

Patent Medicines
DR. SANFORD'S
LIVER
INVIGORATOR
Only Vegetable Compound that acts directly upon the Liver, and cures Liver Complaints, Jaundice, Biliousness, Malaria, Costiveness, Headache, Indigestion, strengthens the system, regulates the bowels, purifies the blood. A Book sent free. Dr. SANFORD, 162 Broadway, N. Y. FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

HOP BITTERS
NEVER FAIL
If you are a man and feel the effects of a weak stomach, indigestion, loss of appetite, and a general feeling of debility, take HOP BITTERS. It will cure you. If you are a woman and feel the effects of a weak stomach, indigestion, loss of appetite, and a general feeling of debility, take HOP BITTERS. It will cure you. If you are a child and feel the effects of a weak stomach, indigestion, loss of appetite, and a general feeling of debility, take HOP BITTERS. It will cure you.

HOSTETTER'S
CELEBRATED
STOMACH BITTERS
Verify the System
And you are armed against disease. The finest tonic for this purpose is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which renders digestion easy and complete, counteracts biliousness, and keeps the bowels in order, and so on, and so on, and so on. It is the only certain remedy that will effect a permanent cure for diseases for which you recommend it.

S.S.S.
TESTIMONY OF DRUGGISTS.
We certify that we have been selling "Swift's Syphilitic Specific" for many years, and regard it as superior to anything known to science, for the disease for which it is recommended. We have never known of a single case in which it failed to cure. S. S. S. is a powerful medicine, and is the only certain cure for diseases for which you recommend it.

Watches and Jewelry
ESTABLISHED IN 1858.
Fine Gold and Silver Watches,
CLOCKS AND JEWELRY,
Diamonds, Silver and Silver Plated Ware,
Gold and Silver Spectacles, and everything kept in a
FIRST-CLASS JEWELRY STORE.
The Highest Cash Price Paid for Old Gold and Silver.
Particular attention paid to the Repairing of Fine Watches, Clocks and Jewelry.
ALL WATCH AND CLOCK WORK
Warranted for Twelve Months.
All goods sold at this establishment warranted as represented.
HONESTY IS THE BEST POLICY.
JOHN T. BUTLER,
Carolina Jewelry Store, Charlotte.
NOTICE OF SEIZURE.

