WEDNESDAY, APRIL 23, 1879. TILDEN AND HENDRICKS.

It is interesting to watch the drift of, sentiment and to note the various conflicting opinions in connection with the next Democratic ticket, and especially so with reference to the Messrs. Tilden and Hendricks. Yesterday we copied a striking article from the Louisville Courier-Journal, on the subject. The New York Express takes issue with the Louisville Courier-Journal

It is with the greatest difficulty that he was prevailed upon by his friends to accept the nomination for the Vice-Presidency. He made a great sacrifice of personal interest and feeling by consenting to serve as the second man. After his nomination, through all the campaign in which he had a profound personal interest, in the protracted and intensely exciting contest which followed the election, he was virtually ignored by Tilden and Tilden's confederates, treated as though he had no part or lot in the matter, neglected and pushed aside as though he were a no-body. His name was hardly ever mentioned by Tilden and his understrappers. He was left out in the cold by the wily and selfish maneuverer who head of the ticket, before he was counted out by the electoral commission, about which he was not consulted. Mr. Hendricks has at least ordinary selfrespect. He will be likely to think twice before he consents to act as sec-ond man on any ticket headed by Samuel J. Tilden. Other things being equal, should be a Western man. Between Senator Thurman and ex-Gov. Hendricks it would be very hard indeed to choose. But Mr. Hendricks has one claim to the nomination which Mr. the next candidate of the Democracy claim to the nomination which Mr. Thurman cannot urge, in the fact that for the sake of the party and to strengthen a weak ticket he consented to take the second place when fairly entitled to the first place in 1876, and was counted out of the Vice-Presidenev, to which he was fairly elected. If he is drafted into the service again it must not be as the second man.

The Indianapolis Sentinel, published at the home of Gov. Hendricks, and supposed to represent the views of the Indiana Democracy, if not of Gov. Hendricks himself, reprints in leaded matter and adopts the above utterance from the Express, and adds:

The views expressed by our New York contemporary are manifestly in harmony with the sentiments of the great body of the people South and West, and it is not too much to say that in the East Mr. Hendricks would command a larger Democratic vote than any other name mentioned in connection with the first place on the tick- Ekowe, was attacked at daybreak on ct. At any rate it is well enough to state that the Courier-Journal ticket which places Mr. Hendricks second, is not indorsed by the Democracy any-

"LYNCH LAW" NOT "SANCTIONED."-THE OBSERVER, by the Asheville Journal, a paper usually so just to its political adversaries, sentiments which this paper not only never expressed but never entertained. After remarking upon the fact (one by the way, which we had overlooked) that numbers of North Carolina newspapers have recently sanctioned lynch law as a method of expediting the cause of justice, it it does us the compliment to say "is quoted from more than any other ten papers in the South," for approving of this method of the dispensation of justice. It bases its comments upon our recent editorial upon the Secrest case, nothing in which can, by any proper construction, be made to convey the idea which the Journal associates with it. Our mountain contemporary, however, does us the justice to copy the against it is by this much diminished."

THE CONVICT PROBLEM.-Most of the States find penitentiary convicts an incumbrance, while the management of their prisons is as far from perfect as ever. The Connecticut State prison, according to the report of a legislative committee, is as likely to corrupt as to reform the convicts. The enemy was rebarbarous punishment and laxity of pulsed with great loss. British loss was discipline are the rule and not the exception, and prisoners are often re-leased before the expiration of their terms through corrupt means. How to employ the prisoners without injury to honest labor is still an ugly question.

CONGRESSIONAL DIRECTORY. - We are indebted to the publisher, Maj. Ben. Perley Poore, for a copy of the first edition of the Congressional Directory, just now issued from the press. It is corrected to April 12th, and is a most valuable book for reference. It comprises the list of names of all the Senators and Representatives in Congress, with their post-offices and a biographical sketch of each. It gives their present residences in Washington, and accompanies this with a record of the standing committees of the Senate and House-a list of all the clerks and employes of the two houses, the heads and subordinates in all the departments, a statement of the duties of each of the departments, a list of the United States ministers, consuls and consulates and secretaries of American legations abroad, a diagram of the capitol, Washington City directory, and a vast quantity of other information, often wanted and hitherto inaccessible.

We have been frequently indebted of late to Hon. J. J. Davis, of the fourth district, for copies of notable speeches and for other public documents of interest and value.

THE SOUTH CAROLINA ELECTION CASES

Not Guilty, by Instructions, in the Barnwell Cases-All the Other Cases Continued.

CHARLESTON, April 22.—At the opening of the United States Circuit Court this morning, Judge Bond instructed the jury, charged with the trial of the Barnwell county election conspiracy cases, to bring in a verdict of not guilty, on the ground of a defect in the information. The information consisted of five separate counts. The first four counts charged that T. Tranersers, with other persons unknown, conspired to prevent Fred Nix, colored, and others who were qualified voters, from meeting peaceably in consultation in respect to public affairs and immunity granted to them by the United States. The fifth count charged that T. Tranersers conspired to injure and oppress Nix in the exercise of a right to vote at a Federal election on account of his race and color. The first four counts of the information, the judge held, could not be maintained, because they contained no allegation that the parties alleged to have been interfered with had been molested on account of their race or color. The fifth count, he said, while it charged an offence under the statute, that is the right to vote at an election without distinction of race or color, there had been no proof offered to sustain. The jury, accordingly, brought in a verdict of not guilty.

United States District Attorney L. A. Northrop, then, to the surprise of the vast audience in the court room moved to continue all the political cases until next November term of court, and stated as his ground for making such a motion that it would be impossible after the ruling of the court just made, and in consequence of the time already consumed in dilatory motions on the part of the defence, to proceed with the trials without enormous expense to the government. There being no objection to the motion on the part of the de-fence, the cases were all continued until next term.

Serious Banger Threatens every man, woman or child living in a region of country where fever and ague is prevalent, since the germs of malarial disease are inhaled from the air and are swallowed from the water of such a region. Medicinal safeguard is absolutely necessary to nullify this danger. As a means of fortifying and acclimating the system so as to be able to resist the malarial poison, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is incomparably the best and the most popular. Irregularities of the stomach, liver and bowels encourage malaria; but these are speedily rectified by the Bitters. The functions of digestion and secretion are assisted by its use, and a vigorous as well as regular condition of the system promoted by it. Constitution and physique are thus defended against the inroads of malaria by this matchless preventive, which is also a certain and thorough remedy in the worst cases of intermittent and remittent fevers.

Queer Legislative Beings in Louisiana.

The action of the Legislature of the State of Louisiana in passing an act to repeal the charter of the Louisiana State Lottery Company has been announced in the papers; but it appears that the injury intended to an institution which has paid by contract hundreds of thousands of dollars to keep the doors of the far famed Charity Hospital open for the sick and suffering cannot be accomplished. The Supreme Court of the United States has always maintained that the sanctity of such contracts cannot be violated, and hence, for twenty-five years from its organization in 1868, it will continue its work of usefulness and benevolence. The Louisiana State Lottery Company draws, next month, its 108th monthly grand distribution at New Orleans, and an application to M. A. Dauphin, P. O. It is endorsed by the direct personal testimony of men of national fame and of strictness of speech. It is not too much to say that no medicine ever had such support in its favor as a specific. The word of any one of the eminent divines who underwrite this antidote to dyspepsia has deserved weight.
