ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT CHARLOTTE N. C., AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

THE IRISH TROUBLES. The arrival of the Irish agitators Parnell, Dillon and Davit, on the steamer Scythia, in New York on the 2d inst., and the object of their mission to this country, at this time, makes the condition of Ireland of peculiar interest just now.

SUNDAY, JANUARY 4, 1880.

The peculiarly impulsive, and warmhearted nationality of the Irishman, his forgetfulness of the past, and his hopefulness of the future, and even his short-sightedness if we may so term it, has caused him for generations to live from hand to mouth in his own country. In days of prosperity he has rejoiced, and when adversity, war or famine has come upon him he has never been prepared for them, except to meet and contend with them with all the bravery and chivalry of his impetuous nature. His roving nature has made him cosmopolitan, for in every clime may be found Irishmen who remember the "ould counthry" with tears of joy, in their annual festivals, and especially on St. Patrick's day. In proportion to the number of her people Ireland has furnished more immigrants to America than any other European country, and as settlers in other parts of the world, especially in the United States, the Irish have proved very useful and industrious in various kinds of manual occupations, while not a few, like Charles O'Connor, have marked the civilization in which they lived. The appeal now being made to America is in earnest because of absolute distress, and we trust it will not go unheeded among the people of the United States, where long since all distinction and differences between the original races of our people have disappeared, or been merged or blended into a characteristic American nationality.

To understand the present condition of Ireland, it is only necessary to say that the potato crop failed last season. Here this crop is comparatively insignificant; there it has been the staple crop for centuries. The Irish potato, The Supreme Court Probably to Dethough American became nationalized and received its baptismal name among there that this esculent grows to its greatest perfection, and it is only there year. Owing to this cause the people of Ireland from all accounts are suffering as terribly as they did from famine and fever in 1847-that memorable year which saw our ships leaving for their shores laden with corn, and returning to us with the first wave of that wonderful tide of Celtic immigration which then set in, and which has done so much to enrich and strengthen us, and extend our boundaries and advance our

But this is not all. If the stories and speeches of the "agitators" are to be helieved the common classes of people believed, the common classes of people sweeping endorsement of the Republiare suffering from the extortions of un- can position, and that it will give them relenting landlords. Comparatively the control of the Legislature is beyond few of the cultivators of the soil there a doubt. The opposition appear deown a fee simple in the land. This is pressed correspondingly, though they cannot give any certain or substantial owned by proprietors, many of whom reason for the depression. They say reside in England, and who only visit the Legislature will be duly and their estates to collect their rents. promptly organized Wednesday by the Contracts of lease have been entered legislation promptly proceed, nothwithinto, which in ordinary years have standing the boasts of the Republicans probably been reasonable enough, but | that no quorum will be present. Four when hunger and want are pinching Fusion members have already indicatthe blanched cheeks of one-fourth of tificates. Hon. Eugene Hale and Conthe population because of the bad sea- gressman Stephen D. Lindsey came son last year, it has been found to be here this forenoon. Lindsey expresses impossible to meet the obligations already incurred.

The Irishman, naturally quiet and peaceable, in times of ordinary prosperity, is unreasonable in adversity. ed for the employment of armed police His combative propensities are immediately aroused, and he wants to fight somebody-hence, we have the riots and outbreaks of violence which has marked the character of the people since the days when flourished the military brotherhood of Fiana Erion, commanded, according to Irish legend, by Frein McCooil. At present in addition to the distress of actual famine the native Bank. Stephen V. White, receiver and and resident Irishman's blood is up to his counsel, were present since early fever heat. It is true he is only "agitating" just yet, but it won't take long to the tready deposited $120,000, and that the long to the British steamer Borussia, abandonget up to the fighting pitch unless the cause for grievance is adjusted. The history of Irish oppression by English princes is long, dark and bloody, but it finally ended about the beginning of the present century, in the submerging of Irish nationality into that of Great Britain. Since that time the people of Ireland, living under statutes enacted by a British Parliament, with a majority always largely against them, have had much cause of complaint, in the enactment of laws inimical to their interest, and the presinimical to their interest, and the pres-ent ebullitions of public opinion are constituted a new feature for a Repubdue in a large degree to that cause.

The clearing-house returns for the week ending the 25th ultimo show, as compared with the corresponding week last year, an increase at New York of 58.2 per cent.; Chicago. 40.6; Boston, 37.9; Philadelphia, 55.6; Cincinnati, 27.06; St. Louis, 20.05; Baltimore, 28; Pittsburg, 33.8.

The Legislature of Alabama will not meet for a year, and Governor Cobb will have the appointment of a successor to Senator Houston, who will occupy a seat in the Senate until the General Assembly convenes. Among the candidates for the place are L. P. Walker, J. L. Pugh, W. H. Forney and ex-Congressman Bradford. It is thought the first or last named will be chosen. Sigismund Kauffman, Republican New York in 1870, is out with a vigorcandidate for Lieutenant-Governor of ous address to his fellow-German Republicans, calling upon them to sternly oppose a third term of Grant, unless they wish to repeat the history of the decline and fall of republies. "If we must have a strong man and a strong man and a strong entertained of his recovery. government," he says, "let us return to Bismarck and to his iron rule."

