

Subscription Rates: Daily, one year, (post-paid) in advance $8.00

Dry Goods, Clothing, &c. GREAT CLEARANCE

Dry Goods. WE HAVE ESTABLISHED Several Bargain Counters, and on them will be found some VERY CHEAP GOODS.

SALE OF FANCY DRESS GOODS! To-day we will begin to close out our Fancy Dress Goods at from 25 to 40 per cent. reduction on former prices.

We Have Spread Out an Immense Stock of Ladies' and Childrens' Colored Hosiery, which we propose to close out AT A SACRIFICE.

Only a memory, nothing more. A bright oasis in my life; Only a hope, 'twill never sink.

HAMBURG EMBROIDERY, COLLARS AND CUFFS, COLLARETS, HANDKERCHIEFS, BOXES, AND MANY OTHER DESIRABLE GOODS WILL BE SOLD REGARDLESS OF COST.

Only a flower, uplifting its head To kiss the bright dewdrops of morn; Only a flower, all withered and dead, On the cold, cold, cold, cold ground.

ALEXANDER & HARRIS. We will also dispose of a large lot of Ladies' and Gents' Underwear.

Only a promise made to be broken. Only a moment of blissful remembrance, Only a sigh from the depth of my heart, Only a meeting forever to part.

Confectioneries, &c. FANCY GOODS, TOY, &c. AT RIGLER'S

Observations. So far this winter the cold wave hasn't struck anything in this section except the third-term flu.

FRUITS, NUTS, RAISINS, CITRUS AND CURRANTS. Seedless Raisins for your Christmas Cakes.

Miscellaneous. THE GENUINE DR. C. McLANE'S Celebrated American WORM SPECIFIC OR VERMIFUGE.

CANDIES--Both Plain and Fancy. We claim that we have a good if not better than you will find elsewhere, and at prices as low if not lower than you can buy the same in the city.

Symptoms of Worms. THE countenance is pale and leaden-colored, with occasional flushes, or a circumscribed spot on one or both cheeks; the eyes become dull; the pupils dilate; an acute serous discharge issues from the lower eyelid; the nose is irritated, swells, and sometimes bleeds; a swelling of the upper lip; occasional headache, with humming or throbbing of the ears; an unusual secretion of saliva; salivary or furred tongue; breath very foul, particularly in the morning; appetite variable, sometimes voracious, with a gnawing sensation of the stomach, at others, entirely gone; fleeting pains in the stomach; occasional nausea and vomiting; violent pains throughout the abdomen; bowels irregular, at times constive; stools slimy, not unrequently tinged with blood; belly swollen and hard; urine turbid; respiration occasionally difficult, and accompanied by hicough; cough sometimes dry and convulsive; uneasy and disturbed sleep, with grinding of the teeth; temper variable, but generally irritable, &c.

PLAIN & FANCY CRACKERS. Ever brought to the city.

Whenever the above symptoms are found to exist, DR. C. McLANE'S VERMIFUGE will certainly effect a cure.

CANNED GOODS. Of all descriptions. Here is the place to buy your CAKES AND BREAD, As we make a specialty of Cakes--especially for Christmas. Come and see.

DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS are not recommended as a remedy "for all the ills that flesh is heir to," but in affections of the liver, and in all bilious complaints, Dyspepsia and Sick Headache, or diseases of that character, they stand without a rival.

W. S. EVERITT, SURGEON DENTIST. TENDERS his professional services to the citizens of Charlotte and surrounding country.

AGUE AND FEVER. No better cathartic can be used preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. As a simple purgative, they are unequalled.

Miscellaneous. A CARD TO THE AFFLICTED. DR. ROBERTSON, 19 SOUTH EUTAW STREET, BALTIMORE, MD.

THE genuine never sugar coated. Each box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

RO. D. GRAHAM, ATTORNEY AT LAW. In the State and United States Courts, Collections, Home and Foreign, Solicited. Abstracts of Titles, Surveys, &c., furnished for compensation.

Each wrapper bears the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS.

