

The resolution of Mr. Kenna of West Virginia, adopted by the Democratic caucus, Wednesday, has opened the way for general legislation, and it is now not to be denied that the extra session will be of very long duration. Hitherto, during the session, the House has chafed the Greenbackers off, and to this extent declared against general legislation, by adjourning over each Saturday until the Tuesday following. The Greenbackers have a number of financial ideas which they wish to promulgate in the form of bills, but this has heretofore been prevented since they could only introduce those bills under the call of States, which is only made on Mondays, and the House has up to this time held no Monday session. Mr. Kenna's resolution, however, providing for Monday sessions, gives not only the Greenbackers, but everybody else, full privilege to bring forward any bill that may be desired, of any character whatsoever, and Monday a flood of bills may be expected. With all these 11 is upon its calendars and in its committees, Congress cannot adjourn after having disposed merely of the business for which it met, and the end of the session, therefore, cannot be seen.

Having written the above over my eye falls upon the following from the Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Times, which confirms all that is written above. The Times' correspondent telegraphs from Washington under date of Wednesday night:

The worst fears of the conservative members of the House were realized by the action of the Democratic caucus, which was called immediately after the adjournment of the House. Although the caucus was in session but about ten minutes, a resolution was passed, with but one dissenting vote, declaring that the House will regularly proceed to business on Monday next. The flood gates for the introduction of bills will then be opened, and it will be very difficult, probably impossible, from entering upon general legislation after the passage of the resolution. The bill and the pending consideration of that and the army bill in the Senate. It is generally conceded that the action of the House to-day disposes of all lurking hopes that the present session of Congress is to be a short one. In fact, the prevailing sentiment is now that the House is certain to go into general legislation; that the session will last all summer, and possibly until the beginning of the regular session in December. The oldest and most experienced members of the first time are making up their minds that they must spend the summer here, or the greater portion of it, while the younger members, full of new honors, do not seem to be unhappy at the prospect. The financial questions will again be debated, the political questions will be talked of again and again, the subject of taxes will be revived, and nobody knows but that Fernando Wood may bring forward another tariff bill. After the bill is once started, the fiddlers warned up, it will be hard to stop the dancing.

OUR CORRESPONDENT'S

We print three letters this morning which will command attention. We give place to the third letter of the controversy between Messrs. Atkinson, of Buncombe, and Adrey, as to who saved the money to the State, in which Mr. Atkinson reiterates his former figures and still claims the credit for his committee. Capt. Adrey is abundantly able to take care of himself and needs no help from us in this correspondence. Messrs. Derr & Barker, of Cowan's Ford, pen a complaint against the merchants of Charlotte, the charge being that they sell goods no cheaper at wholesale than at retail, thereby leaving no margin for profit to country merchants who buy from them. In the very nature of things this must be the case, and doubtless some of our wide-awake merchants will very early answer our correspondents to their satisfaction.

Yesterday seems to have been a good day for complaints. One comes from Cabarrus to the effect that Charlotte ignores all outsiders and is trying to make a monopoly of the celebration of the 20th of May. No charge could be more unjust than that which the "old citizen" has prevailed upon Cabarrus to make against this city. This paper has begged of the people of the State to make the holiday general and has begged people from other counties and States to join with us here in the festivities of the occasion. In addition, the committee of arrangements has extended a formal invitation to the same effect. There would be neither time nor reason in Charlotte undertaking to make this an exclusive affair. The larger the celebration and the more people attend it, the greater glory, of course, to Charlotte; and this, we believe, is the first time that Charlotte has ever been accused of failing to embrace an opportunity to capture all the loose glory that is lying around without a claimant. If we could only grand a celebration without our neighbors as we can with their assistance, there would be some force in the arraignment, but since we cannot the indictment against us will not lie.

Since the invitations aforesaid, formal and spontaneous, have been extended, and since it is clearly impracticable to have the committee of arrangement, invitation, &c., selected from all over the State, it is this morning the sense of specifications, to see wherein Mecklenburg has ignored her sister counties. If these sisters will divide the burdens with us, we will surely be glad to pro rate the glory with them.

Kentucky jurists are plain spoken. At a meeting of the bar of the State, held at Frankfort last Tuesday for the purpose of passing resolutions of respect to the memory of the late Judge Elliott, and of expressing themselves to the virtues of the deceased, one of the speakers characterized the killing as "the most distinguished assassination in history," and another pronounced it "the most infamous deed committed since the Saviour's crucifixion."

THE ELIGIBILITY OF SOME OF THE COUNTY ASSESSORS.

