

The Charlotte Observer.

CHAS. B. JONES, Editor and Proprietor. "Free from the detouring scruples that fetter our free-born sons."

SUNDAY, APRIL 20, 1879.

THE MUNICIPAL NOMINATING CONVENTION.

Our columns contain a call for a convention of the people of Charlotte at the court house to-morrow night for the purpose of nominating a candidate for mayor. A word with all concerned on this subject. This must be a perfectly free, fair and open convention of the time spent in registering its edict will be lost. Good party people feel themselves called upon to abide the action of their party conventions whether they like them or not; but we must understand it is not a political convention, and hence its decision will have none of the force of a party mandate. In this case everything depends upon the proceedings being on the square. There are many people who despise this thing into which the municipal canvass has gotten, and who have well-grounded fears that if the field is filled with candidates the honors may drop into unworthy hands. This class—and it is a very numerous class—will gladly support the action of this convention to-morrow night if that action is dictated by prudence, fairness and wisdom. But if any clique or faction, or the friends of any particular gentleman, go into that convention with the discovered purpose of capturing it, and do capture it, they will, after all, have their labor for their pains and defeat for their reward. If any one supposes that in this instance a nomination thus procured, will be considered as bearing any seal of authority, why that person will find himself mistaken. That is all. There are times when a convention may be packed and the people still obey its edict, but this is not one of those times. This is not a political contest, and whether or not the nomination that is made to-morrow night will carry any influence with it, depends altogether upon the manner in which it is made. The people may consent to be trifled with when, by submitting, they may accomplish a party end; but in this case there is no political purpose to be subserved and they will brook no foolishness. It will be just as well if the things here said are remembered, through the next two days at least.

A POLITICAL REMINISCENCE.

In John Russell Young's historic interview with General Grant at Paris, printed not quite a year ago, the general is reported as having referred to the third term proposition, as it was presented in 1876, as follows: Then came the discussion about the third term. I gave my views on that in my letters to Senator White, of Pennsylvania. It is not known, however, how strongly I was pressed to enter the canvass as a candidate. I was waited upon formally by a distinguished man, representing the influences that would have controlled the Republicans in the South, and asked to allow my name to be used. This request was supported by men in the Northern States whose position and character are unquestioned. I said then that under no circumstances would I become a candidate.

THE WASHINGTON REPUBLICAN SAYS.

It is no breach of confidence to state now that the "distinguished man" above referred to was Judge Thomas Settle, then of North Carolina, now of Florida. This is interesting, and the interest is not diminished by the fact that it was the general understanding about the time referred to that Grant was re-nominated for a third term, Captain Settle's name would come second on the ticket.

POLITICAL SIGNIFICANCE OF THE BOND PROPOSITION.

It is quite evident that the New York syndicate does not share Mr. Garfield's opinion on the subject of "resolution." When that association of banks and bankers subscribes to a government issue of $100,000,000 of bonds in one lot, it may be taken as conclusive proof that there is no immediate danger of the government being overthrown by "Confederate brigadiers" or anybody else. It is a very significant fact that this unparalleled expression of confidence in the stability of our government affairs comes at a time when the "rebel Democracy" have just gotten possession of the legislative branch of the government, and the standard-bearers of the "rebel Democracy" are now in the saddle, and the people can never be brought to believe that this government is in any danger, from within or without as long as the financial men of the country continue to give such substantial manifestations as this of their confidence in the integrity of purpose of the dominant party.

A PACIFIC ADJUSTMENT PREDICTED.

In reference to the deadlock between Congress and the President, Col. A. K. McClure, editor of the Philadelphia Times, telegraphs as follows, under date of the 17th, from Washington to his newspaper: The signs are unmistakable that the desperate players for a political panic have utterly failed in their venture, and I am to-day convinced in the belief that the whole matter will be adjusted in a short time and without any violent antagonism between the President and Congress. I do not mean to say that the President is certain or even likely to approve both the army and the legislative appropriation bills as they will be passed, but I believe that the appropriation bills, the repeal of the oath for jurors, the repeal of the clause allowing the use of troops at elections and the modification of the national election laws will all be passed and signed by the President within the next forty or sixty days, and then give the country another breathing spell to cultivate peace and advance its general prosperity.

COL. STEELE AND THE LEGISLATIVE BILL.

We infer from the following, from the Raleigh News, that Mr. Steele is still firm in his purpose to speak on the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill. When he gets the floor on the legislative bill Representative Steele will sharply reply to the Iowa idiot, who went out of his way to "sing dirt" on North Carolina in his remarks on the army bill. Steele calls a spade a spade, and we like that outspoken way of dealing with men and things.