W. S. EVERITT, SURGEON DENTIST. TENDERS his professional services to the citizens of Charlotte and surrounding country.

DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS are not recommended as a remedy "for all the ills that flesh is heir to," but in affections of the liver, and in all bilious complaints, Dyspepsia and Sick Headache, or diseases of that character, they stand without a rival.

Miscellaneous. A CARD TO THE AFFLICTED. DR. ROBERTSON, 19 SOUTH EUTAW STREET, BALTIMORE, MD.

THE genuine never sugar coated. Each box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

Miscellaneous. A CARD TO THE AFFLICTED. DR. ROBERTSON, 19 SOUTH EUTAW STREET, BALTIMORE, MD.

THE genuine never sugar coated. Each box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

Miscellaneous. A CARD TO THE AFFLICTED. DR. ROBERTSON, 19 SOUTH EUTAW STREET, BALTIMORE, MD.

THE genuine never sugar coated. Each box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

Miscellaneous. A CARD TO THE AFFLICTED. DR. ROBERTSON, 19 SOUTH EUTAW STREET, BALTIMORE, MD.

THE genuine never sugar coated. Each box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

Miscellaneous. A CARD TO THE AFFLICTED. DR. ROBERTSON, 19 SOUTH EUTAW STREET, BALTIMORE, MD.

THE genuine never sugar coated. Each box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

Miscellaneous. A CARD TO THE AFFLICTED. DR. ROBERTSON, 19 SOUTH EUTAW STREET, BALTIMORE, MD.

THE genuine never sugar coated. Each box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

Only a memory, nothing more. A bright oasis in my life; Only a hope, 'twill never sink.

Only a flower, uplifting its head To kiss the bright dewdrops of morn; Only a flower, all withered and dead, On the cold, cold, cold, cold ground.

Only a promise made to be broken. Only a moment of blissful remembrance, Only a sigh from the depth of my heart, Only a meeting forever to part.

Observations. So far this winter the cold wave hasn't struck anything in this section except the third-term flu.

The difference between a scale-maker and a dentist is that one is always on the wheel and the other is always en route.

All but three members of the Utah Legislature are unemphatically speaking, freshmen, having only one wife each.

On February 11 Japan will celebrate the 2,540th anniversary of Jimmu Ten-o's accession to the throne of the empire. Jimmu was a good sovereign, but he is dead now.

The fellow who swore off swearing off calculates that he is about the only man who is sticking to his list of January resolutions.

Observing little brother's remark before a room full of company: "I know what that red mark on Missy's face is. It was the rim of my father's hat." And there are girls who believe that little brothers never go to heaven.

A consulted young lady in St. John, while airing her knowledge on the evening was that "There is nothing made in vain." "You are," said a youth standing near her. "Am what?" said the maiden vainly, replied the smart boy.

After family prayer, a few evenings since, a little Quincey boy asked: "Mamma, how can God hear folks pray when He's so far away?" Before the lady could frame a suitable reply, a sunny-faced little miss of five summers vehemently said: "I'll bet He's got telephones a-runnin' 'er every place!"

A lady at the West has a letter from her grandmother, in which she explains that the reason she has time for letter-writing in the evening was that "Gessie Grace Fletcher is trying to entertain a young man by the name of Daniel Webster by playing checkers. Father and Uncle Chamberlain think him a young man of great promise, but we girls think him an awkward and rather vacant."

There were no deaths, either white or colored, reported in Columbia last week.

Simpson Bobo, of Spartanburg, S. C., has been superintendent of the Methodist Sunday school for forty years.

Darlington Southerner: W. J. Patterson, a white man, formerly of North Carolina, but latterly living near Edgingham, was found dead in the woods last Saturday morning. The coroner's jury rendered a verdict that deceased came to his death from natural causes.

On the evening of the 10th inst. Mr. James A. Gray, of Laurens county, accidentally shot himself with a pistol at the residence of Dr. Drummond, in Spartanburg County. He called on a young lady at Dr. Drummond's, on the evening of the 9th inst., and reached the house in a drenching rain. He sat by a fire to dry himself, and taking his pistol from his pocket, by some careless handling it was discharged, the ball taking effect in his breast, in the region of the heart, inflicting a dangerous wound. He is now in a critical condition.

What the Kings of the Rail are Doing. Atlanta Constitution.