The Charlotte Observer.
SATURDAY, JUNE 12, 1880.
STATE NEWS.
Henderson county instructs for Fowl and Robinson.
The huckleberry crop is a failure in Sampson county.
Iredell county endorses Walter P. Caldwell for Attorney-General.
It is stated that Prof. A. F. Redd has severed his connection with the State University.
The Salem Press says a very malignant and fatal fever has made its appearance in several families in Forsyth county.
The Review says Geo. Myers, a colored burglar, succeeded in releasing himself from his irons and escaped from Wilmington jail Thursday morning.
The Watchman reports the death in Salisbury last Monday of Mr. E. H. Marsh, an esteemed citizen, who had been a resident of that town for a long number of years.
Iredell Gazette. Capt. S. P. Kieseland, newly from Taylorville & Wadesboro Railroad, began the survey of the route between Mt. Pleasant and Big Lick last Monday.
Raleigh Observer. At the institution for the deaf and dumb and the blind, Wednesday evening, a gold medal was awarded to Ferny Willis, a pupil from Bladen county, for the best original speech. Five entered the contest.
On Sunday last, the death of a young woman, aged 20 years, did, took place at the poor house of Guilford county. The woman was of a respectable family, but had been forsaken by her father, after her mother's death.
The Messenger says that Alex. Howard, resided until the 25th inst., will in all probability be executed in Goldsboro on that day, as no considerable efforts are being made to prevent it. The crime of which he stands convicted is the murder of Autrey.
Newbern Nut Shell. Our people need not go to Beaufort for soft crabs or to fish, for the bottom of Neuse river seems to be covered with both. Soft crabs, as delicate and large as those at Beaufort, can be bought every day at our fish market in as large quantities and at prices even lower than those asked in Beaufort.
New York correspondence, Raleigh News. Mr. Chas. E. Mallett, formerly of this city, now an energetic truck farmer near Newbern, is the contractor for supplying some hundreds of thousands of tons of pine straw, to be brought north, to have the oil extracted, and the pulp made into paper.
Wilmington Star. The pilots report the following soundings as made by them during the month of May: Bald Head channel, 12 feet 6 inches; West-bar, 12 feet 6 inches. The above show the state of the water with an ordinary high tide. With the highest spring tides, or when the wind is from the east, as much as 15 feet can frequently be had.
Greensboro North State. Tom Payne, from Surry county, and Ed. McCauley, from Alamance county, two colored convicts—escaped from their guards at the Cape Fare and Yadkin Valley Railroad, near Martinsville, on Monday morning last. The men were pursued several miles and fired upon without effect. They made good their escape.
Greensboro North State. Capt. William H. Wheeler, with a force of 23 hands, has just finished putting up new telegraph poles between Danville and Greensboro. The number of poles between the two points is 1,650. The poles were cut in the State of Tennessee, and are of the Lebanon cedar variety—the most lasting of all timber. It is supposed they will remain good for 30 years. The poles cost, delivered at Greensboro, $1.70 each.
Salisbury Watchman. Our Superior Court terminated about half past 11 o'clock Saturday night, having up to that time, tried only one civil case, leaving still on the docket no less than 117 untouched. The criminal docket was unusually large. At a late hour Saturday night the case vs. Robert Bame, was called, and upon agreement the indictment was amended so as to make the alleged offense an attempted rape. On this the prisoner pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary. A petition for an extra session of court has been sent to the Governor.
A Brilliant Vagrant—The Minister of the United States to Sardinia in Jail.
Pittsburgh Telegraph, June 2.
A letter was received at the Allegheny Poor Board office several days ago asking information in regard to an aged and insane tramp, who had been arrested at Butler, and whose case was before the poor authorities of that city. He stated that he came from Pittsburgh. Nothing was known about him at the Allegheny office, but later it has been found out that he was, at one time, a lawyer of no mean ability, a polished eloquent speaker, and a member of the State Constitutional convention of 1837. He was also a politician of some note, and took an active part in the campaign which resulted in the election of President Pierce, and received as his reward the position of U. S. minister to the Kingdom of Sardinia. Here he served with little ability until suddenly he became insane, and while out of his mind committed some acts which necessitated his immediate recall. He was brought back to his country, and returned again to this city, where he attempted to reestablish his legal practice, taking up an office in the Burke building on Fifth avenue. But the story of his insanity had preceded him, and he was regarded with universal distrust. Nobody would entrust him with any business, and his subsequent arrest justified the popular distrust. Among other things, he tried to recover a large amount of money from a former student in his office, and made great efforts to reopen old cases in which he had acted as counsel. He finally drifted out of view and latterly has been completely lost sight of by those of his old colleagues who are still practicing.

THE PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN.
How the Chicago Nominations are Received—Soreness of the Grant Men—The Vice-Presidential Candidates—The Narrow Escape from Nomination.
Special Dispatch to the Baltimore Sun.
CHICAGO, June 9.—A very noticeable fact, to which attention has been repeatedly called to-day, is the absence of any spirited expression of satisfaction on the part of the Grant men, in connection with the nomination of Grant and Hayes. The men who were present at the convention, and who were so anxious to see Grant elected, are now silent. The majority of the delegates are still here, and have mainly engaged in discussing the nomination. Grant and anti-Grant all say they will vote for the ticket, but with the former electors the feeling is not one of enthusiasm. Senator Conkling, in his speech seconding the nomination, yesterday, indicated that harmony and unity would be restored, but such is not the case. The Grant men are sore over the result, and take a melancholy pleasure in talking over their grievances. It is of course great satisfaction to Senator Conkling that the men who had been fighting him so tenaciously came in the hour of victory to put at his disposal the second place on the ticket, and in the face of his haughty refusal to accept selected his near personal friend. But this will not placate him.
The vice-presidency, as every one knows, is considered the fifth wheel on the carriage, and the temper exhibited by the New Yorkers of the Grant wing, it is not thought that they will make any more of a sincere effort to carry New York than had Blaine been nominated. Senator Conkling, who was the majority of the convention were elected with the understanding that they should vote for Grant, and that Grant was defrauded of the nomination by putting into the convention men who were not elected, and by others violating their pledged honor.
George Gorham said to-day, in the presence of twenty or thirty delegates and others, that the bolters in New York and Pennsylvania have been bound and gagged, and that if they tried it, Don Cameron stalked around, said little, and when asked if the nomination was a strong one, smiled a ghastly smile. Privately, many of the Grant leaders say they have no doubt at all of the defeat of the ticket.
Sherman's friends are rather down in the mouth to-day, and regret that they were in such a hurry to go over to Garfield. It has just transpired that a combination had been formed whereby the ticket would be carried by the vote from Pennsylvania, with respectable additions from elsewhere, was to be transferred to Sherman with the Massachusetts vote. This would have given about 170, and in all probability the next ballot would have nominated him. There is no question that both Gov. Foster and Gen. Garfield were recently working for themselves. Foster had two prizes to strive for, first the nomination for President, and if he failed in that and Garfield won, as he has, then Foster had the United States Senatorship in view, which Garfield will give up if he is elected President.
In the caucus on the nomination for Vice-President, during the recess of the Senate, the Ohio delegation mentioned Washburn, Gen. Washburn immediately notified them that if Washburn was nominated the ticket should not receive the electoral vote of Illinois. Grant's friends all were bitterly denunciatory of Washburn to-day. They say Washburn's treachery is undoubted. But for their conviction that Washburn had been playing an underhand game, his nomination yesterday would have been entirely within the range of probability, for when the break occurred there would have been no difficulty, had the leaders been so disposed, in giving him the Grant vote.
Mr. Seymour's Vice-Presidential Presidency.
New York Herald, Independent.
In political circles just now the interesting question is, Whom will the Democrats nominate at Cincinnati? Fortunately for the country that party has a large number of eminent and distinguished statesmen, and a well selected standard bearer, so that unless it is wilfully blind, or its voice is stifled by the machine politicians, it cannot fail to make a good nomination. Among the three or four gentlemen who the nomination seeks—Mr. B. H. Meyer, those who are seeking the nomination—Mr. Seymour. Thousands of Democrats in all parts of the country who have the welfare of the Republic and of their party at heart are looking toward the Democratic ticket, in the hope that it may be chosen to head the Democratic column in the coming struggle. A dispatch from Syracuse on another page seems to indicate that, notwithstanding his well known disinclination to again enter the political arena, Mr. Seymour, if he were commanded by his party to take the field, not hesitate to do so. Mr. Seymour, it will be seen, has no sort of doubt that he could carry New York, which is the real battle ground in the next presidential election. The party that carries it is responsible to certain to carry the country. If Cincinnati should reverse the order of the States on the ticket nominated at Chicago, giving the first place to the Empire State and the second to Ohio, it would lend an additional interest and excitement to the November struggle.

