FRIDAY, DECEMBER 19, 1879. SENATOR BAYARD AND THE SOUTHERN CONGRESSMEN.

The New York Herald's Washington correspondent, who is not possessed of half the good feeling toward the South that the Herald itself is, denounces quite roundly those Southern Democratic Congressmen who oppose Senator Bayard's resolution for the repeal of the legal tender quality of the greenbacks. The epithet "Southern inflationists" is applied to them, while their desire for the delay of the going into operation of this resolution is remarked, and the ground of the opposition indicated is summarized and analyzed as

Now, it cannot be that they urge delay because they fear to lose any Southimmediate repeal of legal tender. Some on library. Western men, Republicans as well as Democrats, set up this plea with a show tends to any fear that the South will the candidate. There must be, therefore, some other reason for their opposition to the Bayard resolution, and there is one reason which undoubtedly secure opportunity for a new inflation. They believe that the Democratic party will elect the next President, and they hope that the winter of 1881 will in that case give them such control in the legislative and executive branches as will enable them to begin a huge watering of the currency, by means of which to pay off old debts and to set afloat some tremendous schemes for Southern internal improvements. would not be fair or proper to say that exists anywhere in the South to do this thing lurks behind those Southern representatives and Senators who are now ranging themselves in opposition to Mr. Bayard's resolution, and they cannot complain if they are held responsible for the consequences of their acts.

Saul among the prophets! A veritable mare's nest! A feeble flapping of the repudiation banner which will hardly deceive anybody who thinks! The expediency of the immediate passage of this resolution of Mr. Bayard is a matter perly differ. Some may favor and others oppose the resolution, and both parties may be equally conscientious. Cerpurpose in this case, and neither the fear of alarming the North or of displeasing Mr. Charles Nordoff will induce Southern Congressmen to consent to be led around by the nose by that talented gentleman.

BISMARCK ON PEACE.

The steady and surprising prosperity of this country since the terrible troubles which resulted from the civil war culminated in the panic of 1873, should convince the most bilious pessimist that peace is by far the grandest blessing which can fall to any nation. The great fighter and uneasy diplomatist, Prince Bismarck, knows this better than most men, and the opinion of "a man of war from his youth up," and one who has "trod the ways of glory" and studied war and peace in all their relations, is worth more than the silly carpings of those who have never drawn a sword and principles of political economy. Bismarck advocating an agreement of the great powers of Europe on a peace poliis the only remedy for the prevailing depression in finances and the miseries of the people in various countries. Too much money is spent on armies, wrongs under which the people pitable climate.

Ransom asked statesmen to the neglect of the lower peace and prosperity.

This enterprise is alleged to be under the auspices of Boston capitalists exclusively.

No progress was made to-day in the General Assembly in the election of the county judges, although a number of candidates had been selected by the Readjusters in caucus last night. The delay was due to some demoralization among the members of the dominant party, arising from dissatisfaction with several of the caucus nominees. A resolution was therefore adopted postponing the joint order until to-morrow. In the meantime a caucus of Readjusters will be held to-night. Everything will be set right and work will go on

The distillers would not have made and barrelled 71,892,621 gallons of whiskey and other such fiery potables during the last fiscal year, if they had not had an intelligent confidence in their ability to find customers at paying prices. It is a slight relief to know that 15,000,000 gallons or so were sent across the seas to fire the brains and gnaw the stomachs of the effete despots and their subjects: but, even with this deduction, there was left on hand the enormous quanti-ty of 56,898,000 gallons (in round numbers) of whiskey and its congeners for home consumption. Even if all Americans took their liquor straight-which they don't-and if the average price of a drink was ten cents-which, we are informed, is not the fact—the gurgling of the last swallow of this colossal potation down the free and equal American throat will represent an expenditure of between $341,000,000 and $455,-900,000, according to the size of the average bar drink. And the distilleries are still at work.
