The Story of Two Wives.

On the day of the funeral of Mr. Wm. P. Miller in Washington, Del., a woman, in whose lineaments traces of youthful beauty still lingered, though advancing age streaked her once luxuriant hair with silver, entered the house to look for the last time upon the face of the corpse. Few, if any, recognized her, yet her's was the legal right to appear as chief mourner there, for she was the first and the only wife of the departed. Among the neighbors, her story is thus told: She was wedded to Mr. Miller fifteen years ago. About that time the husband was taken down with that dreaded and loathsome malady, smallpox. The wife's dread of the disease proved stronger than her love and sense of duty, and she deserted the house, leaving him to be nursed back to life and health by a younger and braver woman. With returning health sprang up in the man a feeling of gratitude and affection for his young nurse. His recreant wife had gone and he would not recall her. The love she had for feited he transferred to the woman who had remained by him in his hour of need, and from that time up to the

MORE RAILROAD TALK.

Something About the Tennessee Con-

Bristol News.

The Legislature of North Carolina has just been called together specially to consider the proposition of a New York syndicate for the purchase of one of the railroad lines leading from the seaboard towards Cincinnati and Louisville. This syndicate has deposited a very large amount of money as an earnest that they man business. North Carolina is now building by convict labor two lines. One of them leads from Wilmington via Saisbury, Morganton, and Asheville to Paint Rock, where it will connect with the Morristown road. The other leads from Cumberland, at the head of navigation above Wilmington, head of navigation above Wilmington, via Greensboro, Mount Airy and Ore Knob, toward Bristol, it may be. Both of these lines look to Cumberland Gap, in order to reach Louisville and Cincinnati, and the New York syndicate means to purchase one of them. If the Greensboro, Mount Airy and Ore Knob be taken by them, they will wish to come to Bristol and use our Narrow Gauge railroad line to the Gap. In this connection we wish to say to these gentlemen that we are pushing our Narrow Gauge road ahead with eighty convicts now, and a prospect of more. We have over one hundred thousand dollars that will soon be in shape as subscriptions, and we shall be half way to Estillville with the grading before the close of this year. Our line penetrates the finest and largest beds of iron and coal on this continent, and its completion will show an iron boom in the counties of Scott, Lee and Wise, that will make one's head swim to contemplate. Experts declare the quality of the iron the very finest in the world. There are only the Lake Superior and the northern New York deposits like it. In amount we can beat them all. The distance to Cumberland Gap from Bristol is about 100 miles. We have at least four companies of capitalists who are anxious to open negotiations with us for the completion of the road. To our own people we wish to say that quick movements are necessary. Not for one moment can we allow the movement to stand still. Scott and Lee must take position at once on our stock-books. The sooner this shall Orphan asylum says he wants more be done the sooner we shall contract or the iron and rolling stock.

The new market house in Wilming-ton was opened to the public day before Wilmington, N. C., via Cumberland Gap every customer. This connection with the coast at | don't throw out any baits to the public with a mere small article, but fair treatment to all, and polite attention shown to and Bristol, and Ore Knob and Greensbore, is the straightest possible line for Louisville and Cincinnati. Take the map and make the line, and the reader will be surprised that he never saw it before.

Gaston County Cotton Factory. Gastonia Gazette.

The people of Gaston county have about $600,000 deposited in the Charlotte national banks, and these banks, we are informed by the press and rumors generally, have too much money They have a crazy colored woman in Wilmington who makes a habit of appearing in fantastic garb at all the weddings in the neighborhood, and tries to break up the fun.

Intersgenerary, have too much money anyhow; consequently, we see no reason why the people of this county cannot find some means to employ at least a large part of this immense capital. The county has no bonds and is out of debt entirely. We have been estimating the last few days the cost of conducting water from the falls at White & Jenkins's mills, on Long creek, to a point half way between A. B. Rhyne's mill and the Long creek road-bridge, which, we are into Dallas; consequently, both of these towns will be deeply interested, as the factory would be very convenient to both, perhaps a little more to Dallas. The cost of conveying the water will not exceed $10,000, which is the usual price asked for a good fall, and frequently in very inconvenient localities, oo; but this cost, no doubt, by proper cleaning out of the creek below, can be reduced to $5,000.

The lands up and down the creek can be purchased at from $5 to $15 per acre, and a company should be organized at once to take the matter into considera-

We cannot see why a factory of this kind ought not to be established. It would bring to Gaston county a large revenue and an increase of population that will aid in enhancing and increasing the value of property throughout the county. It does seem to us that a company properly organized, with skillful financiers at the head of it, and a in the county can plank down $50,000, and not miss it from his bank account. Let the people begin at once and see what can be done.

A Celebrated Case, Raleigh Observer.

A few days past the celebrated case of Josiah Turner vs. W.W. Holden was up before A. W. Haywood, Esq., as referee, to take the examination of the defendant and report the same to Chatham Superior Court. The proceeding was supplemental to execution. The defendant declined to be sworn, on the ground that a receiver of the property, and especially of the judgment against the defendant, had been appointed before the institution of these proceedings, house of worship. The new Methodist church will be completed some time and that, therefore, the plaintiff, Turner, had no right to proceed in the case as at present constituted. The referee, on motion to attach defendant for con-tempt, ruled that he had no power to attach for contempt in such case, but that the proper way was to certify the matter up to the Superior Court of Chatham county, in order that the defendant might be properly dealt with, touching his said refusal; which was accordingly done.

At the price of horses, as recorded below, it will still pay, in spite of the de-pression in the market, to raise horses. The following prices were paid, at difwhen both were comparatively young. One son was born to them, and their lives ran on peacefully and uneventfully, as far as is known, until about to Mr. Keene, $15,000; Coming to trotters, Mr. Bonner paid $40,000 for Poca-hontas, $36,000 for Rarus, $34,000 for Dexter, $20,000 for Startle, $16,000 for Edwin Forrest, and $15,000 for Grafton. Mr. Smith, of New Jersey, paid $35,000 for Goldsmith Maid, $32,000 for Jay Gould, $30,000 for Lady Thorne, $25,000 for Lucy, and $17,000 for Tattler. Mr. Vanderbilt paid $21,000 for Maude S., and $10,000 for Lysander Boy. The largest sum ever paid for a horse in England, where there are few trotters, was close on to $72,000 for Doncaster, by the Duke of Westminster.
