CHAS. B. JONES, Editor & Proprietor.

(ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT CHARLOTTE, N. C., AS SECOND CLASS MATTER.)

SATURDAY, MARCH 6, 1880.

DISINTEGRATION OF ANCIENT LANDMARKS.

Revolutions never go backwards. The history of nations proves this, and the history of communities but makes the fact more impressive.

The steps now for the first time taken by the Federal Supreme Court, in the desire to sink the rights of the States, and uphold the strong arm of the Federal government, can never be retraced.

The new rules of the House of Representatives were finally adopted on Tuesday, and will go into operation on Monday next, March 8.

Scale of North Carolina, Cox of New York, Atkins of Tennessee, Stephens of Georgia, and Singleton of Mississippi, are the only Democratic members of this Congress who were in the House of Representatives before the war.

The Ute Negotiations. WASHINGTON, March 5.—Secretary Schurz says he is in hopes of concluding negotiations with the Ute Indians to-day.

De Lesseps in Washington. WASHINGTON, March 4.—M. De Lesseps arrived here from New York today, and will call unofficially upon the President and Secretary of State tomorrow.

The Gambler's Invited to Close. CINCINNATI, March 5.—The new superintendent of police, having called on the proprietors of gambling saloons to close their places, the request is being generally complied with.

The Troy Printers—An Increase in Wages Demanded. TROY, N. Y., March 5th.—The printers have given notice that they will demand an increase of fifty cents on all grades of work after April 1st.

The Readjuster's Bill Voted. RICHMOND, March 5th.—The Government to-day returned the readjuster's bill to the Legislature with his disapproval.

WARD BATHED IN THE BLOOD OF THE NATION

From '61 to '65, and to-day deserve to be written over every portal to every court of justice in the land.

Having passed through the fierce contentions of sectionalism, and the bloody effusion of civil war, they teach us there is a point in Jefferson's declaration that "the judiciary of the United States is constantly working under the ground."

Ominous words, uttered in 1821, forty-six years after the Declaration of Independence, of which Mr. Jefferson was regarded as the father, and thirty-four years after the adoption of the constitution, in the drafting of which he was at least a leading spirit.

FORTY-SIXTH CONGRESS.

YESTERDAY'S WORK.

Logan on the Fitz-John Porter Bill.—The Territorial Government of Alaska—Reports, &c.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—SENATE.—The Vice-President laid before the Senate a communication from the secretary of the navy transmitting, in response to a Senate resolution, information as to the present condition of affairs in Alaska.

Mr. Logan continued his argument against the passage of the Fitz John Porter bill. He pointed out on the maps the relative position of the various forces on the field, and said it was evident that there was no obstruction in front of Porter to prevent his pushing forward to strike Jackson's right before Longstreet could come up, as Pope intended that it should be done.
