The bagpipe is in Greensboro. The Greensboro Patriot is for sale. Hope Duffy won't quit.

Prof. Kerr was to have lectured last evening before the Fayetteville Lyceum. Burglars robbed the store of Johnson & Barber, of Raleigh, of $5 Tuesday night.

It is proposed to form a military company in Lenoir. A meeting with this object in view is to be held on the 20th.

Mr. James W. Dick, of Greensboro, was married Thursday morning in Wilmington to Miss Lucie Brown of that city.

Raleigh Recorder: Rev. Dr. B. Craven, president of Trinity College, does not believe women should preach. In other words he believes the Scriptures.

A cartridge which it is supposed had been swept into the fire place, exploded the other day in the house of Mr. John Y. Rice, of Rowan, and embedded itself in the wall.

The Grand Lodge of the State of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows meets in Fayetteville on the 4th inst. and the attendance is expected to be large.

A negro man, in attempting to board a Raleigh & Gaston freight train, at Raleigh, Wednesday, fell, and one foot was so badly mashed that amputation was necessary.

The Watchman claims for Salisbury the distinction of having a little darkey who has been known to stand upon his head on a six inch plank suspended over a mill race, which is ten or fifteen feet wide, while beneath him flowed water to the depth of ten feet.

Salem Press: Salem has done more in the 118 years of her existence for charitable and public purposes, than perhaps any town of its size in the State. Loss of houses, stock, horses, &c., have been replaced, the needy clothed, hungry fed, and works of public interest liberally supported.

Wilmington Sun of Thursday: Eighteen years ago, yesterday, the German Volunteers, Wilmington Rifle Guards and Cape Fear Light Artillery, all under command of Col. John L. Cartwell, by order of Gov. Ellis, went down the river and occupied the wharves at the entrance of the harbor.

The coroner of Caldwell county is to hold an inquest over the body of David May, who died from whiskey drinking, to learn if the whiskey was poisoned. He had drunk five quarts in the three days immediately preceding his death, and the Toxics is not inclined to think his poison had much to do with it. We should say it had, or else Mr. May was a very sorry drinker. Five quarts in three days ought not to hurt anybody.

Raleigh Observer, Thursday: We found the old doctor in the treasury office yesterday afternoon, looking as happy as the king in the parlor counting out his money. If it had not been for his lame leg and his crutches, we believe that we would have found him dancing about in a fashion that would have spoiled our faith in his Quaker habits. He is not getting on so well as he was. He is not getting on so well as he was. He is not getting on so well as he was.

How Opium Makes a Chinaman Feel. Wah Shung, the Sixth street laundry man, entered the drug store opposite his dive yesterday evening, and throwing down a nickel, said: "Give me centee opium."

While the clerk was getting him the drug, a Chinaman in a representative engaged the Chinaman in conversation: "Buy much opium, Wah?"

"Five, ten, fifteen centee worth a day." "Use it on shirts?" "Helle, no! Smoke it." "Like it?" "Belly good," and a happy smile spread over his mummy-like features.

"Tell me, Wah Shung, what kind of an effect does it produce—how does it make you feel?" "Makes Chinaman feel likee"—and here he stuck for a comparison to denote perfect happiness and contentment; "makes Chinaman feel likee—likee Melican man, General Grant, allee time plenty money, no much workee, takee things easy."

"Makes you forget your troubles, does it?" "Yes; forget troubles allee same like when you sleep." "See nice things in your dreams?" "Belly nice. Everything big and beautiful, but I made an enraptured gesture with his hands."

"Everything grand, I suppose?" "Belly grand. Chinaman's cellar look likee Gibson House."

"Is it possible?" "Smoothin' from look likee train of cars and washie-wash tub like a steamboat."

"You don't say so! And what else?" "Oh, heep ease, Wah Shung feel likee twenty-five hundred dollars."

The Asheville Journal says: There was one of the most remarkable feats of the day in Yancey county last week. A four year old son of J. A. McMahon swallowed a shoe hammer, handle and all. It caused considerable excitement at first, but the child not seeming to be in pain, the fears of the result were alleviated among the friends of the boy.

Two days afterwards the hammer, with the iron handle attached, was found, the boy having passed them off without any injury. "Dont you unconscious of the particular fact," the hammer alluded to was a toy hammer, handle three inches long, hammer 1 1/2 inches long, and about the size of a lead pencil, the handle being about half the size of a No. 2 lead pencil. The boy is doing well.