At last we have the promise that there will be within the near future two powerful lines of road reaching to Georgia ports direct from St. Louis and Chicago.

These lines will be controlled by the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis company, known as the Cole company, and the St. Louis and Nashville company, headed by Dr. Standiford. It is more than possible that we shall have a third great line, controlled by the Cincinnati Southern; but as Cincinnati is very much averse to putting any more money into her great enterprise at present, we need not count upon that at present.

As sure as shooting, however, we may count upon the two first named companies pushing to the Atlantic coast at Port Royal, Brunswick or Savannah. They are both powerful and ambitious. The Cole line had over 2,000 miles of road; and the Louisville line has over 1,400. Each of them promise to do grand things for the South, and to make that an equal section of this republic. The great chance of their projectors, and the opinions of those in charge of them must therefore be of great interest to our people. I shall give a sketch of each system, in future letters, with the statements of their projectors, and let you judge for what they have done and what they hope to do.

NASHVILLE, January 17.--There is no doubt but that the Louisville and Nashville road has purchased a controlling interest in a Nashville and Chattanooga company by which that road and its branches pass to them. I have this from Col. Cole himself. The price was ninety-five cents, and three million eight hundred thousand dollars were bought. Stevens, Colonel Cole's friend, commenced to unload, and the sale soon went to a panic. The result of this, it is thought, will be to stop the present work on the Owensboro extension, destroy the present chance of building the Georgia Western, and a final and ready the lease of the Central road. Colonel Cole's directors were to have had that lease today, but they are not coming.

The control of Cole's road was bought for less than it would have cost to build the Georgia Western, and leaves no reason for building that line. The loss of the Central is the reported cause of Cole's friends abandoning him, though it is rumored that the purchase was made by the friends of Northern trunk lines, who were alarmed at Cole's rapid strides towards competition. The Louisville and Nashville people did this because the stock of that company is over par. Nashville is terribly excited and indignant.

A Care. To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c. I will send a recipe that will cure you. Write for it. The great remedy is discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the REV. J. S. TILLEN, Station B, New York City, Jan 25.

TILDEN. What the Old Man Does, and What He is Accused of Doing. Wash. Cor. Augusta Chronicle.

If Mr. Tilden is not now exerting a subtle force all over the country, he is much maligned. Every mysterious political ripple or ripple is attributed to him. The present legislative calm is supposed to be his handiwork, although some folks timidly suggest that Mr. Blaine's absence at home may account for it. The defeat of Thurman for Senator in Ohio is ascribed to the Pacific railroads plus Tilden. Senator Whyte's discomfiture in Maryland is traced back to the old man at Gramercy Park. It is said that no Democratic Senator who voted for the electors, commissioners shall prosper, if Mr. Tilden can prevent it. I do not know about Mr. Thurman, but my impression is that Senator Whyte made some capital mistakes and invited defeat. I think, too, that he is a fair man, and a powerful one, and that Mr. Gorman ruled the ring. It is a pity that the city of Baltimore could not command one Senator, and it is to be regretted that the State of Maryland has no experienced statesmen in the upper House of Congress. But I am decidedly of the impression that Mr. Tilden had no more to do with this posture of events than Grand Khan of Tartary or Col. Jack Brown. I simply detail these circumstances, and am prepared to furnish others, in order to demonstrate what a mysterious and pervading influence that strange old man still possesses, and that, if indeed he is engaged in such a project, the world will be startled to some purpose when he starts his entire system with an electric throb that will make Menlo Park look like a junk shop in eclipse.

The Ute Tribe Must Disappear. Washington Special to Baltimore Sun.

