OFFICIAL SALABIES. The recent resignation of Senator Gordon, of Georgia, because of his inability to live on his salary, or rather, his ability to better provide for his family by attending to private interests, affords an opportunity to say something in regard to official salaries. We will not stop to inquire whether the pay attached to the position of United States Senator is enough for the decent maintenance of such Senator, for beyond the prime necessaries and staple comforts, modes and expenses of living are largely matters of taste, of habit and of association. It is perhaps seldom that a man called to office cannot cover the prime necessaries and staple comforts with the salary attached thereto, but it sometimes happens that he cannot do justice to himself and to his family by accepting such position. We presume no one will attempt to deny that a man's first duty is to his family. He is bound to consider that while there are others who could perhaps fill public positions with equal satisfaction to the people, there is none to assume the responsibilities he bears to those directly dependent upon him. The public have no right to demand such a sacrifice, for in some instance s it cannot be considered anything less. It is only in exceptional cases that the e actions of patriotism demand it. It was to such a demand that Gov. Vance yielded in 1876, for he was assured that in the then existing state of affairs, no other could fill the position he was asked to assume. At a later period, a distinguished lawyer in the eastern part of the State was asked to become one of the justices on the Supreme Court bench, and declined, candidly stating that the salary would not permit him to give to his family the care and attention they had a right to expect from one situated as he then was. Here we have two men eminently qual-ified to hold the highest and most re-

best talent of the State.

We do not intend to maintain that there should be a sweeping increase in the salaries of all State officials, but we do wish to protest against a disposition important offices at a discount, by the salaries that have been attached to them. Notable among these is that of superintendent of public instruction. Not long since an esteemed State contemporary called attention to the lack of significance attached to the office by showing that its present imeumbent received less compensation than many bank clerks of limited experience and extremely ordinary natural qualifications. The possibilities of the office ir inestimable, but so long as its apparent importance is illustrated by a paltry sum, its real usefulness will never be fully appreciated by the public at large nor by the incumbent himself.

We are very well aware that no im mediate practical good can come from a discussion of the subject now, inasmuch as there is no possibility of changing the existing laws naturally suggests itself in connection with the selection that will soon be made, and no harm can come from calling attention to the matter now. We are furthermore, aware that this is not the popular side of this question, but confidently look forward to the time when people will no longer listen to the demagogic cry of retrenchment at the expense of the usefulness of public officers, One of these days they will come to see that the real need of reform is in the collection of the taxes in the enforcement of proper assessments, instead of allowing one pertion of the people to bear a just proportion of the public burden, while others at their side avoid an equal share of this burden, by conduct which cannot be called by a gentler name than perjury.

Hor. Thomas A. Hendricks attended the unveiling of the Jackson statue at Nashville, Tenn, Thursday. In the evening he was complimented with a serenade, in which a large crowd participated, and in response delivered a non-partisan address, in which he paid an eloquent tribute to the memories of Andrew Jackson, James K. Polk and Andrew Johnson.

It is now generally conceded that there will be really only two candidates before the Democratic State conven- SYNOPSIS OF YESTERDAY'S PRO tion-Jarvis and Fowle. At the same time few will be willing to hazard an absolute opinion that either the one or the other will be nominated, for experience has shown that, in nominating conventions, as in matters of private life, while the struggle is going on in the front, another may come up from the rear and carry off the prize, so that not the least hopeful aspirant is often he whose name has not often been mentioned and whose strength lies in the fact that he has no enemies. To-day, however, the people are deciding between the two whose names have been before them for months. It is proper that they should have all the information necessary to form a just estimate of the worth and availability of each. For this reason, chiefly, we present this morning the record of one of the candidates in relation to a matter which has been used against him. It has evidently been prepared with care and may be relied on as a faithful reproduction of the records. Those who choose may read and draw their own conclusions.

Reckless extravagance often marks the expenditure of the appropriations for government buildings, but it is erroneous to suppose, as many do, that the policy of erecting such buildings in all leading cities is extravagant. The very reverse is true, as has been proven recently by the report of the committee on public buildings and grounds, showing that the aggregate of rents paid annually is not much less than $1,500,000, which is 4 per cent. of $37,500,000. This amount would be sufficient to erect suitable buildings in every city and town in the Union.

One of the most intellectual men and soundest Democrats in Congress is Representative Hurd, of Ohio. We are glad to see that he has friends who are ready to do their utmost to bring him forward as the nominee for Vice-President at Cincinnati. He is a general favorite in the House.

---Failures in Europe.

NEW YORK, May 25 .- A London spcgial says the effect of the announce-ment of the suspension of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad was much more general and disastrous than it naturally would have been had the market been in a healthy condition. Philadel-phia and Reading bonds, which were quoted at 81 on Friday, fell to 50, while the stock declined from 3/4 to 10. As the first consequence of this enormous fall, the failure is announced of a very respectable jobber, Mr. Frogeross. The news of his failure has created the greatest sansation, inasmuch as he had are rumors of other failures. It is acknowledged by the best of judges in such matters that American railway credit has received a severe shock in Europe, and the failure is not likely to be soon forgotten,

FORTY-SIXTH CONGRESS. CEEDINGS.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—House.—On motion of Carlisle, the Senate amendments to the House bill amending the internal revenue law in regard to distilled spirits were concurred in.

The Speaker pro tem laid before the House a message from the President urging on Congress the necessity of action on the Ute agreement. Referred. The House then went into committee of the whole on the sundry civil appropriation bill. The item of $75,000 for the National Board of Health was reained as reported.

