When klingle, klangle, klingle, county alone.

When klingle, klangle, klingle,
Far down the dusky dingle,
The cows are coming home;
How sweet and clear, and faint and low,
The airy tinklings come and go
Like chimings from the far-off tower,
Or patterings of an April shower
That makes the daisles grow.
Ko-ling, ko-lang, ko-lingle-lingle,
Far down the darkening dingle
The cows come slowly home;
And old-time friends, and twilight plays,
And starry nights, and sunny days,
Come trooping up the misty ways,

When the Cows Come Home.

With jingle, jangle, jingle,
Soft tunes that sweetly mingle,
The cows are coming home,
Malvine, and Pearl, and Florimer
DeKamp, Reed Rerse, and Gretchen Schell,
Queen Bess, and Sylph, and Spangled Sue,
Across the fields I hear her loo oo,
And klang her silver bell;
Golling, gollang, gollingle-dingle.

Go-ling, go-lang, go-lingle-dingle, With faint, far sounds that mingle, And mother sings of long gone years,
And baby-joys, and childish fears,
And youthful hopes, and youthful tears,
When the cows come home. The cows come slowly home.

With ringle, rangle, ringle.
By twos, and threes, and single,
The cows are coming home;
Through violet air we see the town, And summer sun a-slipping down,
And the maple in the hazel glade
Throws down the path a longer shade;
And the hills are growing brown
To-ring, to-rang, to-ringle-ringle,
By threes, and fours, and single,
The cows come slowly home The cows come slowly home. The same sweet sound of wordless psalm,

The same sweet June day rest, and calm, The same sweet smell of buds and balm When the cows come home With tinkle, tankle, tinkle, Through ferns and periwinkle, The cows are coming home; A-'oltering in the checkered stream, Where the sun rays glance and gleam, Clarine, Peachbloom, and Phebe Phillis,

Stand knee-deep in the creamy lilles, In a drowsy dream; To link, to lank, to linkle-linkle. O'er banks with butter-cups a twinkle, The cows come slowly home for Ladies, Misses and Gentlemen in al sizes and And up through memory's deep ravine Come the brook's old songs, its old-time sheen And the crescent of the silver queen

When the cows come home.

With klingle, klangle, klingle With loo-oo, and woo-oo, and jingle, The cows are coming home; And over there on Merin Hill, Sounds the plaintive cry of the whip-poor-will And the dew.drops lie on the tangled vines, And over the poplars Venus shines; And over the slient mill; Ko ling, ko-larg, ko-lingle-lingle With twing-a-ling, and jingle, The cows come slowly home. Let down the bars; let in the train,

Of long gone songs, and flowers, and rain.

When the cows come home-GREAT GARRET

Who Saved Washington City in 1864. Gen. Bradly T. Johnson, writing in the Philadelphia Times on Early's expedition against Washington city in 1864, gives the credit of his being thwarted in his purpose to John W. Garrett, President of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. After detailing the events up to the arrival of Early before Washington he

The preservation of Washington from capture was owing more to the energy and decision of John Garrett, Esq., Pres-ident of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, than any merit of the military authorities. Mr. Garrett's railroad telegraph has kept him thoroughly informed as to the movements in Western Maryland. He had perceived as early as Thusday and Friday be-fore that Early had crossed the Poto-mac in force, and that his real object was Washington. He had impressed his views personally upon President Lincoln, and the Secretary of War, Mr. Stanton, and insisted on the necessity of flighting a battle at Frederick, in order either to gain time for troops to be got up for the defence of that city, or, failing in that, that preparations could be made for its evacuation. Accordingly, when the battle of Monocacy was fought on Saturday, and he found Early in full march southward, he immediately prepared the transportation on his road to receive the reinforcements which he was informed would arrive the next day at Locust Point. During Sunday the fleet of transports from Fortress Monroe, with the Nineteenth and Sixth Corps, began to arrive, but the officers in command refused to land any troops until General Emory should arrive. After striving in vain to start the disembarkation, Mr. Garrett proceeded to Washington on a special engine, and so impressed his views on the President and Secretary of War that he brought back with him an order to the senior officer of the troops on the transports to report to him until General for the railroad company for the return Early should arrive. During Sunday of a large amount of securities of the night and Monday Garrett, thus actually in command of two army corps, pressed the re-enforcements on the cars and hurried them to Washington. Ear-Tuesday at daylight.

The Tay Bridge Disaster.

Cable to N. Y. Herald. The Tay Bridge disaster is still earnestly discussed. The investigation is steadily progressing. How many lives were lost is still a matter of uncertainty. Only one thing alone is sure—that no man escaped from the Firth of Tay. Mr. Edgar Gilkes, the builder of the bridge, telegraphs to the Herald as follows: "Present evidence indicates that some other forces than the tempest were acting with it and caused the destruction of the girder. The velocity of the wind, as registered at Dundee on the night of the disaster, was forty-two. The amount of pressure was quite sufficient to overset the train, and the not prevent the upper part of the car-riages striking the girders. This might cause the damage by destroying the unity of the leeward girder, and another violent gust would bring about com plete ruin.

The Other Titled American.