The board of county commissioners of this county, at their meeting, Thursday, appointed as assessors of the value of real estate in the city and county, for the purpose of taxation, among others Messrs. B. Alexander, W. E. Ardrey and J. L. Brown. The first named of these gentlemen is the Senator from this county, and the question has been raised as to their eligibility as assessors. Article XIV, section 7, of the constitution of the State provides as follows:

No person, who shall hold an office or place of trust or profit under the United States, or any department thereof, or under this State, or any other State, or government, shall hold or exercise any other office or place of trust or profit under the authority of this State, or be eligible to a seat in either House of the General Assembly. Provided, That nothing herein contained shall extend to officers in the militia, justices of the peace, commissioners of public charities, or commissioners for special purposes.

The persons named are, we believe, office-holders in the meaning of this act; they are members of the General Assembly and will continue to be until their successors are elected and qualified. The place of assessor is an office of both trust and profit, and it seems very clear that Messrs. Alexander, Ardrey and Brown cannot hold it under the constitution unless they first resign their seats in the Legislature.

As the board of assessors is called to meet at the court house on the same day in May provided for the meeting of the board of county commissioners, this discovery would seem to render it necessary to have a special meeting of the commissioners between this time and the first Monday in next month in order that they may rescind the appointments of the gentlemen named and supply their places.

Oh, how many of you put your heads down; you going to make a speech; I'll be hanged if I don't! was what Steele, of North Carolina, said in the House the other day when the members were crowding forward to get their names on the list on the Speaker's table of those who are to make speeches on the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill.

The Supreme Court of the State adjourned Thursday after a term covering three months and nearly a half. The Raleigh Observer says that during its sitting the court filed one hundred and thirty-four opinions, of which Chief Justice Smith rendered fifty-five, Justice Dillard forty-six, and Justice Ashe thirty-three.

THE POPE'S LETTER

Temporal Power Wanted, and the Expulsion of Heretical Teachers from Rome.

LONDON, April 11.—The Times' Rome correspondent says: "The Pope's letter concerning the educational question has great importance apart from the subject of which it treats, as it directly confirms the impression which some newspapers have combated, that the Pope understands the liberty and dignity of the Papacy to consist in removing from Rome all means of practicing and propagating whatever the church holds to be heretical, and that his gradually increasing insistence on the restoration of temporal power is prompted by the equally increasing conviction that until the Pontiff regains his earthly sway it will be impossible to prohibit the liberty of thought and instruction. Thus the Pope's attitude in this respect is the religion of Christ ought to reign sovereign and universal, and the teacher of faith ought to have free power to close all access against impiety and to maintain the purity of Catholic teaching."

The Virginia Gold Cases Set for Trial.

RICHMOND, April 11.—The cases of the United States against a number of prominent Virginians, known as the "gold cases," have been set for trial in the United States Court to-morrow. These are cases in which the Federal government sues ex-Gov. Wm. Smith and other ex-State officials, who were in authority at the time of the evacuation of Richmond in 1865, for $50,000 in gold, claimed by the United States as spoils of war, and said to have been appropriated by the defendants.

The Jamestown Going to Alaska.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—The secretary of the navy has ordered the Jamestown, now at More Island, to be fitted out for sea as speedily as possible. She will be sent to Sitka to take the place of the Alaska. The Jamestown is a ship of about 900 tons and will have a crew of 400 men. She will carry 18 guns of her main deck, besides howitzers and Gatlings, and will be provided with two large steam launches to be used in patrolling.

Probable Double Murder in Indiana.

CINCINNATI, April 11.—A dispatch from New Albany, Indiana, says David Mauck, Wednesday night, murdered his wife by the blows of a pole axe, while she was asleep. Sarah Vaughn, living in the family, hearing the shrieks of Mrs. Mauck, rushed to the room, whereupon Mauck struck her blows that will probably prove fatal. He then fled. A large party are pursuing him.

Garibaldi and Universal Suffrage.

LONDON, April 11.—A special to the Standard from Rome says: "Many Republican leaders are expected to arrive here shortly to meet at Garibaldi's house. The message also states that at a meeting of Democratic leaders at Menotti, Garibaldi's residence, a movement in favor of universal suffrage was discussed."

RICHMOND, April 11.—There is good authority for stating that the recent action of United States Judge Rives, in indicting the county judges in his (Western) district, for not having mixed Whites in their courts, will be followed by a similar movement in this (Eastern) district, and that the United States district attorney will probably to-morrow present the names of a number of county judges for indictment.

THE HOUSE COMMITTEES.

THE ONLY THING OF INTEREST.

Speech on Heretofore Resolution—Progress with the Legislative Bill—(Captioned) Proceedings, &c.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—SENATE.—Hereford called up Heretofore resolution, declaring the Democratic programme for the passage of the appropriation bills to be unconstitutional and revolutionary, and made a speech against it, insisting that no such action was contemplated as would justify such conclusion.