The State board of agriculture was in session at the executive office Wednesday. The Raleigh Observer says: Three hundred dollars was voted to enable the commissioner to make a good display of the products in his department at the next State fair. The salary of the State geologist was fixed at $2,000 per annum, and he was instructed to throw into shape the rough notes made by him during the past few years, and to do no field work until he receives further directions from the board. The chemist was instructed to employ an assistant to aid him in performing the new duties imposed upon him by the act creating the State board of health.

The matters pertaining to fish culture and entomology were referred directly to the commissioner, and he was authorized to engage the services of Mr. S. G. Worth to superintend the fish interests, at a salary not to exceed $1,000 per annum.

The Philadelphia Evening Telegraph, a Republican paper, expresses the opinion that if it is possible for the Republicans to unite the North upon their candidate in 1880 as to overcome the solid South, they could find no stronger candidate than Secretary of the Treasury Sherman. The Telegraph adds that if the Grant burrah should be successful, then a man less strong than John Sherman will be likely to win a leading race with Samuel J. Tilden—a race that John Sherman might make a winning one.

Herod's Conduct.

(Wilmington Sun.)

A few days ago we mentioned that the schooner Clara Merrick, bound for this port, had been lost off Hatteras, and the captain and crew of four men had been rescued and care of four men by Gaskill, of the schooner Mary Louisa. The act under the circumstances, being a most heroic one, we publish the full particulars, which we take from the Wilmington Herald.

The Mary Louisa was coming in from New York, and when a few miles from the wreck the men were discovered in the rigging, making signals of distress. The matter was called to the attention of Capt. Gaskill, when he went forward and closely observed the signals made by the wrecked men, after which he ordered the boat to be lowered and stated that he intended to save them if possible. The wind was blowing hard and the seas running very high at the time, and one of the men asked: "Will you try to reach those men under such circumstances as will these?" The captain replied: "I will attempt. I see the Masonic signal of distress displayed. Who will volunteer to go with me?" Two of the hands at once volunteered, when the three brave men stepped into the yawl and shoved off from the vessel. As we have before stated, their noble efforts were crowned with success. They reached the wrecked men, took them from their perilous position, and in the morning the sailing vessel returned in safety to the Mary Louisa. By this act Captain Gaskill saved a brother Mason, the captain of the Clara Merrick, from a watery grave.

After the Clara Merrick struck on the shoals, the yawl was blown off the beach, but the vessel sank before she reached the beach, in seven fathoms of water. The five men had been clinging to the rigging at the mast head about six hours when Captain Gaskill rescued them.

New Laws and Changed Laws. (Raleigh Observer.)

Sub-section 9, section 34, chapter 17, Battle's Revision, reads thus: "An action for relief on the ground of fraud, in cases which heretofore were solely cognizable by courts of equity, the cause of action in such cases not to be deemed to have accrued until the discovery by the aggrieved party of the facts constituting fraud." March 14, 1879, it was amended by adding the words: "or mistake," after the word "fraud," wherever occurring.

Section 23, chapter 32, Battle's Revision, ordains that persons convicted of manslaughter shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary or county jail for not less than four months nor more than ten years, or by fine, March 14, 1879, the penalty was fixed at imprisonment not less than four months nor more than twenty years, or by fine.

The punishment for malicious obstruction of roads (death not ensuing) has been fine not less than $200 nor more than $1,000, and imprisonment not more than three years nor less than six months. March 14, 1879, the imprisonment part of the penalty was changed to not less than four months nor more than ten years.

The use of dynamite cartridges, or any explosive article that destroys old and young fish alike, was on March 14, 1879, forbidden in North Carolina waters and rivers. Penalty not less than $5 nor more than $25 for each offence.

Since the same date parties to proceedings before the Superior Court by appeal or otherwise in the matter of the State of North Carolina vs. John L. Cartwell, et al., have been published, have been published to a jury on every issue of fact.

On March 14, 1879, judgments against infant, idiot or lunatic defendants upon whom there was no personal service of the summons, &c., &c., were validated, provided that the actions were bona fide defended by guardians. But they may be impeached and set aside for frauds.
