FINANCES AND THE PARTIES.

There are elements inside of the Democratic party, which, otherwise harmonious, clash when a question of finance is raised. For this reason it was hoped that after the passage of the Bland bill, the remonetization of silver and the resumption of specie payments on the part of the government—the two coins standing on the same footing—the question of the finances would be laid aside and the differences within the party adjusted. They would have been had the question been allowed to rest there. These results were a compromise of themselves: the soft money men gained their end in the passage of the Bland bill, and the hard-money men saw their victory in the success of resumption. But instead of resting the case there, Mr. Warner, of Ohio, springs another silver bill in the House, and the old feeling between the two factions is revived. To such an extent has this gone that Mr. Bayard, a hard-money man, has found it necessary to send in his resignation as chairman of the finance committee of the Senate. There is a most disagreeable state of affairs. One of the truest, ablest and best men of the party has been driven to this extremity, and the resignation is now pending, with the probability of its being not accepted. We are pleased to note that in the Senate Democratic caucus, held last Tuesday, Mr. Gordon made a speech, "which is described on all hands as one of great fervor and eloquence," in opposition to accepting Mr. Bayard's resignation, well designating that gentleman, in the course of his remarks, as "the truest of the true."

It is worth while to notice the causes leading up to this state of things. All the difficulty grew out of Mr. Bayard's preference that the Warner bill should go over until the December session. Only this and nothing more. On account of this it is moved that the finance committee of the Senate be discharged from the further consideration of the bill and the Senate take it in its own hands. This implying a reflection upon the chairman of the committee, he very properly resigned.

Passing by the merits and demerits of the Warner bill, everybody must have seen by this that it is altogether ill-timed. Had its introducer and manager exhibited the proper wisdom he would have withheld it until the regular session, or, having introduced it, would have consented to its going over after seeing to what its discussion was leading. In point of fact there is no necessity for it, the finances having been too much tinkered with already, and in point of policy it should have been held back at least until the December session.

YET AGAIN.

It would appear to be almost unnecessary to do so again, but for mere truth's sake we are prompted to repeat that THE OBSERVER has never nominated Hendricks and Church as the next national Democratic ticket. An editorial in the Raleigh News, treating this ticket as of THE OBSERVER's suggestion, inspires us to again disavow the responsibility for it. As the News manifestly did not see the original article on the subject as it appeared in these columns, nor yet a subsequent denial of our responsibility for it, it in all probability will not see this; therefore, instead of asking it for a correction we make the correction ourselves. The sum and substance of the matter is that a communication addressed "To the Editor of THE OBSERVER," and signed "Two Democrats," appeared in the issue of this paper of the 20th of May. This paper referred to the communication editorially, and characterized the proposed ticket as another addition to the list of available names—neither endorsing nor repudiating it. And while upon the subject, we take occasion to say again that we are not in the business of President making at present. It is too far off by two-thirds, or three-fourths to commit one's self irrevocably to or against any man for the presidency next year. Many men are made and marred in a year's time, and it is folly for any one to undertake now to say who will be the strongest man next year. He who is at this time may be the weakest then, and of all those who have been mentioned he who is the weakest now a year hence may be the strongest. For this reason we have not been able to see the utility or the wisdom of making much noise thus far ahead for or against any particular man or men. There is time enough for that if, indeed, it need to be done at all.

NORTH CAROLINA POLITICS.—The North Carolina correspondent of the New York Times has resumed his work of speculating upon the future of politics in this State. He very wisely treats the question without any reference whatever to the Republican party, but this is the only particular in which he does manifest any great degree of wisdom. He pictures a purely imaginary warfare between a half dozen alleged factions of the Democratic party in this State, and on the basis of this imaginary state of affairs makes and breaks slates with the utmost facility. His speculations are based upon nothing and lead nowhere and the purpose of them cannot be divined by any human being.

They have a female walking match in progress at Petersburg, Va., and it is drawing largely. Three or four women are engaged, and Tuesday one of them made two consecutive miles in twelve minutes each.

Two hundred and fifty-seven drinking saloons do business in the city of Richmond, Va.

Many physicians are prescribing Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup because they know it is a good remedy for children, and is warranted to contain no other Opium, Morphia, Eucalyptus or Laudanum, the base of the usual soothing remedies.

PERTAINING TO RAILROADS.

A correspondent asked us, in THE OBSERVER of the 15th, "what management the Western North Carolina Railroad is under? Whether of the State of North Carolina or the Richmond, Va. merchants, through the Richmond and Danville Railroad?" We have passed the question over until now, when our neighbor, the Democrat, insists that we answer it. We can answer the Democrat in its own words: "We hear considerable complaint, but are not familiar enough with the facts to make a decided statement"—but this is a begging the question. At the same time it is the best answer we can render. Little can be learned by outsiders of the workings of railroad companies, and we do not know what the "policy" of the management of the Western North Carolina Railroad is, if it has any special "policy." We have heard it said that it has charged a great deal more on freights from Wilmington and Charlotte, delivered to it at Statesville, than it does on freight from Richmond, intended for the same point, delivered to it at Salisbury, notwithstanding in the latter case it actually hauls it twenty-five miles further. Why this is, so if so, we do not undertake to say, because we do not know; that it is so, we could not swear, and yet with the aid of a "squire" we could most probably prove it. Still, this is not answering the question asked, our inability to do which was acknowledged in the outset.

