FEDERAL JUDICIAL USURPATION.

The telegrams have told us that petitions for writs of habeas corpus and certifrari were submitted to the Supreme Court of the United States Monday by the Governor of Virginia, on behalf of the State, and by J. D. Coles, judge of the county court of Pittsyling up and testing the legality of Judge Rives' action in causing several judges of the State courts to be arrested and imprisoned upon the charge of violating the civil rights of citizens; and that the court would, next Monday, hear arguments in support of the petitions. On the same day the same questionthat of the distinctive rights of the States-will come before the court in a little different form, the other case being the Lee and Burwell Reynolds case out of which this grew. A brief recapitulation of the facts of the latter case is necessary here to a proper understanding of the issues involved; The Reynolds brothers, negroes, were indicted in the State court for Patrick county, Va., for murder. Both were convicted and the verdicts in both cases were set aside and new trials ordered. On these new trials the jury failed to agree in one case and in the other found the defendant guilty of murder in the second degree. During the trial the accused petitioned the court to discharge the jury and summon a new one composed in part of negroes, which the court refused, because the law of Virginia makes no distinction on account of race or color in qualification of jurors. Therefore Judge Rives, the United States judge, ordered the cases to be removed to his court for trial, because, as he alleged, "the parties were not allowed a fair trial, such as is guaranteed them by the laws of Virginia." Judge Rives thereupon took the prisoners out of the custody of the State and is holding them for trial at the April term of his court. The General Assembly in this emergency took the matter up and instructed the attorney-general to proceed by proper pro ceeding in the Supreme Court of the delphia Times, reporting Monday's pro- was adopted unanimously: United States, and by the Virginia mem- ceedings in the Talmage trial. This case comes on for hearing, as above stated, on Monday next. But this was not the end of Judge Rives' usurpation. Having proceeded to this extent he went further, and at subsequent sittings of his court indicted a number of the judges of the county courts of Virginia, and imprisoned them, for the reason that they failed or refused to summon negroes to sit on the juries in their courts. J. D. Coles, the complainant as above, is one of the judges thus imprisoned. The principle involved in the two cases is, as readily appears, precisely the same, and this principle is, briefly stated, whether the United States courts have authority to take up and over-rule at will the action of a State court in any given case. It is a legal-constitutional question involving the separate rights and powers of the State and general governments, and the decision of it implies consequences important and far-reaching. Similar cases have arisen in this and other States, and the question is by no manner of means sectional in its character. With its decision will come a sharp definition of lines which cannot be too strongly marked and with it may come (though we hope not) a shifting of the base upon which our entire judicial fabric is founded. To put the case more foreibly we quote from the Washington Gazette, from which we condensed a portion of the facts above. as to the Reynolds case: "On the decision," says the Gazette, "will depend the result whether this is a constitutional government, with rights and established an imperial, absolute democracy with all power centralized in one hand. If the Supreme Court sustains the former view, then peace and prosperity will resume their sway over the country; if they decide in favor of centralization, then it will be necessary the Supreme Court."

THE WASHINGTON DEAD-LOCK.

Hayes would veto it; Hon. M. C. Butler, of South Carolina, who passed through and reliable Washington correspondent of the Richmond Dispatch, telegraphing that paper under date of Marian ing that paper under date of Monday, the prohibition of the constitution." says that the President will certainly veto the bill; the equally intelligent and reliable Washington correspondent of the Louisville Courier-Journal, telegraphed his paper Sunday that Mr. Hayes would certainly sign it; and the only other Washington correspondent in whose sagacity we have very much confidence, frankly confesses that he does not know what the acting President will do about it. Neither, we believe, does any one else. It is very probable that Mr. Hayes himself does not know. If he signs the bill the session will be a short one; if he does not he will be confronted within the next week or two with the necessity for another decision involving the same principle.

The legislative, executive and judicial bill will soon go through with the provision attached repealing the law au- BELL AND THE COMMITTEES thorizing the appointment of marshals and supervisors of elections. If the OYLY THESE ACTED ON TESTERDAY. The Democrats will not yield and the whole responsibility is placed upon the Preiident.

The whole question has been reduced to one of endurance, and it will be interesting to know who can hold out the

All of its departments are well conducted, and its local and news columns are especially new Palmetto contemporary a career of honor, usefulness and prosperity.

