

As every station in life has its advantages and disadvantages, the pros and cons indicated in the caption above are one from which the poor and humble are forever free, and one to which the rich and the great are ever liable. It is the meanest and the most villainous of all the methods of theft which the ingenuity of the wicked has ever contrived, and the extent to which it is practiced will never be known. It is secret in its very essence and depends upon secrecy for its successful propagation. It is a notorious plant which cannot live in the sunlight but which must depend for its life upon those impurities which the light of day would dissipate. A powerful effort of oppression to the timid man, and to many who are not so timid but who take their characters high, can be employed by any man whose reputation is a little better than a convict's or by any woman whose character is a few degrees higher than that of the street bawd.

A notable case of blackmail has just come to an end in Washington City. A shrewd woman, a fallen woman, a woman who had lived with other men without having been married to them, levies blackmail upon a United States Senator. Shrinking from having his name subjected to the associations which were threatened, he submitted again and again to the demands made upon his purse, until they became intolerably heavy. His refusal to be led further resulted in the threatened lawsuit, and the plaintiff has been cast.

It is a matter for general public congratulation that the issue had been settled. It is to be hoped that the general effect will be good. It is much to be hoped that Mr. Cameron's sturdy example will find many followers. He should have taken firm and decided ground in the beginning, but it is much better that he should have taken it late than not at all. He is to be commended, and this commendation should be free from that ridicule which is so apt to spring to pen or tongue in view of the defendant's age and the peculiar circumstances of the case. If other men, high in position, would take his decided stand, blackmailers would be put to confusion, and blackmailing come to an end.

The responsibility for the recent Atlanta murder in Atlanta is shared by many, among these Policeman W. H. Smith, who has been discharged from his position on the Atlanta force for not preventing it when he might have done so. This is a most excellent example.

THE TREATY OF BERLIN.

Charges and Defenses as to the President's Delay in the Preliminary.

LONDON, April 4.—In the House of Lords last night the Marquis of Lansdown complained that the negotiations between the Porte and Greece, regarding the settlement of the frontier operations were unduly protracted and recommended a resolution of the Porte by the great powers to induce it to comply with their wishes as expressed at the Berlin conference.

Lord Salisbury, minister of foreign affairs, denied that the negotiations had been long, and from his own experience of Oriental negotiations he had known matters of considerably less importance to take a much longer time. Turkey and Greece have been so far unable to agree as to the precise frontier. Undoubtedly at present the prospect of settlement is not very near. Communications between the powers are, however, proceeding. The attitude of England is unchanged. She has continued to advise the Porte; advice was one thing, but the treaty of settlement "smacked of patrie." He was not prepared to say that the government had arrived at that point. Its intention to bring about a settlement is sincere. The chances of a settlement will be greater when the present pressure on another frontier of Turkey is removed.

Lord Beaconsfield followed in a similar strain. He believed there was a chance of settling the matter satisfactorily to both parties. He did not take at all a gloomy view of the subject and pointed out that the advice of this conference to the Porte relative to the line of the frontier was not a recommendation, but a suggestion.

YELLOW FEVER ON SHIPBOARD.

Developed in a vessel which had wintered in Boston—The Germs not Killed by Freezing or Emigrating.

BOSTON, April 4.—The United States steamer Plymouth, Capt. Harmony, which left Boston, March 15th, for a cruise to the West Indies, has returned to Vineyard Sound on account of two cases of yellow fever occurring on board when about 300 miles south-east of the Bermuda Islands. The ship had been in Boston since the winter, and as she had come from the West Indies last autumn—when yellow fever on board, she had been frozen out and fumigated. As she had not called in any port since leaving Boston, this development showed that the germs of yellow fever still existed in her, and she was headed north, being deemed under the circumstances, unfit for cruising in the tropics. On the 21st ult., when less than 100 miles south of Barbadoes, the vessel met with a very heavy gale from the north-east; one boat was lost, also the lower studding sail boom, and the vessel leaked considerably through her upper works, but the next day the wind shifted, and the vessel headed north. In this gale Peter Egan, boatswain mate, was buried, having died of yellow fever on the previous day. The 2d of April she anchored at Nebsken Point in Vineyard Sound, where she awaits orders from the Navy department.