At the conclusion of Heretofore's speech the Senate took up the army bill, the provisions of which were explained by Withers. The bill was considered by sections. When the sixth section, which prohibits the use of troops at the polls, was reached, the Senate adjourned until Monday.

HOUSE.—The House has gone into committee on the legislative appropriation bill, the announcement of the committee having been postponed until the afternoon. There are some fifteen pages of the printed bill to be acted on before the contested provisions are reached.

An amendment was agreed to directing the Commissioner of Agriculture to supply seeds to the congressmen for distribution among their agricultural constituents. Amendments were also adopted increasing the appropriation for the purchase of seeds.

STATE NEWS.

Winston is to have a new bank. Salisbury now has two machine shops in successful operation. Salisbury will probably have about six candidates for mayor.

Col. Duncan K. McRea returned to Wilmington from his lecturing tour. Mrs. Moon has begun a revival in the Edenton Street Methodist church of Raleigh.

The statement of the Oxford Orphan Asylum for March makes a disagreeable showing. The last issue of the Salem Academy gives a list of all the surviving teachers of that institution, who number 88. This list does not include those at present employed there.

The bell which swings in the belfry of the Moravian church, at Salem, has been rung for thirty years' distances of five and six miles. One day last week the residence of Mr. M. D. Tamm at Greenville, was destroyed by fire, and about the same time the barn and stables of Mr. Henry Bryan, of the same county, were similarly destroyed.

The Wilmington Sun tells of an eccentric thief who relieved the Mozart Saloon reading-room of its file of illustrated papers, marked, and carried off a bagful of bills with it. A Buncombe county man said, in the Asheville postoffice the other day, that he was thirty-four years old, wrote a readable hand, but never wrote and never received a letter in his life.

The Gazette states that Dr. Henry Walter Lilly, of Fayetteville, who has received his diploma from the New York Medical College, with full honors, has been appointed physician at the Work House Hospital, New York city. Reidsville Times: One of our cleverest and handsomest ladies, lately married, was at Lindsey & Reid's to-day buying sitters to go to housekeeping, and the beauty is she knows what to do with them.

The vote in Asheville last Monday as to whether or not the corporation should create a bonded debt of $2,000 for the purpose of macadamizing Main street, resulted, according to the Journal, in 43 votes in favor of the proposition to $30 against; majority against, 96.

Mr. A. J. Butler, aged sixty-four, died suddenly of heart disease, last Sunday evening. He moved to Asheville from Laurens, S. C., about eight years ago, and, the Journal says, had by his honesty and industry, won the respect of all.

Raleigh Farmer and Mechanic: We are gratified to learn from our commissioner that the prospect for a successful fair, to be held at Wadesboro next fall, is so bright and promising. He was informed by the secretary, Mr. J. T. Patrick, that donations amounting to about $1,000 had already been contributed by "outsiders."

Salem Press: Henry Hart, Esq., died very suddenly on Monday last, at Clarendonville, Davidson county. He was sitting in his store reading a newspaper, when his head was seen to fall forward by a friend standing near by, who immediately called to him, but no answer came, and upon close examination discovered that his spirit had fled. Heart disease was the cause of death.

Wadesboro Herald: The New York gentlemen that we spoke of last week as going in with Hamilton Bros., have arrived and gone to work on the old Bailey gold mine. They seem to be men of energy and money, and will make the mine pay, no doubt, for those who know the workings of gold say there is money to be made working the mine.

The Raleigh Observer says a colored prisoner, who has just been lodged in the penitentiary, from McDowell, reports Secret, the wife-murderer, who was convicted and condemned some time ago, but obtained a new trial from the Supreme Court, as making a desperate but futile attempt to play crazy. Secret's new trial will take place early next fall.

Reidsville Times: A little girl, the sister of Mr. John A. Smith, was playing with a piece of pewter in her mouth, last Sunday, near Brown Summit, and Dr. J. L. Jones, of this town, was sent for and performed an operation known as tracheotomy, cutting into her throat an inch above the breast-bone, and took out the piece of pewter; it was a quarter of an inch wide and three-quarters in length.

Wilmington Star: From a correspondent Shoe Heel went to the Kenneth Bethune, who, it is alleged, outraged a Miss McDuffie, in Richmond county, last January, was captured last Monday by Deputy Sheriff J. P. Smith, in the police section of Robeson county. He has been in that section ever since the crime was committed. Bethune denies the charge. He was carried to Shoe Heel Monday night, and was to be taken to Richmond county on Tuesday for a hearing.

Wilmington Review: Saturday last, a party of surveyors and engineers, to the number of twenty, put in an appearance at Smith's ferry, in Onslow county. They came in wagons from Newbern, and so far as our information extends, they were to make a survey from the coast back into the country towards Angola Pocosin. The survey will be by a program, of a topographic, and will embrace the territory from the ocean to the Northeast river and its tributaries.