Improper actions of food often cause the blood to become impure, and humors, disease the blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and be healthy.

TRADE AND MEXICAN DOLLARS.

In the House of Representatives, Thursday, Mr. Seales, of North Carolina, filed a bill as a petition "fixing the value of the trade and Mexican dollars, and providing that the legal tender silver dollar shall be the unit of value." The Washington Republican says it provides that the trade dollar of the United States and the Mexican dollar shall be receivable at the United States Treasury and its several offices at the value of 100 cents and all sums so deposited shall be re-coined into United States legal tender dollars of 112 1/2 grains troy, and that the legal tender silver dollar shall be a unit of value.

Until final disposition is made of this bill it might be well enough for the many holders, in this section, of Mexican dollars, to continue to hold on to them, rather than let them go at 75 cents, which is about the height of their present value as currency.

ANOTHER PRECEDENT.

The New York Star has developed another highly interesting piece of political history antecedent the present "revolutionary" legislation of the Democrats in Congress. In reference to the Southern claims commission the Star says: An interesting thing about this claims commission is that it was not created at all in that regular way for which the Republicans have suddenly become such sensitive sticklers. A Republican Congress attached it as an amendment to the army bill of 1871, and maintained boldly that it was right and proper to do so. Some of the very orators who have been fierce in denouncing the repeal of a few words of the Revised Statutes by means of the army appropriation bill, so as to forbid the presence of troops at the polls, were conspicuous in tacking this claims commission on the army bill!

QUESTIONS OF DECENCY.

THE CHARLOTTE (N. C.) OBSERVER cannot be faulted for being decent, perhaps, in its controversies.—Washington Republican. Our amiable contemporary says for more than we can say for it. And yet perhaps we ought not to put it quite so strongly, either, for we don't know whether or not it could be decent if it tried. It never tries and we have no means of judging.

STATE NEWS.

The Concord band has a half dozen engagements ahead.

A military company has been formed in Morganton with L. A. Bristol as captain.

A wolf weighing eighty pounds was killed on the 2nd inst. in Buncombe county.

Rebecca's Tent is the name of a colored charitable organization in Wilmington.

Shadrach Britte hanged himself near South Mills, Camden county, on the 8th inst.

The third floor of the Asheville court house has been rented and will be fixed up for a theatre.

A negro in Wilson county, near Toisnot, was struck by lightning one day last week and killed.

Messrs. C. G. Montgomery and John J. Cross announced their names as candidates for the office of mayor of Concord.

A white woman living near Easonville, Nash county, tried to poison another, one day last week. Jealousy, the cause.

The Economist says that Elizabeth City has shipped through the Dismal Swamp Canal more than $100,000 worth of fish this year.

Mr. Eliza Boothe, of Northampton county, died on the 18th inst. at the home of Edward Condit, aged 82 years, and was buried at death last Monday night.

The Citizen understands that Judge Bond will preside with Judge Dick in the Federal court which meets at Asheville on the 6th of May.

W. H. Boyette, a mulatto, has been arrested in Wilmington for extensive robberies of school houses. Much of the stolen property was found in his possession.

The News learns that the exodus fever has attacked the negroes at Weldon, and that caucuses have been held to consider the expediency of moving away.

Lynchburg Virginian: Hon. Z. B. Vance has promised, if not otherwise prevented, to deliver an address at the spring fair which is soon to take place in Lynchburg.

A train on the Washington & Jamesville road ran off the track on the 15th inst. Joe Forbes, brakeman, was instantly killed, and the passenger and fish coaches smashed.

Speaking of the recommendation that the 20th of May be observed as a general holiday throughout the State the Tarboro Southern says: We rather like the idea. It is something of which any people might be proud.

Concord Register: Jesse Heathcock will be home in a day or two. He will come home with the same legs he took away. The surgeons removed the ball, which he received at the Gettysburg fight, from his thigh, and say they will send him home sound in limb.

Lemuel Newsome, the oldest citizen of Hertford county, died last week, aged 96 years. Capt. Abram Thomas, one of the oldest and most respected citizens of the same county, fell dead while feeding his horse last week, as we learn from the Enquirer.

The Tarboro Southern learns that a young white man named Jerre Smith, while under the influence of liquor, got in a difficulty with a negro and cut his throat in Nashville, Nash county, on Monday. The jugular vein was severed and the negro is not expected to live.