> INDIAN WAR BREWING.-Another Indian war is brewing, this time in Nevada, and the New York Sun thus states the case: "The Piutes, who are Christians, and ordinarily very peaceful, are angry because a drunken miner, named Hubbard, deliberately, and without the slightest provocation, murdered a squaw. The Indians seem to think that Hubbard ought to be arrested and punished just the same as if he had murdered a white woman, but nothing has yet been done in the matter by the authorities. The Indian braves are assembling from various quarters, and it is feared that they will attack one of the small mining towns. Then the Governor of Nevada will telegraph for troops, and some newspapers will demand the extermination of the sav-

Shocking Murder and Suicide. CHICAGO, April 7 .- The Inter-Ocean's larshalltown, Iowa, special says a terrible double tragedy has occurred at Gifford, a small station on the Iowa Central Railroad. John Bell, station agent, nineteen years old, deliberately shot Miss Robbins, his lady friend, through the heart twice. He then telegraphed to the railroad officials to send another operator up, as he was going to kill himself. Shortly after this he fired two shots into his abdomen, and is now in a dying condition. The girl was a most estimable daughter of a prominent merchant. No cause is assigned.

A brief Democratic caucus was held in the hall of the House, immediately after adjournment to-day, for the purpose of taking some action which would permit the introduction and consideration of certain financial measures during the present session of Congress Representive House, of Tennessee, presided, and Messrs. following, with the request that it be read and laid on the table for the action of a future caucus: as far as we, chosen by them as members of the present House of Representatives, are entitled to be considered as the true exponents of those aims and objects, are directed with a singleness of purpose to the restoration of constitutional liberty, and with it the restoration of peace, harmony and prosperity throughout the length and breadth of the land. They adjure the renewal of sectional strife. They accept all the legitimate results of the late lamented war. They are utterly opposed to a revival in this country or any part thereof of African slavery or any other kind of slavery or involuntary servitude, except as punishment for crime. They stand pledged to maintain the union of the States under the constitution with all its existing amendments as they embrace a fine dwelling, a store, office, shall be expounded by the Supreme and out houses. Court of the United States. They are against all unconstitutional or revolutionary methods. They are for law and order, and the protection of life, liberty and property, without respect of person or social conditions. For the redress of all grievances they look alone to the peaceful instrumentality of the constitution: First, the law-making power; second, the law-expounding power; third, the law-executing power, and finally, the ultimate sovereign power of the ballot-box. They are for a free ballot as well as for a fair and just count. While they are opposed to a large standing army, as were the framers of the constitution, yet they are for keeping the army sufficiently large to repel invasion, defend our extensive frontier, as well as all necessary interior forts and garrisons, and to enable the President to put down domestic violence or insurrection in any of the States, and in aid of civil officers as a posse comitatus in the execution of legal process in pursuance of the constitution and as provided in the acts of Congress of 1795 and 1807. But they are utterly opposed to the use of the military forces of the United States in controlling or in any way interfering with the freedom of elections. They are for the maintenance of the public credit inviolate, but are utterly opposed to an increase of the bonded debt unless the exigencies of war should render it necessary. They are for retrenchment of expenditures, lessening the burdens of taxation, and a thorough reform in the present unequal and unjust method of raising revenue. They are for placing the coinage of gold and silver upon the same footing without restriction or limitation upon the amount of either. They are for reviving the languishing and perishing industries of the country by an increase of the volume of currency, founded on a sound basis, sufficient to meet the urgent demands of trade in every department of labor and business.'

The Zulus had ample time to get news of the convoy, as it was delayed at the ford three days by heavy rains. The ford was only four miles from Luneburg. SCRIBNER'S ILLUSTRATED MAGAZINE FOR GIRLS AND BOYS. AN_IDEAL CHILDREN'S MAGAZINE.

Mesars. Scribner & Co., in 1878, hegan the publication of Sr. Nicholas, an Illustrated Magazine for Girls and Boys, with Mrs. Mary Mapes Dodge as editor. Five years have passed since the first number was issued, and the magazine has won the highest position. It has a monthly circulation of

"A JOLLY FELLOWSHIP," will run through the twelve monthly parts,—beginning with the number for November, 1878, the first of the volume,—and will be illustrated by Jasi. E. Kelly. The story is one of travel and adventure in Florida and the Bahamas. For the girls, a continued talk.

"HALF A DOZEN HOUSEKEEPERS," By Katharine D. Smith, with illustrations by Frederick Dielman, begins in the same number; and a fresh serial by Susan Coolidge, entitled "Eyebright," with plenty of pictures, will be commenced early in the volume. There will also be a continued fairy-tale called

"BUMPTY DODGET'S TOWER."

Written by Julian Hawthorne, and illustrated by Alfred Fredericks. About the other familiar features of Sr. Nicholas, the editor preserves a good-humored silence, content, perhaps, to let her five volumes already issued, prophesy concerning the sixth, in respect to short stories, pictures, poems, humor, instructive sketches, and the lure and lore of "Jack-in-the-Pulpit," the "Very Little Folks" department, and the "Letter-obx," and "Riddle-box."