"the one American nobleman," "the only titled person in the United States?" In the Sun, a few days ago, was a state-ment (which I have verified by a refer-and fell to the floor, fracturing her thigh, ence to Burke) to the effect that the present Baron Fairfax, of Cameron, in the peerage of Scotland, is a native born American citizen, who has always resided in America. According to the above authority, his lordship is a medical practitioner somewhere down in North Carolina. The genuineness of the title is beyond dispute, nor should he be accounted any the less a nobleman because he refrains from flaunting it in the face of an enlightened

Democracy. A Blast Against Grant, The Hon, Jacob Bomberger, a weal-thy German banker, of Harrisburg, Pa, and a very liberal contributor to the Republican campaign fund, is quoted as saying: "If Grant is nominated for President, I know of one thousand German Republicans in this county alone who will vote for his opponent, because of their belief that Grant's election to a third term of the Presidency is the first step towards an American monarchy."

The Morganton Blade hopes the report is not true that a stout, able-bodied young man, who lives in Burke county, not long since borrowed feathers out of his mother's bed and sold them for whiskey.

The commissioners of Burke county have decided to issue county bonds bearing 8 per cent., to discharge an indebtedness which fell due on the 1st inst. The coupons are receivable for taxes, and the old bonds of the county are received as cash.

A correspondent of the Asheville Journal advises Mr. Hayes to appoint Hon. W. P. Bynum, of Charlotte, to fill any vacancy on the bench of the Supreme Court of the United States, that may be occasioned by the resignation of Judge Hunt, or any one else.

The Asheville Journal throws this out at the boys: A prominent Republican of this section has received a letter from a high authority—one who controls appointments — asking information as to the number and names of Democrats who are in subordidate positions in Western North Carolina, and by whom appointed. Any of our Republican friends who may read this are requested to furnish us with names, &c., and we will see that they are properly forwarded, and justice done, as it should be, to those who have been true to their party allegiance.

"Pinafore's" Success. Condensed from the New York Tribune.

The Fifth Avenue Theatre was crowded last night and laughter rang there loud and long. The splendid audience assembled to see "The Pirates of Benzance" witnessed a most brilliant an complete success. Somebody asked an old manager whether "The Pirates of Benzance" promised to run as well as "Pinafore." The veteran sadly shook his head and replied, "We shall never have another 'Pinafore." We may touch lightly upon a few points of difference between the two operettas which seem to provoke legiti-mate comparison. The fun of "Pinafore" was so clear and simple, both in the text and music, that it forced itself at once on the careless listener. The humor of the "Pirates" is richer, but more recondite. It demands a closer attention to the words than the ordinary play-goers will always give: perhaps it requires a more distinct enunciation than singers usually think it worth while to cultivate. On the other hand. there are great stores of wit and drol-lery in the dialogue and the songs which will well repay exploration, so that the opera ought to gain upon the favor of the public after two or three representations. The music is fresh, bright, elegant and merry, and much of it belongs to a higher order of art than the most popular of the tunes of "Pina-fore." There are little gems of melody, and there are duos and concerted numbers of the most delicate device and the most careful construction of which Mr. Sullivan has a good right to be proud. Add to the sparkling text, the excellent music, the droll situations, and an unusual abundance of laughable "business," the further charm of a series of stage-pictures in which beautiful scenery and the glow of light and color are deftly used to heighten the effect of pretty groups and we have a catalogue of attractions to which the public cannot remain insensible.

A Famous Lawsuit Ended.

The action brought by the St. Louis, Alton and Terre Haute Railroad Company against Samuel J. Tilden, Chas. Butler, Russell Sage and Robert Bayard, the former purchasing committee for the railroad company for the return company, has been ended by Mr. Tilden handing back to the company about $250,000 in bonds and cash for himself and Charles Butler. Mr. Bayard's exely saw their advance filing into the works on Monday afternoon, and the rest of them lining the parapets on Theodor at deallest Butler. But Bayard's executors had previously paid over to the company $100,000, and Mr. Sage, early in December, refunded a $100,000. The suit has been pending for over fifteen years, and the claim was for $1,000,000, being the surplus remaining in the hands of the purchasing committee after the taking up and cancelling of the old securities of fhe railroad company upon its reorganization, and retained by the committee on the ground that they had no other remuneration for their services.

Lotteries Growing in Favor.

At the recent Fair of the 7th Regiment of New York in their new armory, a large sum was raised for the Armory Fund by the different lotteries conducted with much skill by the managers of the Fair. Schemes of chance are growing more and show, and slill more abundantly by the remarka-ble success of the Louisfana State Lottery Com-pany, whose prizes distributed monthly have re-warded buyers of its tickets in almost every town in the country.

The next regular drawing takes place on the 18th January. Particulars are given in part in the advertisement of the company in this paper, and all information may be obtained by addressing M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La., or New York.

Christmas Greeting!

THE HOLIDAYS ARE NEAR AT HAND!

And both the young and old are looking forward in bright expectancy, and with joyful hopes that some kind remembrance may be left as a token of friendship from some relative or friend. We trust that none will be disappointed, and that old Santa Claus will distribute his favors not only with a liberal hand, but will not show any partiality in his disbursements. We are glad to see this time-honored custom increasing in favor with the people. We hope it will continue to grow, and this joy-giving time will be looked upon as one of the happiest and brightest days in the year. Let us all extend a willing hand and assist those who desire to carry out their part, but who, owing to numerous obligations and limited incomes, are deprived from contributing what they would be most willing to do if circumstances did not prevent. Let not selfishness but liberality predominate. Be willing to divide a part of your own good fortune with those who are not so fortunate, and note the change your kindness produces. The gladness that speaks from the heart will be sufficient evidence of the joy within. There is not one of us who cannot contribute something. The gift may be humble; that matters not; it will be acceptable. We trust that not only our old friends but also our young friends will, while their hearts are joyous and glad, not forget to add their mite to the happiness and pleasure of those who have not been so fortunate. We have made a specialty in the selection of