Asheville Citizen: Last week Deputy Collector Williams, assisted by Wyatt Hayne and W. S. Rannion, of Madison, seized an illicit distillery in Madison and arrested James Wallen. The latter asked to be allowed to go to his house and change his shoes, and was accompanied home by Messrs. Hayne and Rannion. While the party were in the house, Wallen's wife and two other women seized the officers and held them firmly while Wallen made good his escape. Mrs. W. is a wife worth having in such emergencies.

Duncan Johnson, the boy who killed another boy in Goldsboro a few weeks ago, was tried last week in Wayne Superior Court, acquitted and discharged from custody. The Goldsboro Messenger says the young defendant was ably represented by Messrs. W. T. Dorth & Son and Grainger & Bryson, while Messrs. Faircloth & Simmon had been employed by friends of the defendant to assist Captain Galloway in the prosecution. The youthful homicide occupied the prison cell, and maintained his composure with wonderful sang froid and an almost stolid imperturbability.

SILVER AND SQUABBLES.

THE MATTERS IN THE HOUSE. The Senate on the 18th inst. took up the coin bill, and the House on the 19th inst. took up the same bill.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—HOUSE.—The Journal this morning embodied for the first time the petitions deposited in the box so that the reading of the Journal occupied twenty minutes. The question was raised upon this fact by Garfield who expressed the hope that it would not pass into a precedent. An explanation was made by the Speaker to the reasons why he had directed this to be done, the principal one being that under existing circumstances, while petitions and memorials are being presented accompanied by bills, the question as to which committees they should be referred to became important, and already differences had arisen between the chair and members presenting petitions as to their proper reference. It was therefore deemed proper that the House should have the opportunity of passing on the question.

In the course of the discussion it was suggested by Frye that it might be well that there could be no objection whatever to the introduction of bills next Monday, however absurd they should be.

The matter was finally referred to the committee on rules.

The subsidiary silver coin bill then came up as the unfinished business of the morning hour.

Warner, of Ohio, moved to amend the third section which makes silver coin legal tender in the amount of $20, by striking the words "for all debts public and private."

The measure was considered at some length and numerous amendments considered and rejected upon.

Garfield's amendment to the bill, which would "make lawful money of the United States" for "legal tender money," and Springer's amendment, making subsidiary coins legal tender to the amount of $20, were agreed to.

Before the final disposition of the bill the morning hour expired and the bill went over to Tuesday.

The House then went into committee of the whole on the legislative bill.

Price, of Iowa, was entitled to the floor, but yielded to Frye, of Maine, who said in connection with the misunderstanding which had taken place yesterday between gentlemen from Kentucky and Ohio—Mr. Price, that he was in regard to the proper construction of Blackburn's speech, he desired to read the construction put upon that speech in the State of Mississippi by the now famous paper The Okolona States, which he had received through the mail. He thereupon read the article complimentary to Blackburn for his anti-war measures and speech, and bristling over with such phrases as "Down with the devil born amendments!" "Down with the scoundrels of Lincoln and the scoundrels who surrounded him!"

Blackburn took the floor and in a highly impassioned manner replied to Frye and was responded to in a like tone.

At 4:45 the House adjourned to Monday.

A CHANCE FOR SAVINGS. Secretary Sherman announces that it is the desire of the department to give every citizen of the United States an opportunity to invest in limited sums his savings in the purchase of certificates at par and accrued interest.

At the end of sixty days the offers already made for 4 per cent bonds sufficient to cover the 10-40 bonds then outstanding, if any, will be accepted.

SETTING BULL TO BE TAKEN IF HE RETURNS. The secretary of war has directed General Sherman that in case of his return of Sigsbee Bull, or any of his followers from the British possessions, they shall be taken and held as prisoners of war until further orders from the President.

ON THE OUTSKIRTS OF THE TALMAGE TRIAL. A Boy Wanted by an Elder, the Elder by a Reporter, and He by a Bookkeeper.

(New York Sun, Friday.) The votes taken yesterday were deemed to be expressive of the sense of the Presbytery toward Dr. Talmage, and which authoritatively announced last night that the event of the church to-day will decide in the minds of Dr. Talmage and his counsel whether or not they will leave the trial to go without a defendant. The friends of Dr. Talmage, it is said, have advised him that if he remains in the power of his ecclesiastical enemies he will be deposited from the ministry.