To-day is Sunday, and we have just entered the threshold of a new year. This is the time for new and good resolutions. Let us see that they are kept. Three, only of the three hundred and sixty-five pages which are to make up the book of 1880, have been turned down. The rest are untouched, and no one knows what they are to bring, but each individual can resolve to do right. To business men we may say that a good resolution, peculiarly appropriate to the beginning of a new year, is to start free of debt. If, however, debt has necessarily been assumed, the next best thing is to ascertain its extent and begin the work of discharging it. Under our homestead laws many men deliberately make debts which they have no intention of discharging, and under the delusive theory that all men are honest, many business men allow others to become their debtors, when a proper consideration of the character of such debtor, would forbid the selling of goods to that person on credit, An honest man will try to pay a debt deliberately contracted, where a just and liberal compensation has been received, and where the obligation is met with difficulty, as is sometimes the case with the best of men, courageously confronting it, and honestly endeavoring to discharge it, will always command the reof the creditor. Another good resolution at the beginning of the year is to try and live within your income. This, except in ways be done. Sometimes it may require rigid economy, and at others selfdenial, but both will be found to have time comes.

A third resolution, and one which will make our Sunday sermon complete, is to rosolve to practice that charity toward the faults, the misfortunes or the foibles of your neighbor which will adorn the character of the brotherhood of mankind. Undeserved charity may sometimes be a crime, but better a thousand such crimes than that a single instance of deserved charity should be neglected.

Excitement Over the Failure of the Grocers' Bank.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.-Great excitement continues among the creditors and depositors of the broken Grocers' remaining assets would more than cover the claims of the creditors and depositors. Miss Frances Hovey, a very high-ly respected young lady of this place, entered the store of her father, hat and fur dealer, and in a fit of supposed in-sanity shot him, the ball penetrating to the left temple and producing instant death. Then reloading the pistol, she went up stairs and shot herself in the same place. Miss Hovey is slowly sinking and no hopes of her recovery.

The Courtney-Hanlan Race.

NEW YORK, January 4.—A Rochester special has the following: Courtney was here to-day and signed the contract for the race with Hanlan, to be rowed according to terms of Blaikie's recent proposition, at Washington or any other suitable place on May 20th. The contract is to be sent to Blakie to-morrow and with it Courtney's $500. It is then to be sent to Hanlan, and if he signs it,

THE IRISH AGITATORS.

They Receive a Delegation from Boston and Further Explain the Object of their Visit to America. New York, January 3.—Parnell and Dillon received a delegation from Boston to-day at the Fifth Avenue Hotel. They also received the men of the county of Meath, who presented them with an address. Parnell briefly replied, thanking those present for their kind-ness and consideration in welcoming him and his companion to this country since his friends had alluded to the history of Meath, he would allude for a moment to more recent affairs there. Though the richest county in Ireland, her residents had nevertheless been brought to the point of great suffering. In regard to the land system of Ireland and America he pointed out the fact that the system here was entirely different from that at home. In Ireland, the monopolists had adopted a system of rents, while here the railway corporation system of sales was in vogue, but he would not undertake to point out the expediency at present, or the right or wrong of the large grants being made to railway corporations. After dwelling a little time in consideration of the sufferings of the Irish people, Parnell said he was proud to represent the county of Meath, and would do all in his power to retain the confidence of the people, which he flattered himself he now possessed. He again thanked his friends for their kindness. Up to 3 o'clock this afternoon Parnell held a reception in the parlor of the Fifth Avenue Hotel. He has made arrangements to visit Boston on the 12th.

Au Old New York Merchant Arrested. NEW YORK, January 3.-Edwin R. K. Richard, of Philadelphia. He was held in $2,000 bail for examination. Kirk says he took the bond as security for the payment of two notes, not knowing it to be stolen. He promised to produce the man from whom he got it.

The New Constitution.

The charter under which the Louisiana State Lettery Company proceeds was, by the rote of the people of Louisiana, imbedded in the new constitution so that no fluctuations of politics or adverse private interests can hereafter interfere with the regular drawings of the company, the next of which occurs on the 13th January.

This vote of the people shows the confidence felt in the Company at home, where it is best known. Particulars in the advertisement elsewhere, and fuller information estained by addressing M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La., or New York.

An Open Business.

The great success won by the Louisiana State Lottery Company has been gained by the strict fairness of its dealings with the public. All its methods of doing business are open as the day and buyers of tickets have learned that they have only to contend with the laws of chance, and all are served alike. When any one asserts the contrary of this it is safe to call him a liar or a blackmailer. The regular monthly drawing will take place on the 13th January.

A Little Coincidence.

New York Sun. This we read in the chronicles of Grant's recent visit to Washington: "It happened as Gen. Grant entered the church (the Metropolitan M. E. church) that the choir was singing the "Te Deum Laudamus"—the same which his recovery from his serious illness, some years ago, and the same which was sung upon the entrance of Napo-leon in the Cathedral of Notre Dame upon the occasion of national thanks-iving ceremonies in Paris.' Thus with the names of the next King of England and Emperor of India and of Napolean are associated thoughts of Gen. Grant. Of course, as the chronicle says, "it happened." So "it happened" that Grant chose for his coat of arms three crowns.

"It happened" that during his stay in Philadelphia his dreams were sweetened by his sleeping on the same couch on which the Emperor of Brazil formerly reposed.

These things all happen. But those who make them happen are courtiers well acquainted with the weaknesses and the vaulting ambition of the Third Term candidate.

Little things are often indicative of great things. If Grant were ever again President, and by virtue of that office commander-in-chief of the army and navy, the people might have more potent reason for associating thoughts of him with the names of the kings and emperors of the old world.
