DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are constive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant.

The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it.

In fact, he distrusts every remedy.

A Second Wedding Ring.

Samuel Bishop (died 1785), master of Merchant Taylor's School, London, wrote some poems, the best of which is preserved in the annals of her wedding day, which was also her birthday, with a ring.

"Thee, Mary, with this ring I wed"

"Behold another ring! For what?"

"With that first ring I wed thee young"

"Grace, beauty, innocence and truth;

"And all my folly then appeared."

"If she, by mark since disclosed,

"Plead that the second I supposed,

"I plead that double merit now

"To justify a double vow."

"Here, then, to-day thy faith as sure,

"With ardor as intense, as pure,

"As when, amid the night's drive,

"I took thy truth and pledged mine!"

"To thee, sweet girl, my second ring,

"I give, and a pledge bring,

"With this ring, wed, till death us part,

"Thy riper virtues to my heart."

"These virtues which, before unglad,

"The wife has added to the bride,

"Those virtues whose progressive chain,

"Including wedlock's name,

"My soul enjoys, my sake approves,

"My conscience asks as well as love."

"And why? They show me every hour

"Honor's high thought, affection's power,"

"Discretion's deed, and judgment's sentence,

"And teach me all things—but repentance."

OBSERVATIONS.

Next to a clear conscience, for solid comfort,

STATISTICS OF INTEREST.

Railroad Accidents and How to Reduce Their Number.

Baltimore Sun

It has often been said that the dangers of travel by railroad are not near so great as those of travel by stage coach, and indeed of walking the public streets. The statistics furnished by Mr. Chas. Francis Adams, Jr., the well-known railroad expert, go still further than this, and seem to bear out the paradoxical speech ascribed to Jno. Bright, to the effect that, the safest place in whichever country, is the greatest and inside a first-class railway carriage of a train in full motion. During the years 1870-'78 the whole number of lives lost in operating the entire railroad system of Massachusetts was 1,165, or an average of 146 per year, while in Boston the recorded deaths from accidental causes from 1868 to 1878 were 2,587, or an an-average of 259. Thus there are 80 percent more deaths in Boston from accidents than there are on all the railroads of the State. The records of travel and of casualties in France show the same state of facts. Moreover, there is but a small proportion of passengers killed in the case of such accidents. A large number of casualties affect railroad employees, who are necessarily exposed to more or less dangers in the line of their employment, the constant encounter with peril rendering many of them foolhardy and reckless. But Mr.

Adams shows that the greatest and most regular cause of accidents and deaths in the operations of railroads is the habit of walking on the track, which is indulged in by a great many people, and especially by drunken people. Over one-third of all the railroad casualties reported in Massachusetts are covered by the class of accidents to trespassers —that is, accidents to men, women and children illegally walking, lying or playing on the tracks or riding on the tracks. The Pennsylvania Railroad has lately adopted the system of broken stone ballast to cover the entire roadbed, which, by its sharp and uneven surface, causes tramps too much dis-commoded to encourage them to persist in track-walking. This plan is recommended by Mr. Adams as the most dangerous practice, at one and the same time giving railroad the best of road-bed,