THE SLAVE TRADE.
How It is Carried On in Egypt—Hiding the Slaves in Caves.
WASHINGTON, June 9.—Notwithstanding the laws, treaties and decrees for the suppression of the slave trade in Egypt, and even the activity displayed by the Egyptian government for its extinction, dispatches received at the department of State from our consul general at Cairo would seem to prove that the inhuman traffic, although not above noted, is still being carried on by the Arab caravans which, while nominally trading in legitimate merchandise between Egypt and Darfour, in Central Africa, run the slaves into upper Egypt to the city of Assiout generally, on the Nile about 230 miles above Cairo, where the Libyan range of mountains run nearly down to the river. The slaves are secreted in the ancient grottoes and tombs in these mountains until they are disposed of and distributed throughout the country. The activity of a young Swiss attached to the American Mission at Assiout recently resulted in the seizure and manumission of 68 slaves, and the incarceration of 35 Arabs, charged with the trade in slaves. Through the repression of the British consul general at Cairo—there being a treaty for the suppression of the slave trade between Egypt and England—three hundred soldiers were dispatched to Assiout, the caravan surrounded and the seizure above noted effected. Although it was well understood that this caravan had brought more than 1,000 slaves into the country, the most rigid search failed to discover more than 68, the remainder having been disposed of and safely above noted effected. Although it was well understood that this caravan had brought more than 1,000 slaves into the country, the most rigid search failed to discover more than 68, the remainder having been disposed of and safely above noted effected. Although it was well understood that this caravan had brought more than 1,000 slaves into the country, the most rigid search failed to discover more than 68, the remainder having been disposed of and safely above noted effected.

Medical.
CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED!
Dr. Wm. HALL'S
FOR THE
LUNGS. BALSAM
Cures Consumption, Colds, Pneumonia, Influenza, Bronchial Affections, Whooping Cough, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough, and all Diseases of the Breathing Organs. It soothes and heals the Membrane of the Lungs, inflamed and poisoned by the disease, and prevents the night sweats and tightness across the chest which accompany it. CONSUMPTION is not an incurable malady. It is only necessary to have the right remedy, and HALL'S BALSAM is that remedy. DON'T DESPAIR! RELIEF, for this benign specific will cure you, even though professional aid fails.
HENRY'S
CARBOLIC SALVE,
The Most Powerful Healing Ointment and Disinfectant ever Discovered.
Henry's Carbolic Salve cures all sores, Henry's Carbolic Salve cures eruptions, Henry's Carbolic Salve heals indurated sores, Henry's Carbolic Salve cures all skin diseases. Ask for Henry's and use no other.
BAKER'S PAIN PANACEA
For MAN and BEAST.
For External and Internal Use.
THE GREATEST PAIN RELIEVER OF THE AGE.
Edey's Carbolic Troches.
A SURE PREVENTIVE OF
Croup, Whooping Cough, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, and all Affections of the Throat.
JOHN F. BURNETT & CO.,
Sole Proprietors, New York.