Writ of Habeas Corpus Granted.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., April 3.—In the United States Circuit Court to-day before Judge Hughes the writ of habeas corpus was granted to a man who had been arrested by the United States.

Terrible Storm in Rockingham County.

DANVILLE, Va., April 3.—A severe storm passed over Rockingham County to-day. Several houses were blown down, scattering furniture broadcast. One boy was killed and many seriously injured by falling timber. Trees and fences were blown to pieces, and great damage was done in the storm's passage.

United States Bonds in England.

LONDON, April 4.—The Times official article says: "United States government bonds are again in some request by investors who have increasing difficulty in finding investments which are yielding anything like 4 per cent. interest."

TROOPS AT THE POLLS.

CONTINUATION OF THE DEBATE IN THE HOUSE. The Interest in the Day—Speeches by Singleton, Weaver, De Lamar, Jones, Wright, Hawley, Tucker, Garfield—The Vote To-Day.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—House.—The House met at an hour earlier than the extension of the general debate, which closes at 3 o'clock to-day.

The first to address the House was Singleton, of Mississippi, who stated the question to be, whether the House had the courage and determination to let people, regardless of color, stand up and fall in its duty to the country. He admitted that under the present administration, no troops had been stationed at the polls, but no one could fault the administration in that respect, not followed in the next. He thought that the return of certain gentlemen to public life (meaning perhaps Senators Chandler and Logan) boded no good to the republic. He proposed a great graceful law which it was now proposed to repeal, the "boasted freedom of America was a mockery and a lie." In conclusion Singleton stated (in reference to the supervisors' law) that party fealty would lead him to party dictates. He, therefore, accepted the partial repeal of the supervisors' law, with notice to all concerned that he accepted it only as the first instalment of long-delayed justice in an oppressive and arbitrary law.

The next speech was made by Weaver, of Iowa, on the subject of the sectional animosities. He ridiculed the pretensions put forward, yesterday, by Knott, of Kentucky, as to Providence guiding the Democratic party, as of old He had the people through the sectional animosities. Shot by a Jealous Actress.

NEW YORK, April 4.—Washington N.Y., a son of Benjamin Nathan, who was murdered in a twenty-third street saloon, was shot yesterday morning at the Broadway Hotel by a woman, the name of whom is not known, as far as known, show that Miss Ward went to the hotel on Wednesday night, registered herself as Miss Zuluza, of Philadelphia, and next day about 10 o'clock sought Nathan in the room of his father, Miss Eliza Harrison, unbranded him with having deceived her, and shot him in the neck, the ball entering beneath the lobe of the left ear and passing through the right side of the head, the wound being not probably prove dangerous. Jealousy was the instigating cause of the attack.

Murder Trial in Georgia.

ATLANTA, April 4.—Ayers Jones, the mountaineer accused of the murder, two years ago, of Lt. McIntyre, at the head of his troop in the Georgia mountains, will be taken from jail to-morrow for a preliminary examination. The preliminary murder created a great sensation in Georgia, and the authorities have been working it up ever since its occurrence. Jones is a desperate man who defied the officers and eluded arrest for a long time.

Egyptian Government Employees in a Bad Humor.

LONDON, April 4.—The Daily News correspondent at Alexandria says: "The employees of the government are still in a bad humor. Sixty officers and men of the Khedive's postal steamers to-day (Thursday) made a demonstration in consequence of the non-payment of their claims, but were quelled by promises of the director general of the post-office."

Madame Bonaparte Dead.

BALTIMORE, April 4.—Madame Elizabeth Patterson Bonaparte died this afternoon.

A delicate complexion is best compared to a blooming rose; but when the countenance is discolored with hectic, the complexion is like a faded rose bed, the sufferer should promptly use Dr. Bull's Blood Mixer, which quickly and effectually eradicates such unsightly evidence of impure blood.

A Really Beneficial Discovery.

The disgust so generally felt for the taste and odor of Cod Liver Oil is almost everywhere to be peculiarly noxious to the consumptive and scrofulous patients, to whom the whole medical profession know it is especially beneficial. Endeavors have vainly been made to disguise its objectionable characteristics, by mixing with cod-liver oil, brandy, or by the process of deodorization, which imparts its efficacy as a nutrient.
