VERMIFUGE.

SYMPTOMS OF WORMS.

THE countenance is pale and lead en-colored, with occasional flushes, or a circumscribed spot on one or both cheeks; the eyes become dull; the pupils dilate; an azure semicircle runs along the lower eye-lid; the nose is irritated, swells, and sometimes bleeds; a swelling of the upper lip; occasional headache, with humming or throbbing of the ears; an unusual secretion of saliva; slimy or furred tongue; breath very foul, particularly in the morning; appetite variable, sometimes voracious, with a gnawing sensation of the stomach, at others, entirely gone; fleeting pains in the stomach; occasional nausea and vomiting; violent pains throughout the abdomen; bowels irregular, at times costive; stools slimy, not unfrequently tinged with blood; belly swollen and hard; urine turbid; respiration occasionally difficult, and accompanied by hiccough; cough sometimes dry and convulsive; uneasy and disturbed sleep, with grinding of the teeth; temper variable, but generally irritable, &c.

Whenever the above symptoms are found to exist,

Sadly the qualis in the cornland pipe, The reliow harvest is bending ripe; By the garden gate leans poor Lisette;
"Her lover," they willsper, "comes not yet"
She looks afar to the edge of the sky.
Where plue and misty the mountains lie.
What sudden echoes of fife and drum
Down the long, dim, winding, valley come!
O bring they news ler poor Lisette—
Rapture at last or a life's regret?

Poor Lisette.

BY CELIA THAXTER.

[Independent.]

High ring the bugle notes, so sweet; Nearer the rhythmic tramp of feet; What tempest rushes to clasp Lisette With lips so warm and with eyes so wet ? She is safe in her lover's arms at last;

Like a dreary dream is the empty past; The music of joy in her glad heart plays And morning glows in her radiant face. While clearly the qualis in the cornfield pipe, And silent the harvest is bending ripe, And the children shout to the fife and drum That pain is over and peace is come.

Sir James Paget entered a hat shop last week to buy a new hat. The shopman carried away his old hat to measure. During the interval an indignant and energetic individual entered the shop, rushed up to Sir James, and, mistaking him in the gloom for the proprietor, exclaimed, "Look here! I say! this hat of mine doesn't fit!" The great surgeon looked at him and replied, quite calmly "No, sir, neither does your coat?"

AN EVENING IN THE COUNTRY.

An Entertainment by the Pupils of Sardis Academy. To the Editor of The Observer:

It was my pleasure to attend a school entertainment given at Sardis academy on Friday night, October 31st, by Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Hunter. Vocal and in-strumental music and exercises in elocution were the chief features of the evening. In arrangement and character of pieces selected, the programme could scarcely have been better. Quartettes, duetts, solos, choruses, medleys and songs by the pupils of the school; alternating with recitations, declamations, dialogues and calisthenics, afforded sufficient variety to satisfy every

First, I will mention briefly some of the more striking pieces of music. Mrs. Hunter played all the accompaniments on the organ, besides several instrumental and vocal solos, and was assisted by Dr. Lester Hunter on the violin, and by Messrs. Richard B. Hunter and Mark Alexander: "Beautifut Sea," Beethoven's "Funeral March," instrumental solos, "Festival Waltz," a duett, by Mrs. Hunter and Miss Ida Alexander, "Nellie's Secret," a charming senti-mental song and chorus, "Good-Bye,

In elocution the pupils evinced the good training they had received, and reflected no little credit upon their instructors. Both in singing and in speaklieves that nobody will deny that the practice resorted to by the late Congress of attaching "riders" to appropriation bills was productive of unfortunate ing, their calm, composed and deliberate manner, their perfect self-possession, their distinct articulation, modulation and inflection of voice coupled with ap results.