The Ute Indian investigation now in progress here promises to be a long one and will undoubtedly end in the removal of the Indians from their present reservation to some other location. Where that will be it is difficult to say, but in all probability to the Upper Rio Grande, with very restricted limits as to the area they shall occupy. Ouray is in favor of locating in that valley with his tribe, each to have a specified amount of land, but the entire area to be made in one reservation. It matters but little how the present examination of the subject either by Congress or the department, may terminate, the finality of the Utes as a nation is beyond doubt. Even should both Congress and the Indians agree to establish the latter on the Grande river, in Colorado, the State is not likely to consent that they could not remain there more than a year or so. The State is crowded with miners, who will prospect wherever they please, no matter what law may be enacted for the protection of the Indians. There are hundreds of stock-raisers and ranchmen in the State of Colorado who are now watching for an opportunity to locate in the fertile valley of the White River, where the untold riches of the Ute Agency were massacred. Ouray, who is chief of all the Utes, and who is wise enough to foresee the result, is willing to accept almost any terms. He is aware that the fate of his tribe is sealed, and that if he tend to contest it, he will embrace the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert. He has been tested by the Utes, and made a strong case against the minister. Mr. Lane testified in his own behalf, admitting kissing two of the ladies in what he claims was an innocent and lawful way, and strenuously denied the alleged criminal misconduct. He says he has been the victim of the gossip of the neighborhood, and that Kenisco contains nearly a score of couples who have violated their marriage vows, and whose chief business is to stir up enmity among the well-behaved portion of the community. The pastor's wife, a young and attractive lady, admitted that her husband was in the habit of kissing the wife of one of his stewards, and embracing the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert. He has been tested by the Utes, and made a strong case against the minister. Mr. Lane testified in his own behalf, admitting kissing two of the ladies in what he claims was an innocent and lawful way, and strenuously denied the alleged criminal misconduct. He says he has been the victim of the gossip of the neighborhood, and that Kenisco contains nearly a score of couples who have violated their marriage vows, and whose chief business is to stir up enmity among the well-behaved portion of the community. The pastor's wife, a young and attractive lady, admitted that her husband was in the habit of kissing the wife of one of his stewards, and embracing the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert.

Rev. John H. Lane, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Kenisco, Westchester county, New York, is now on trial before the official body of the church on charges of "unministerial conduct and immoral practices." The acts charged cover more than eighteen months of Mr. Lane's pastorate, and embrace the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert. He has been tested by the Utes, and made a strong case against the minister. Mr. Lane testified in his own behalf, admitting kissing two of the ladies in what he claims was an innocent and lawful way, and strenuously denied the alleged criminal misconduct. He says he has been the victim of the gossip of the neighborhood, and that Kenisco contains nearly a score of couples who have violated their marriage vows, and whose chief business is to stir up enmity among the well-behaved portion of the community. The pastor's wife, a young and attractive lady, admitted that her husband was in the habit of kissing the wife of one of his stewards, and embracing the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert.

Rev. John H. Lane, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Kenisco, Westchester county, New York, is now on trial before the official body of the church on charges of "unministerial conduct and immoral practices." The acts charged cover more than eighteen months of Mr. Lane's pastorate, and embrace the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert. He has been tested by the Utes, and made a strong case against the minister. Mr. Lane testified in his own behalf, admitting kissing two of the ladies in what he claims was an innocent and lawful way, and strenuously denied the alleged criminal misconduct. He says he has been the victim of the gossip of the neighborhood, and that Kenisco contains nearly a score of couples who have violated their marriage vows, and whose chief business is to stir up enmity among the well-behaved portion of the community. The pastor's wife, a young and attractive lady, admitted that her husband was in the habit of kissing the wife of one of his stewards, and embracing the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert.

Rev. John H. Lane, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Kenisco, Westchester county, New York, is now on trial before the official body of the church on charges of "unministerial conduct and immoral practices." The acts charged cover more than eighteen months of Mr. Lane's pastorate, and embrace the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert. He has been tested by the Utes, and made a strong case against the minister. Mr. Lane testified in his own behalf, admitting kissing two of the ladies in what he claims was an innocent and lawful way, and strenuously denied the alleged criminal misconduct. He says he has been the victim of the gossip of the neighborhood, and that Kenisco contains nearly a score of couples who have violated their marriage vows, and whose chief business is to stir up enmity among the well-behaved portion of the community. The pastor's wife, a young and attractive lady, admitted that her husband was in the habit of kissing the wife of one of his stewards, and embracing the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert.