When one Georgian hounds another's steps and shoots him without provocation, they send him to the penitentiary for life; when another shoots the man for life who has destroyed his domestic happiness, they likewise send him to the penitentiary for life, thereby giving the same grade to both of the crimes, though the jury is allowed to consider the circumstances. It appears from this that in Georgia justice there is something a little "peculiar."

Prince Louis Napoleon, the Prince Imperial of France, has been killed by the Zulus, according to a cable dispatch from Capetown. He is the last of a long and illustrious line, and with his death perishes the last prospect of a re-establishment of the empire in France.

END OF THE DUEB-HARN CASE.

Not Guilty of Murder, but Guilty of Manslaughter.

SNOW HILL, June 19.—The jury in the Dueb case came into court at 9.15 with a verdict of "guilty of murder with a recommendation to the mercy of the court." The jury foreman, the foreman of the jury, said the verdict must be formal and the reply must be guilty of murder but guilty of manslaughter. The foreman's answer was but before the verdict was recorded Mr. Crisfield, counsel for the defense, demanded a poll of the jury. When the eighth juror, Edward F. Causey, was called, he answered, "not guilty." His reply caused a sensation in court and appeared to afford relief to many in the court house. The judge then said as the jury had not agreed they would have to retire for further consideration. At 11.10 the jury again came in court and in reply to the usual question answered "not guilty of murder but guilty of manslaughter." The sheriff took charge of the prisoner and the court took a recess until 2 o'clock.

LATER.—Judge Wilson pronounced sentence upon Miss Dueb this afternoon for the killing of Miss Harn. In view of the prisoner's previous good character and the recommendation of the jury to the mercy of the court, he remitted the imprisonment and simply sentenced her to pay the maximum fine prescribed by law, viz: $500.

THE ENGLISH WALKING MATCH.

Weston Ahead—The Best Time for the Distance on Record.

LONDON, June 19.—Public interest in the international pedestrian contest increases. Brown left the track at 15 minutes past 10 o'clock, looking rather queer. His record at that time was 346 miles and two laps. A few minutes after 11 o'clock Weston completed the same distance and returned to the starting place. A short time after he announced that he had taken the lead in the best time for the distance ever yet accomplished.

LATER.—At 3.35 p.m. Brown was on the track walking slowly and wearing an elastic supporter on the right knee, which had given way. The score stands: Weston 361, Brown 255. Weston is going strongly. He says this will be his last performance in London, so he will endeavor to cover 550 miles.

LATER.—The scores of the pedestrians at 6 p.m. were: Weston, 360 miles, Brown, 360.

THE LAST OF THE LINE.

Prince Louis Napoleon Killed by the Zulus.

LONDON, June 19.—A Reuter dispatch from Capetown, dated June 18, via Madeira to-day, states that Prince Louis Napoleon, Prince Imperial of France, accompanied by other officers, left Col. Woods' camp to reconnoitre. The party dismounted in a meadow field, when the enemy crept upon them and killed the prince, with assegoes. His body was recovered.

Alleged Riot in Minnesota.

ST. PAUL, June 18.—The Governor was summoned at midnight, last night, to Tracy, Minn., the terminus of the Hastings and Dakota Railroad, to suppress a riot caused by three hundred laborers and tramps. He left at 2 p.m. to-day.

ST. PAUL, June 19.—It was an unnecessary alarm about the railroad riot. It seems that three hundred laborers, employed on the New Chicago & Dakota road, struck on account of not being promptly paid, and made a noisy demonstration and frightened the sheriff, who called on the Governor for troops. The workmen have been paid and quiet is restored.

The Fall River Trade.

FALL RIVER, Mass., June 17.—It was ascertained this afternoon that at two print cloth mills no notices of intention to quit work had yet been given. Quite a large number of spinners have withdrawn their notices from one corporation, and there are said to be scattering similar actions at one or two other mills.

Fire in the Metropolitan Hotel, New York.

NEW YORK, June 19.—A fire broke out this morning in the Metropolitan Hotel, the flames being from the roof of the extension at Crosby and Prince streets, between the main building and Niblo's Garden. The flames were soon under control. The damage is $5,500.

ANOTHER NIGHT SESSION.

THE SENATE SITTING UP WITH THE ARMY BILL.

Hot Words Between Lamar and Conkling—A Vote on the Army Bill to be Held To-Day—Garfield on His High Horse in the House.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—SENATE.—The Senate remained in session all night. The Democrats refused to adjourn unless the Republicans would agree to fix a time for a vote on the army bill to-day, and the night was passed in hot calls and attempts to compel the attendance of absent Senators. At an early hour this morning an excited personal controversy took place between Conkling and Lamar, in which Lamar pronounced a statement of Conkling's falsehood, and which, he said, he repelled with all the unmitigated contempt that he felt for the author of it.

