

THE VANCE-BLAINE COLLOQUY.

Why Republican Candidates are Not Run in Certain Districts of North Carolina.

[Congressional Record, Friday, 30th May.]

Mr. Vance. Mr. President, I desire, inasmuch as the Senator from Maine...

Mr. Blaine. I have the statistics here right to hand for the honorable Senator from North Carolina.

Mr. Vance. And the Democratic vote in the district was 7,868.

Mr. Blaine. And all the other Democratic votes...

Mr. Vance. Yes, sir; because your party had not received the supplies and orders from Washington City.

Mr. Blaine. Out of a Democratic vote two years ago of 20,000 in the district...

Mr. Vance. I cannot state exactly what each man had in mind...

Mr. Blaine. Then I will give him an account...

Mr. Vance. Two years ago there were 10,383 Republican votes...

Mr. Blaine. How was it known throughout that district that the 10,383 Republicans...

Mr. Vance. That is precisely the same conundrum you put me before...

Mr. Blaine. Did the Republicans vote for Mr. Steele also?

Mr. Vance. No, sir.

Mr. Blaine. Then it is not the same conundrum, because the answer is not the same.

Mr. Vance. They did not come out at all, they put out no candidate.

Mr. Blaine. Why did they not have a candidate?

Mr. Vance. You ought to answer that. You were in authority in Republican councils in Washington City...

Mr. Blaine. I could give a reason, but the honorable Senator would not accept it.

Mr. Vance. I am sure I do not.

Mr. Blaine. I could give a reason, but the honorable Senator would not accept it.

Mr. Vance. I am sure I do not.

Mr. Blaine. I could give a reason, but the honorable Senator would not accept it.

county or municipal elections to bring voters to the polls.

Mr. Blaine. In some States there were, I suppose, and in some there were not.

Mr. Vance. And in North Carolina there were no elections, State, county, or municipal.

Mr. Blaine. The answer to the Senator is this: that there were only two districts of the entire North that did not cast a larger vote than the aggregate of the other counties.

Mr. Vance. That shows a condition in the whole of them.

Mr. Blaine. The President pro tempore, the morning hour, the Senate, and the chair lay on the Senate the unfinished business yesterday.

Mr. Vance. The New Orleans board of health having investigated rumors of the appearance of four cases of yellow fever there, pronounce them unfounded.

Mr. Blaine. A fatal case of sunstroke occurred at Belleville, Ont., last Friday, the victim being Joseph Gordon, a laborer, who was prostrated at noon while at work, and died in two hours.

Mr. Vance. Col. Alfred Shorter, of Home, Ga., has donated a tract of land to the Baptist church of that city, at a cost of nearly $100,000.

Mr. Blaine. Thurman's remark on hearing of the nomination of Foster was, "Well, that relieves me"—a very broad implication that there were others who could lead what the Democrats hope will be a winning fight as well as himself.

Mr. Vance. Information has been received at Richmond, Va., charging that a brutal outrage was committed by Charles Guilson upon Ellen Gwynn, in Matthews county, Va., a day or two ago.

Mr. Blaine. Rev. John Miller, whose name has been struck from the rolls of the Presbytery of New Brunswick, N. J., has recently been engaged in delivering a series of private lectures before students of Princeton Theological Seminary.

Mr. Vance. A majority of the State Supreme Court at Jackson, Tenn., Saturday, decided that the previous charter of the city of Memphis had been validly repealed by the late Legislature.

Mr. Blaine. The Democratic caucus committee had a four-hour session yesterday on the political situation.

Mr. Vance. No final result was reached, but considerable progress was made toward an agreement on a plan of action.

Mr. Blaine. Mr. Atkins said last night that he is confident that a plan will be agreed upon and carried out, and that they will prohibit the expenditure of any money for election purposes.

Mr. Vance. The members of the committee in their talk showed unmistakable and unanimous stiffness of purpose.

Mr. Blaine. Mr. Thurnam that they would follow him in anything he might suggest.

Mr. Vance. He, in turn, was for insisting absolutely on the right of Congress to stipulate how the appropriations should be spent.

Mr. Blaine. When the meeting dissolved it was with the understanding that the committee should stand firmly for this right.

Mr. Vance. Each man should be left unmolested as to his action, and that if the Radicals should move to strike out the restrictions in the appropriation bill, the issue should be left to the people.

Mr. Blaine. The committee will follow him in anything he might suggest.