It has been stated in the newspapers that a party of revenue officers in Stanley county were encountered, a couple of weeks ago, by "thirty-five or forty men," who deterred them from making a contemplated raid. Mr. G. M. Jones, of Stanley, now informs the Wadesboro Herald that the party seen by the grasshoppers were a parcel of men going to a log-rolling; and now we would like to know of Father Evans, of the Milton Chronicle, how much he supposes the revenue officers had on at the time.

The Wilmington merchants have an astonishing amount of confidence in the honesty of their fellow-townsmen. They just won't lock their doors. Three places of business were found open in one night, and the mayor threatens to have the police publish in the daily papers the names of the owners of each establishment found open at night by the police by way of correcting their carelessness.

Raleigh Farmer and Mechanic: There may be seen in the division of Cleveland county, in the agricultural museum, a specimen of fine clay, which was discovered in 1855 by a Poleander, an expert in minerals, and pronounced by him to be a Number one. Bricks made from this clay were used in an iron furnace and have stood the test of ten years service. In the collection there are two bricks made from this clay.

Reuben Hawkins, a noted Wilkes county Radical, and keeper of the poor house, was indicted for maltreatment of the poor, was tried, convicted, appealed to the Supreme Court, and the case came up for another hearing in the Superior Court of his county last week. The court took a recess for dinner and before it re-convened Reuben had fled. Thus writes a Wilkes correspondent of the Raleigh News.

A Wilkes county correspondent, writing of the Raleigh News, says the Superior Court up there last week and the week before, says the grand jury failed to find a bill against Alfred Edmundson, who killed Tedder and severely wounded Elijah Church in a difficulty that occurred in that county a few months ago. The two latter were shot desperadoes and outlaws, and went to Edmundson's house one night for the purpose of killing him, but he was a noted fighter and the result was Tedder was killed and Edmundson and Church badly wounded. The two latter were shot by the sheriff and lodged in jail. Edmundson was released and Church goes to the railroad three years and six months.

Rev. Leroy M. Lee, D. D., Meth. Hist'n.
I am never without it at home or abroad. It is an antidote to indigestion. Unpleasant after a meal or during the night. It is excellent for a specific. Its merits are attested by numbers of high character. I have seen a "tried-everything" drop of water, and I have seen a "tried-everything" drop of water, and I have seen a "tried-everything" drop of water.

Rev. Dr. Jeter, Broadlands, Dickinson (Bap.)
It is endorsed by the direct personal testimony of men of national fame and of strictness of speech. It is not too much to say that no medicine ever had such support in its favor as a specific. The word of any one of the eminent divines who underwrite this antidote to dyspepsia has deserved weight. Their united witness joined with the experimental use and approval of the preparation by well-known physicians, removes all doubts. It is beyond question, a wonderful and specific agent.

SCRIBNER'S ILLUSTRATED MAGAZINE
FOR GIRLS AND BOYS.
AN ILLUSTRATED CHILDREN'S MAGAZINE.
Messrs. Scribner & Co., in 1878, began the publication of SCRIBNER'S ILLUSTRATED MAGAZINE for Girls and Boys, with Mrs. Mary Hooper Deane as editor. Five years have passed since the first number was published, and the magazine has won the highest approval.

It is published simultaneously in London and New York, and the transatlantic recognition is almost general and hearty as the American. Although the progress of the magazine has been a steady advance, it has not reached its editor's estimate of best, because her ideal continually outruns it, and the magazine as swiftly follows after. To-day SCRIBNER'S STANDS OVER 50,000 COPIES.

The arrangements for literary and art contributions for the new volume—the sixth—are complete, drawing from already favorite sources, as well as from promising new ones. Mr. Frank R. Stockton's new story for boys, "A JOLLY FELLOW," will run through the twelve monthly parts—beginning with the number for November, 1878, the first of the volume—and will be illustrated by Jas. F. Kelly. The story is one of travel and adventure in Florida and the Bahamas. For the girls, a continued tale, "RALPH A DOTTEN BOYSKEEPER,"

Written by Julian Hawthorne, and illustrated by Alfred Fredericks. About the other familiar features of SCRIBNER'S ILLUSTRATED MAGAZINE, the editor preserves a good-humored silence, content, perhaps, to let her five volumes already issued, professing concern in wishing to subscribe to short stories, pictures, poems, humor, instructive sketches, and the lure and lure of "Jack-in-the-Pulpit," the "Very Little Folk," and the "Letter-box," and "Riddle-box." Terms, $2.00 a year; 25 cents each number. Subscriptions sent by the publisher of this paper, and by all booksellers and postmasters. Persons wishing to subscribe to the magazine should send their name, postoffice, county and State, in full, and send with remittance in check, P. O. money order, or registered letter.