Medical.
CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED!
Dr. Wm. HALL'S
FOR THE
LUNGS. BALSAM
Cures Consumption, Colds, Pneumonia, Influenza, Bronchial Affections, Whooping Cough, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough, and all Diseases of the Breathing Organs. It soothes and heals the Membrane of the Lungs, inflamed and poisoned by the disease, and prevents the night sweats and tightness across the chest which accompany it. CONSUMPTION is not an incurable malady. It is only necessary to have the right remedy, and HALL'S BALSAM is that remedy. DON'T DESPAIR! RELIEF, for this benign specific will cure you, even though professional aid fails.
HENRY'S
CARBOLIC SALVE,
The Most Powerful Healing Ointment and Disinfectant ever Discovered.
Henry's Carbolic Salve cures all sores, Henry's Carbolic Salve cures eruptions, Henry's Carbolic Salve heals indurated sores, Henry's Carbolic Salve cures all skin diseases. Ask for Henry's and use no other.
BAKER'S PAIN PANACEA
For MAN and BEAST.
For External and Internal Use.
THE GREATEST PAIN RELIEVER OF THE AGE.
Edey's Carbolic Troches.
A SURE PREVENTIVE OF
Croup, Whooping Cough, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, and all Affections of the Throat.
JOHN F. BURNETT & CO.,
Sole Proprietors, New York.

THE PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN.
How the Chicago Nominations are Received—Soreness of the Grant Men—The Vice-Presidential Candidates—The Narrow Escape from Nomination.
Special Dispatch to the Baltimore Sun.
CHICAGO, June 9.—A very noticeable fact, to which attention has been repeatedly called to-day, is the absence of any spirited expression of satisfaction on the part of the Grant men, in connection with the nomination of Grant and Hayes. The men who were present at the convention, and who were so anxious to see Grant elected, are now silent. The majority of the delegates are still here, and have mainly engaged in discussing the nomination. Grant and anti-Grant all say they will vote for the ticket, but with the former electors the feeling is not one of enthusiasm. Senator Conkling, in his speech seconding the nomination, yesterday, indicated that harmony and unity would be restored, but such is not the case. The Grant men are sore over the result, and take a melancholy pleasure in talking over their grievances. It is of course great satisfaction to Senator Conkling that the men who had been fighting him so tenaciously came in the hour of victory to put at his disposal the second place on the ticket, and in the face of his haughty refusal to accept selected his near personal friend. But this will not placate him.
The vice-presidency, as every one knows, is considered the fifth wheel on the carriage, and the temper exhibited by the New Yorkers of the Grant wing, it is not thought that they will make any more of a sincere effort to carry New York than had Blaine been nominated. Senator Conkling, who was the majority of the convention were elected with the understanding that they should vote for Grant, and that Grant was defrauded of the nomination by putting into the convention men who were not elected, and by others violating their pledged honor.
George Gorham said to-day, in the presence of twenty or thirty delegates and others, that the bolters in New York and Pennsylvania have been bound and gagged, and that if they tried it, Don Cameron stalked around, said little, and when asked if the nomination was a strong one, smiled a ghastly smile. Privately, many of the Grant leaders say they have no doubt at all of the defeat of the ticket.
Sherman's friends are rather down in the mouth to-day, and regret that they were in such a hurry to go over to Garfield. It has just transpired that a combination had been formed whereby the ticket would be carried by the vote from Pennsylvania, with respectable additions from elsewhere, was to be transferred to Sherman with the Massachusetts vote. This would have given about 170, and in all probability the next ballot would have nominated him. There is no question that both Gov. Foster and Gen. Garfield were recently working for themselves. Foster had two prizes to strive for, first the nomination for President, and if he failed in that and Garfield won, as he has, then Foster had the United States Senatorship in view, which Garfield will give up if he is elected President.
In the caucus on the nomination for Vice-President, during the recess of the Senate, the Ohio delegation mentioned Washburn, Gen. Washburn immediately notified them that if Washburn was nominated the ticket should not receive the electoral vote of Illinois. Grant's friends all were bitterly denunciatory of Washburn to-day. They say Washburn's treachery is undoubted. But for their conviction that Washburn had been playing an underhand game, his nomination yesterday would have been entirely within the range of probability, for when the break occurred there would have been no difficulty, had the leaders been so disposed, in giving him the Grant vote.
Mr. Seymour's Vice-Presidential Presidency.
New York Herald, Independent.
In political circles just now the interesting question is, Whom will the Democrats nominate at Cincinnati? Fortunately for the country that party has a large number of eminent and distinguished statesmen, and a well selected standard bearer, so that unless it is wilfully blind, or its voice is stifled by the machine politicians, it cannot fail to make a good nomination. Among the three or four gentlemen who the nomination seeks—Mr. B. H. Meyer, those who are seeking the nomination—Mr. Seymour. Thousands of Democrats in all parts of the country who have the welfare of the Republic and of their party at heart are looking toward the Democratic ticket, in the hope that it may be chosen to head the Democratic column in the coming struggle. A dispatch from Syracuse on another page seems to indicate that, notwithstanding his well known disinclination to again enter the political arena, Mr. Seymour, if he were commanded by his party to take the field, not hesitate to do so. Mr. Seymour, it will be seen, has no sort of doubt that he could carry New York, which is the real battle ground in the next presidential election. The party that carries it is responsible to certain to carry the country. If Cincinnati should reverse the order of the States on the ticket nominated at Chicago, giving the first place to the Empire State and the second to Ohio, it would lend an additional interest and excitement to the November struggle.