Conkling, in answering him, said that in the member from Mississippi, impudently and intended to impute falsehood to him, nothing except the fact that that was the Senate would prevent his denouncing him as a blackguard, coward and liar.

Lamar replied that the Senator understood him correctly. He begged the pardon of the Senate for unparliamentary language, and said it was severe—it was such as no good man would wear, and no brave man would wear. The discussion of the power of the Senate to send for absent Senators was resumed. A motion of Burnside to compel the attendance of absentees having been agreed to, the sergeant-at-arms at 10.15 proceeded to the execution of the order.

At 11.50 Withers made a parliamentary inquiry. It was whether, if the Senate adjourn now, the legislative day of Thursday would commence at noon. The chair responded in the affirmative, and on motion of Withers, the Senate adjourned and re-assembled at noon. The chair stated that owing to the length of the previous session, the journal would not be completely made up, and suggested that the reading thereof be dispensed with.

Conkling objected and insisted on the observance of the rule, which provides that the first business is the reading of the journal.

Davis, of West Virginia—I take it—Conkling (interrupting)—I object to all debate. The chair said the reading of the journal could not be dispensed with except by unanimous consent.

1.30.—The Republicans are engaged in parliamentary tactics to prevent action of all kinds. Filibustering by the Republicans continued until after 2 o'clock when the chair said that at the expiration of the morning hour he should have announced the resumption of the consideration of the army appropriation bill and did so now. Capetown, of Wisconsin, being entitled to the floor.

Carpenter proceeded to explain why the Republicans resorted to parliamentary tactics last night. He said the entire day was consumed in debating the army bill but in the delivery of campaign speeches, and then after 6 o'clock the Democrats insisted on a vote upon the bill and cutting off further debate. If now the Democrats would agree to adjourn until tomorrow a vote could be reached to-morrow. He then added, with the consent of the Republicans generally, that no attempt would be made to delay proceedings to-morrow beyond the limits of propriety.

After further remarks by Withers and Conkling in which the former said there was no time yesterday when he would not have consented to such an arrangement as that now suggested, Carpenter's proposal was agreed to, on motion of Thurman, the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—McMahon, of Ohio, submitted a conference report upon the judicial expenses bill. Under the report, section 2 of the bill will prohibit the making of any contract or the incurring of any liability under any of the provisions of title 26 of the Revised Statutes authorizing the appointment of marshals for general or special deputy marshals for services in connection with elections or on election day. The report is under discussion.

Monroe, of Ohio, one of the conferees on the part of the House, explained the reason of his report. He said he was laying down the bill in relation to the question, arguing that the bill was a nullification of the law; that it placed the President in an attitude where he must either observe his oath and execute the laws and thereby subject himself to impeachment, or must violate his oath and his conscience. No President would allow himself to be put in such an attitude, and, therefore, he said, in conclusion, "farwell" to all prospects of home. We stay.

This declaration was greeted with applause on the Republican side. Springer replied to Garfield, and declared that if the President altered this bill he will put himself in the attitude of defying the majority in Congress and demanding of that majority to do what was wrong. They would not do it never. (Jeering remarks on the Republican side of "what never.") McMahon sustained the report against the argument of Garfield, and provoked the derisive jeers of the Republicans by an allusion to the President as "His Fraudulency."

The discussion was closed by the speech from McMahon, after which the vote was taken and the conference report adopted by a strict party vote of 102 to 75.

The House then took up the bill to provide for the exchange of trade dollars for legal tender silver dollars, and after speeches by Cox and Stephens adopted an amendment providing that the trade dollars received under this act shall not be counted as part of the coinage of silver authorized by the act of February 28, 1878.

The bill was then passed without division and the House adjourned.

Motions for New Trials.

ATLANTA, June 19.—Arguments in the Cox case on the motion for a new trial will take place to-morrow. It is not believed that it will be granted. The proceeding will be commenced in the Hill case.

SPARKS FROM THE WIRES.

Three hundred helpers and puddlers, employed in the Allentown (Pa.) rolling mills, struck Wednesday night for an advance of 5 cents per hour, and the mills have suspended operations.

A Brussels dispatch says the elementary education bill, which the Clericals bitterly opposed, has passed the Senate by a vote of 53 to 31.

The will of Baron Rothschild disposing of personality to the amount of $2,700,000.

Cardinal Carafa di Trastetto, of Rome, is said by Baron Rothschild to have been handed to Hanlon, who is said, would be much pleased if the next challenger would come to Toronto, but rather than cause a misunderstanding, he would rather cause a misunderstanding to row any bona fide challenger.

All persons desiring a family medicine should only choose Dr. Bull's Baltimore Pills, which promptly relieve and cure all cases of the Bowel, Liver, Bile and Blood. Price 25c.
