CHARLOTTE, N. C., FRIDAY, JULY 18, 1879.

JOHN PAYNE.

Has summer come without the rose, Or left the bird behind? Is the blue changed above thee, O world! or am I blind? Will you change every flower that grows, Or only change this spot— Where she who said, "I love thee,"

Now says "I love thee not?" The skies seemed true above thee;
The rose true on the tree;
The birds seemed true the summer through;
But all proved false to me;
World, is there one good thing in you—
Life, love or death—or what?
Since lips that sang "I love thee,
Have said "I love thee not?"

I think the sun's kiss will scarce fall Into one flower's gold cup; I think the bird will miss me

And give the summer up: O sweet place, desolate in tall Wild grass, have you forgot How her lips loved to kiss me, Now that they kiss me not?

Be false or fair above me;
Come back with any face,
Summer, do I care what you do?
You cannot change one place—
The grass, the leaves, the earth, the dew—
The grave I make the spot,
Here where she used to love me.
Here where she loves me not!

An Illinois man shot his sister because he didn't want her to marry. Alice Oates would have found a brother of that sort decidedly unhandy. Mrs. Langtry, it appears, is as brave as she is beautiful. Notwithstanding Henry Ward Beecher is running around loose she intends visiting this country.—Phila. Chron.

ORSERVATIONS.

The foolish story that Talmage and Sarah Bernhardt have exchanged pulpits in London ought to be contradicted at once. Sarah is not in the ballet line.—Phila. Bul. Mosquito Nettings,

A competition in thinness between Alex. Stephens and Sarah Bernhardt is proposed, and Mr. Stephens telegraphs: "I'm meagre for the fray."—Phila, Chron. Fourth of July is the day when our forefathers pledged their lives, their fortunes and sacred hon-or. The young men of the present day will go them better, and pledge their watches and even their boots for money enough to get tight on. "Bub, did you ever stop to think," said a Lynchburg grocer, recently, as he measured out half a peck of potatoes. "that these potatoes contain sugar, water and starch?" "No, I didn't" replied the boy, "but I heard mother say that you put peas and beans in your coffee, and about a pint of water in every quart of oysters you sold." The subject of natural philisophy was dropped right there.—Lynch-burg News. fident we can make it to your advantage to do so.

The theory now is that Mr. Seymour was killed by a theological student who was firing at a mark.

Pistol shooting is not generally a part of a course ristol shooting is not generally a part of a course in theology, but perhaps this student was qualifying for missionary duty on the frontier, by trying one of the cheap revolvers given by religious newspapers as premiums to new subscribers.—Phila.

Crockery and Glassware A rascal is now traveling in southern Iowa, A rascal is now traveling in southern Iowa, among the farmers, purchasing eggs and chickens, for which he pays a good price, invariably requiring a receipt for the money paid, which receipt the fellow writes with a lead pencil, the point of which breaks just as he gets to his signature, when he produces a stylographic pen, hands it to the farmer and he signs the receipt in ink. The fellow goes away, erases the pencil writing, writes with his pen a promissory note for $100 over the signature, sells the note, and the farmer has to pay it.—

After packing his budget, preparatory to starting on the military campaign to the mountains to-day, Mr. Timmons retired to bed on the second floor about 1 o'clock. Near 2 o'clock Capt. During the excitement that ensued the would-be murderer is supposed to have made his escape. Mr. Timmons, who was rational to-day, says he has vague recollec-tions of a struggle with some one, but cannot remember with clearness any-thing that took place. On his bed lay an axe with which the almost fatal blow was struck. Mr. Timmons's condition is serious, though not considered dangerous. No clue to the perpetrator of the foul deed has been found. A NEW LECTURER.

About a month ago the Dispatch published an interview with Bob Webster, an Atlanta barber, giving Bob's version of his parentage, and that the great Massachusetts Senator was his father. The article was extensively copied, and it seems the result will be ducats in Bob's pocket. An enterprising Boston man conceived the idea that it would be a good card to engage Bob for a series of lectures in Massachusetts and other Northern and Eastern cities, and hence entered into a correspondence ton man will get the most of it.

Don't Go West, Young Man. Durham Recorder.

A postal from Kinsley, Kansas, tells us of a delightful condition of things out there—the new paradise for the ne-gro and the charm of the foreign immigrants. No rain except slight showers for eleven months and no crops to be made; meal $1.50 per bushel, potatoes $3.50 per bushel; and that is all they have to live on. This is the country ticket agents and immigration aid societies are swindling ignorant people into settling.

Ease Attainable by the Rheumatic.

Yes, although they may despair of relief, it is attainable by rheumatic sufferers, for there is a remedy which carries off, by means of increased activity of the kidneys—important channels for blood purification—the acrid element to which pathelogists the most eminent attribute the painful symptoms—a theory completely borne out by urinary analysis. The name of this grand depurent is Hostetters, a preparation likewise celebrated as a remedy for constipation, which causer contamination of the blood with the ble—and a certain means of relief in dyspepsia, fever and ague, and nervous aliments. It is, perhaps, the finest tonic extant, and is highly recommended as a medicinal stimulant by distinguished physicians and analysts who pronounce it to be eminently pure and very beneficial. The press also endorses it.

A correspondent informs the Raleigh Observer that last Sunday evening a terrific storm passed over a portion of the country near Clayton, Johnston county. It swept a breadth of one hundred yards in width and a mile or so long, not leaving a tree standing. Trees in the field and growing corn were blown up, twisted up and blown out of the field. Five or six outhouses were demolished; no lives lost.

The comic opera of Pinafore was brought out at Providence, R. I., Monday evening, in a realistic manner. Park Garden, which has sixteen acres within the enclosure, and which in-cludes two lakes, was the scene of its production. In the centre of a large lake a full-rigged frigate has been built, its deck being 110 feet long and 35 wide. On this deck the opera was sung by a first-class company of fifty Bob Webster, Reputed Son of Danie!, artists, with an orchestra of twenty-five pieces. Little Buttercup rows herself across the lake and went aboard at It was a complete success, and some 2,5000 were present.