Rev. John H. Lane, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Kenisco, Westchester county, New York, is now on trial before the official body of the church on charges of "unministerial conduct and immoral practices." The acts charged cover more than eighteen months of Mr. Lane's pastorate, and embrace the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert. He has been tested by the Utes, and made a strong case against the minister. Mr. Lane testified in his own behalf, admitting kissing two of the ladies in what he claims was an innocent and lawful way, and strenuously denied the alleged criminal misconduct. He says he has been the victim of the gossip of the neighborhood, and that Kenisco contains nearly a score of couples who have violated their marriage vows, and whose chief business is to stir up enmity among the well-behaved portion of the community. The pastor's wife, a young and attractive lady, admitted that her husband was in the habit of kissing the wife of one of his stewards, and embracing the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert.

Rev. John H. Lane, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Kenisco, Westchester county, New York, is now on trial before the official body of the church on charges of "unministerial conduct and immoral practices." The acts charged cover more than eighteen months of Mr. Lane's pastorate, and embrace the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert. He has been tested by the Utes, and made a strong case against the minister. Mr. Lane testified in his own behalf, admitting kissing two of the ladies in what he claims was an innocent and lawful way, and strenuously denied the alleged criminal misconduct. He says he has been the victim of the gossip of the neighborhood, and that Kenisco contains nearly a score of couples who have violated their marriage vows, and whose chief business is to stir up enmity among the well-behaved portion of the community. The pastor's wife, a young and attractive lady, admitted that her husband was in the habit of kissing the wife of one of his stewards, and embracing the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert.

Rev. John H. Lane, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Kenisco, Westchester county, New York, is now on trial before the official body of the church on charges of "unministerial conduct and immoral practices." The acts charged cover more than eighteen months of Mr. Lane's pastorate, and embrace the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert. He has been tested by the Utes, and made a strong case against the minister. Mr. Lane testified in his own behalf, admitting kissing two of the ladies in what he claims was an innocent and lawful way, and strenuously denied the alleged criminal misconduct. He says he has been the victim of the gossip of the neighborhood, and that Kenisco contains nearly a score of couples who have violated their marriage vows, and whose chief business is to stir up enmity among the well-behaved portion of the community. The pastor's wife, a young and attractive lady, admitted that her husband was in the habit of kissing the wife of one of his stewards, and embracing the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert.

Rev. John H. Lane, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Kenisco, Westchester county, New York, is now on trial before the official body of the church on charges of "unministerial conduct and immoral practices." The acts charged cover more than eighteen months of Mr. Lane's pastorate, and embrace the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert. He has been tested by the Utes, and made a strong case against the minister. Mr. Lane testified in his own behalf, admitting kissing two of the ladies in what he claims was an innocent and lawful way, and strenuously denied the alleged criminal misconduct. He says he has been the victim of the gossip of the neighborhood, and that Kenisco contains nearly a score of couples who have violated their marriage vows, and whose chief business is to stir up enmity among the well-behaved portion of the community. The pastor's wife, a young and attractive lady, admitted that her husband was in the habit of kissing the wife of one of his stewards, and embracing the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert.

Rev. John H. Lane, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Kenisco, Westchester county, New York, is now on trial before the official body of the church on charges of "unministerial conduct and immoral practices." The acts charged cover more than eighteen months of Mr. Lane's pastorate, and embrace the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert. He has been tested by the Utes, and made a strong case against the minister. Mr. Lane testified in his own behalf, admitting kissing two of the ladies in what he claims was an innocent and lawful way, and strenuously denied the alleged criminal misconduct. He says he has been the victim of the gossip of the neighborhood, and that Kenisco contains nearly a score of couples who have violated their marriage vows, and whose chief business is to stir up enmity among the well-behaved portion of the community. The pastor's wife, a young and attractive lady, admitted that her husband was in the habit of kissing the wife of one of his stewards, and embracing the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert.

Rev. John H. Lane, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Kenisco, Westchester county, New York, is now on trial before the official body of the church on charges of "unministerial conduct and immoral practices." The acts charged cover more than eighteen months of Mr. Lane's pastorate, and embrace the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert. He has been tested by the Utes, and made a strong case against the minister. Mr. Lane testified in his own behalf, admitting kissing two of the ladies in what he claims was an innocent and lawful way, and strenuously denied the alleged criminal misconduct. He says he has been the victim of the gossip of the neighborhood, and that Kenisco contains nearly a score of couples who have violated their marriage vows, and whose chief business is to stir up enmity among the well-behaved portion of the community. The pastor's wife, a young and attractive lady, admitted that her husband was in the habit of kissing the wife of one of his stewards, and embracing the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert.