At the close of Wednesday's session of the Presbytery, as the last of the through wires coming out of the church, the Rev. Alfred Taylor, a member of the Presbytery, stopped on the top step of the portico to purchase a Brooklyn Eagle from a newsboy. Mr. George P. Edgar, a reporter, took by his side. As Mr. Taylor took the paper from the boy Elder Judson, a member of Mr. Crosby's church, seized the lad and pushed him down the steps. A number of bystanders said "name," and Edgar, the elder, by what authority he acted, and the elder, displaying his fist, said that that formed his authority. Mr. Taylor, who had not yet paid the boy, recalled, him, saying: "Come here my little friend, and let me finish operations where we began them. The lad ran up to get his money, and the elder seized him and whirled him down the steps again.

The Rev. Mr. Edgar caught hold of the elder and whirled him off the steps, and one of the special doorkeepers seized Mr. Edgar and whirled him off the elder. The Rev. Alfred Taylor was tempted to take a hand in the whirling, but repressing himself, he walked away. Mr. Edgar's hat was battered, but no bruises were made, and no blows were struck.

The National Board of Health. WASHINGTON, April 19.—The national board of health has issued a notice of a session to be held at Atlanta May 5th, contemporaneously with the American medical association, which meets in regular session at the same place the 6th of May, and urges upon all persons engaged in the study of sanitation, whether municipal, State or national, to be present and counsel with the board.

A 20-Inch Snow in New York. RONDOUT, N. Y., April 19.—The snow is lying at Stamford, Delaware county, twenty inches on a level, and it is still snowing.

The Death-Rate of Our country is getting to be fearfully alarming, the average of life being lessened every year, with any reasonable cause, death resulting generally from the most insignificant ailments. At this season of the year especially, a cold is such a common thing that in the hurry of every day life we are apt to overlook the dangers attending it and often find too late that a Fever or Lung trouble has already set in. Thousands lose their lives in this way every winter, while had Roscoe's Great Sarsaparilla been taken, a cure would have resulted, and a large bill from a doctor been avoided. For all diseases of the Throat and Lungs, Roscoe's Great Sarsaparilla has proven itself to be the greatest discoverer of our age. Every Druggist in the country will tell you of its every benefit. Over 300,000 bottles sold last year without a single failure known.

DESPOTIC RULE IN RUSSIA.

DISTRICTS UNDER GOVERNORS WITH DESPOTIC POWER. A Result of the Recent Attack on the Czars—A Serious Riot at Rostov.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 19.—The ukase just issued, ordering the appointment of governors general for six of the most populous districts in Russia with perfectly despotic powers, begins by stating that "reasons of state have shown that the interests in Russia a band of criminals, who, though not numerous, are very determined, and aim at undermining the State. After referring to the recent murders and attacks upon the higher officials, and the attempted assassination of the Emperor, the ukase continues: "These crimes have necessitated the provisional adoption of exceptional measures in order to permit the exemplary punishment of the guilty persons, and provide government officials with necessary powers for maintaining order."

The ukase proceeds to announce the provisional appointment of governors general of St. Petersburg, Charkoff and Odessa, invested with extended and extraordinary powers: similar powers are conferred upon the governors general of Moscow, Koff and Warsaw. The civil administration in the above districts is placed under the control of the governors general in the same manner as they are subordinate to the commander in chief of the army in time of war in districts where martial law has been proclaimed. The control of all educational establishments is vested in the governors general, who are also empowered to send before the military tribunals all civilians in the districts over which they preside. The governors general are further authorized to summarily remove from their respective districts all persons whose continued residence may be considered dangerous to order, to arrest any person whatsoever on their own judgment and responsibility; to suppress, temporarily or permanently, any newspapers or periodicals should they appear to follow a course tending to the general subversion of the State, and to adopt such measures as they may consider necessary for the preservation of the public peace.

The Emperor and Empress go to Livonia on the 20th inst. A disturbance occurred at Rostov, on the river Don, in the government of Ekaterinoslav, on the 14th. The police were unable to suppress it, and the military was called out and restored order. A riot lasted from the evening of the 14th to the morning of the 15th. The residences of the chief of police, overseer of the town, the district police station and police records were destroyed. Two policemen were killed.

A Change that is a Blessing. There is no more remarkable feature, in the progress of science, and no greater change in any professional practice than is illustrated by the contrast of the medical science of to-day, and thirty years ago. Then all medicines were copious in quantity and were of increased potency. A single dose was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed. Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and contain less than half the amount of the original. Until recently, however, one of the most valuable and most potent of all medicines was a medicine for which it was desirable to nearly all for whom it was prescribed, Cod Liver Oil, the only cure for wasting decline of vital energy, and certain means of restoring health, were considered a trial to adults, and an overwhelming horror to the young. Now most doses are small, and