Downey, of Wyoming Territory, moved to insert a provision authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury, in order that he may have accommodation for storage, to pay the sums of the commit-—appropriated by the bill—in lawful silver coin. Adopted amid applause and laughter-85 to 21.

After disposing of six pages of the bill, thus finishing about ene-half of it, the committee rose and the House, at 5:45 adjourned. SENATE Gordon announced that he had resigned his seat as Senator, and moved that the appointee be sworn in. The credentials of Gov. Brown were Edmunds remarked that they were dated May 21st, and asked if the date of Gordon's resignation was officially known to the Senate. It had been held by the Senate on some former occasions that the Governor of a State has no power under the constitution to appoint Senator until a vacancy actually exists. Of course everybody knew that he had no objection to Brown's being sworn in, except the sorrow it gave him that his friend, Gen. Gordon, was to go away, but he thought it right to call the attention of the Senate to this fact. It might, perhaps, be better for the Senate to hold as a matter of convenience that the former decision was wrong and that a Governor might issue his commission in anticipation of a vacancy. Gordon stated that his resignation antedated the commission of his successor by four or five days. Edmunds said the question then arose, if the vacancy had actually occurred on the 21st of May, the date of the commission, then by what constitutional or other authority had his friend, Gordon, exercised his faculties of Senatorsince that date? That would be a puzzle, but he did not know that it would affect the present question.

Hill, of Georgia, thought it had nothing to do with the present question, needle enters a person at the thigh, which was simply whether Governor makes its way down to the ankle, then Brown be sworn in. He moved that it retraces its steps and goes up the body,

On motion of Eaton, the pension deficiency appropriation bill was taken up. Euton moved an ame idment appropriating $15,000 for committee expenses of the Senate. After some debate it was agreed to. Windom offered an amendment ap-fees of United States Senate marshals and their deputies. Rejected by a party vote, yeas 22, nays 33. The amendments proposed by the Senate committee on appropriations were agreed to. After the adoption of the amendment appropriating $5,000 for the continuance of the work of settling claims of States on account of swamp lands, the bill was passed.

At the expiration of the morning hour the Senate resumed consideration of the bill defining the terms of chief supervisors of elections.

Edmunds spoke at length in opposition to the bill, which he said was intended to secure control of elections. He was followed by Rollins, of New Hampshire in a general attack upon the record of the Democratic party. He quoted from evidence of the outrages in the South and paid special attention to South Carolina, declaring the "Hamburg massacre" was an unprovoked and unjustifiable attack by Southern chivalry upon a parading negro company, whose resent-ful comments, though not accompanied by violence, served as a pretext for the massacre of the whole town. On the conclusion of Mr. Rollin's remarks Mr. Butler said: The Senator from New Hampshire has ransacked all the tilthy, dirty records in Washington and everywhere else for the purpose of pronouncing the benediction upon my State. I simply desire to say new that what has been said is from beginning to end contemptuous calumny on the character of South Carolina. I shall take occasion hereafter to pay my respects to what the honorable Senator has said. I will not delay the Sen-

Mr. Lamar said he also wished to reply to the statement of Mr. Rollins in regard to Mississippi, but was not well enough to do so to-day.

About an hour was thus occupied in a discussion between Messrs. Cameron, of Wisconsin, Hampton, Butler, Teller, McDonald, Kirkwood and others as to whether the honor of inventing and first using tissue ballots in South Carolina belongs to the Republican or Democratic party, and as to the manner and effect of this use as shown by the testimony before the Teller (now the Wallace) committee.

After a good deal of further debate, Thurman's amendment forbidding the re-appointment of chief supervisors of elections who now hold or have held office, was agreed to and the bill passed by year, 27, nays, 14-a party vote.

Everything consumable was burned before the arrival of the engines. Thousands of gallons of oil, with the extensive works of Danslow & Bush, were destroyed, besides Adams's lum-ber yard and Rogers's lumber yard, involving a loss of $44,000. The schooner Chas. Connelly, loaded with tar, was consumed. The other vessels got bevond the reach of the flames and were saved. The explosion was so great that it destroyed both buildings of Dunslow & Bush, one of which was 100 feet square. The window frames in all the houses in the vicinity were shattered, The loss on the schooner and cargo is about $25,000. The captain was obliged to jump overboard to save his life. Another Needle Story.

A few weeks ago a young lady of Salisbury, Md., was getting into a carriage and a sewing needle was by some means forced into her thigh, but being considered a trifling matter, little or no attention was paid to it at the time. Several days after this occurrence, however, her ankle pained her very much, and on examination it was found that the needle was the cause of it. In her efforts to get it out it broke, and she only succeeded in getting one part (the eye half) of it out. The point remained, and two days after she felt that just below the knee, but was still unable to get it out. Two weeks then elapsed, and she felt something in her throat, but the obstruction was supposed to be a fish bone. After several efforts to remove it she at last succeeded, and it proved to be the point part of the needle. Thus, in a few weeks' time, a common sewing and comes out at the throat. This may appear to be an incredible story, but it is true nevertheless. It is vouched for

THERE is no greater BLOOD-PURIFYING and LIFE-GIVING PRINCIPLE in the world of medicine than MALT BITTERS, prepared by the MALT BITTERS COMPANY from unfermented Marand Hops. It is a perfect renovator of feeble and exhausted constitutions. It enriches the blood, solidines the bones, hardens the miscles, quilque the nerves, perfects digestion, cheers the mind, and vitalizes with new life every fluid of the body. It is so, because it strikes at the root of all debility—ENFERBLED DIGESTION and IMPOYERISH-ED BLOOD. Sold everywhere. ED BLOOD. Sold everywhere.