Rev. John H. Lane, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Kenisco, Westchester county, New York, is now on trial before the official body of the church on charges of "unministerial conduct and immoral practices." The acts charged cover more than eighteen months of Mr. Lane's pastorate, and embrace the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert. He has been tested by the Utes, and made a strong case against the minister. Mr. Lane testified in his own behalf, admitting kissing two of the ladies in what he claims was an innocent and lawful way, and strenuously denied the alleged criminal misconduct. He says he has been the victim of the gossip of the neighborhood, and that Kenisco contains nearly a score of couples who have violated their marriage vows, and whose chief business is to stir up enmity among the well-behaved portion of the community. The pastor's wife, a young and attractive lady, admitted that her husband was in the habit of kissing the wife of one of his stewards, and embracing the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert.

Rev. John H. Lane, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Kenisco, Westchester county, New York, is now on trial before the official body of the church on charges of "unministerial conduct and immoral practices." The acts charged cover more than eighteen months of Mr. Lane's pastorate, and embrace the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert. He has been tested by the Utes, and made a strong case against the minister. Mr. Lane testified in his own behalf, admitting kissing two of the ladies in what he claims was an innocent and lawful way, and strenuously denied the alleged criminal misconduct. He says he has been the victim of the gossip of the neighborhood, and that Kenisco contains nearly a score of couples who have violated their marriage vows, and whose chief business is to stir up enmity among the well-behaved portion of the community. The pastor's wife, a young and attractive lady, admitted that her husband was in the habit of kissing the wife of one of his stewards, and embracing the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert.

Rev. John H. Lane, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Kenisco, Westchester county, New York, is now on trial before the official body of the church on charges of "unministerial conduct and immoral practices." The acts charged cover more than eighteen months of Mr. Lane's pastorate, and embrace the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert. He has been tested by the Utes, and made a strong case against the minister. Mr. Lane testified in his own behalf, admitting kissing two of the ladies in what he claims was an innocent and lawful way, and strenuously denied the alleged criminal misconduct. He says he has been the victim of the gossip of the neighborhood, and that Kenisco contains nearly a score of couples who have violated their marriage vows, and whose chief business is to stir up enmity among the well-behaved portion of the community. The pastor's wife, a young and attractive lady, admitted that her husband was in the habit of kissing the wife of one of his stewards, and embracing the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert.

Rev. John H. Lane, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Kenisco, Westchester county, New York, is now on trial before the official body of the church on charges of "unministerial conduct and immoral practices." The acts charged cover more than eighteen months of Mr. Lane's pastorate, and embrace the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert. He has been tested by the Utes, and made a strong case against the minister. Mr. Lane testified in his own behalf, admitting kissing two of the ladies in what he claims was an innocent and lawful way, and strenuously denied the alleged criminal misconduct. He says he has been the victim of the gossip of the neighborhood, and that Kenisco contains nearly a score of couples who have violated their marriage vows, and whose chief business is to stir up enmity among the well-behaved portion of the community. The pastor's wife, a young and attractive lady, admitted that her husband was in the habit of kissing the wife of one of his stewards, and embracing the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert.

Rev. John H. Lane, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Kenisco, Westchester county, New York, is now on trial before the official body of the church on charges of "unministerial conduct and immoral practices." The acts charged cover more than eighteen months of Mr. Lane's pastorate, and embrace the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert. He has been tested by the Utes, and made a strong case against the minister. Mr. Lane testified in his own behalf, admitting kissing two of the ladies in what he claims was an innocent and lawful way, and strenuously denied the alleged criminal misconduct. He says he has been the victim of the gossip of the neighborhood, and that Kenisco contains nearly a score of couples who have violated their marriage vows, and whose chief business is to stir up enmity among the well-behaved portion of the community. The pastor's wife, a young and attractive lady, admitted that her husband was in the habit of kissing the wife of one of his stewards, and embracing the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert.

Rev. John H. Lane, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Kenisco, Westchester county, New York, is now on trial before the official body of the church on charges of "unministerial conduct and immoral practices." The acts charged cover more than eighteen months of Mr. Lane's pastorate, and embrace the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert. He has been tested by the Utes, and made a strong case against the minister. Mr. Lane testified in his own behalf, admitting kissing two of the ladies in what he claims was an innocent and lawful way, and strenuously denied the alleged criminal misconduct. He says he has been the victim of the gossip of the neighborhood, and that Kenisco contains nearly a score of couples who have violated their marriage vows, and whose chief business is to stir up enmity among the well-behaved portion of the community. The pastor's wife, a young and attractive lady, admitted that her husband was in the habit of kissing the wife of one of his stewards, and embracing the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert.

Rev. John H. Lane, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Kenisco, Westchester county, New York, is now on trial before the official body of the church on charges of "unministerial conduct and immoral practices." The acts charged cover more than eighteen months of Mr. Lane's pastorate, and embrace the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert. He has been tested by the Utes, and made a strong case against the minister. Mr. Lane testified in his own behalf, admitting kissing two of the ladies in what he claims was an innocent and lawful way, and strenuously denied the alleged criminal misconduct. He says he has been the victim of the gossip of the neighborhood, and that Kenisco contains nearly a score of couples who have violated their marriage vows, and whose chief business is to stir up enmity among the well-behaved portion of the community. The pastor's wife, a young and attractive lady, admitted that her husband was in the habit of kissing the wife of one of his stewards, and embracing the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert.

Rev. John H. Lane, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Kenisco, Westchester county, New York, is now on trial before the official body of the church on charges of "unministerial conduct and immoral practices." The acts charged cover more than eighteen months of Mr. Lane's pastorate, and embrace the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert. He has been tested by the Utes, and made a strong case against the minister. Mr. Lane testified in his own behalf, admitting kissing two of the ladies in what he claims was an innocent and lawful way, and strenuously denied the alleged criminal misconduct. He says he has been the victim of the gossip of the neighborhood, and that Kenisco contains nearly a score of couples who have violated their marriage vows, and whose chief business is to stir up enmity among the well-behaved portion of the community. The pastor's wife, a young and attractive lady, admitted that her husband was in the habit of kissing the wife of one of his stewards, and embracing the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert.

Rev. John H. Lane, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Kenisco, Westchester county, New York, is now on trial before the official body of the church on charges of "unministerial conduct and immoral practices." The acts charged cover more than eighteen months of Mr. Lane's pastorate, and embrace the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert. He has been tested by the Utes, and made a strong case against the minister. Mr. Lane testified in his own behalf, admitting kissing two of the ladies in what he claims was an innocent and lawful way, and strenuously denied the alleged criminal misconduct. He says he has been the victim of the gossip of the neighborhood, and that Kenisco contains nearly a score of couples who have violated their marriage vows, and whose chief business is to stir up enmity among the well-behaved portion of the community. The pastor's wife, a young and attractive lady, admitted that her husband was in the habit of kissing the wife of one of his stewards, and embracing the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert.

Rev. John H. Lane, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Kenisco, Westchester county, New York, is now on trial before the official body of the church on charges of "unministerial conduct and immoral practices." The acts charged cover more than eighteen months of Mr. Lane's pastorate, and embrace the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert. He has been tested by the Utes, and made a strong case against the minister. Mr. Lane testified in his own behalf, admitting kissing two of the ladies in what he claims was an innocent and lawful way, and strenuously denied the alleged criminal misconduct. He says he has been the victim of the gossip of the neighborhood, and that Kenisco contains nearly a score of couples who have violated their marriage vows, and whose chief business is to stir up enmity among the well-behaved portion of the community. The pastor's wife, a young and attractive lady, admitted that her husband was in the habit of kissing the wife of one of his stewards, and embracing the lascivious kissing and hugging of the wives of the two stewards of the Kenisco church, taking improper liberties with a comely young lady member, and making improper proposals to a newly-admitted convert.