THE PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN.
How the Chicago Nominations are Received—Soreness of the Grant Men—The Vice-Presidential Candidates—The Narrow Escape from Nomination.
Special Dispatch to the Baltimore Sun.
CHICAGO, June 9.—A very noticeable fact, to which attention has been repeatedly called to-day, is the absence of any spirited expression of satisfaction on the part of the Grant men, in connection with the nomination of Grant and Hayes. The men who were present at the convention, and who were so anxious to see Grant elected, are now silent. The majority of the delegates are still here, and have mainly engaged in discussing the nomination. Grant and anti-Grant all say they will vote for the ticket, but with the former electors the feeling is not one of enthusiasm. Senator Conkling, in his speech seconding the nomination, yesterday, indicated that harmony and unity would be restored, but such is not the case. The Grant men are sore over the result, and take a melancholy pleasure in talking over their grievances. It is of course great satisfaction to Senator Conkling that the men who had been fighting him so tenaciously came in the hour of victory to put at his disposal the second place on the ticket, and in the face of his haughty refusal to accept selected his near personal friend. But this will not placate him.
The vice-presidency, as every one knows, is considered the fifth wheel on the carriage, and the temper exhibited by the New Yorkers of the Grant wing, it is not thought that they will make any more of a sincere effort to carry New York than had Blaine been nominated. Senator Conkling, who was the majority of the convention were elected with the understanding that they should vote for Grant, and that Grant was defrauded of the nomination by putting into the convention men who were not elected, and by others violating their pledged honor.
George Gorham said to-day, in the presence of twenty or thirty delegates and others, that the bolters in New York and Pennsylvania have been bound and gagged, and that if they tried it, Don Cameron stalked around, said little, and when asked if the nomination was a strong one, smiled a ghastly smile. Privately, many of the Grant leaders say they have no doubt at all of the defeat of the ticket.
Sherman's friends are rather down in the mouth to-day, and regret that they were in such a hurry to go over to Garfield. It has just transpired that a combination had been formed whereby the ticket would be carried by the vote from Pennsylvania, with respectable additions from elsewhere, was to be transferred to Sherman with the Massachusetts vote. This would have given about 170, and in all probability the next ballot would have nominated him. There is no question that both Gov. Foster and Gen. Garfield were recently working for themselves. Foster had two prizes to strive for, first the nomination for President, and if he failed in that and Garfield won, as he has, then Foster had the United States Senatorship in view, which Garfield will give up if he is elected President.
In the caucus on the nomination for Vice-President, during the recess of the Senate, the Ohio delegation mentioned Washburn, Gen. Washburn immediately notified them that if Washburn was nominated the ticket should not receive the electoral vote of Illinois. Grant's friends all were bitterly denunciatory of Washburn to-day. They say Washburn's treachery is undoubted. But for their conviction that Washburn had been playing an underhand game, his nomination yesterday would have been entirely within the range of probability, for when the break occurred there would have been no difficulty, had the leaders been so disposed, in giving him the Grant vote.
Mr. Seymour's Vice-Presidential Presidency.
New York Herald, Independent.
In political circles just now the interesting question is, Whom will the Democrats nominate at Cincinnati? Fortunately for the country that party has a large number of eminent and distinguished statesmen, and a well selected standard bearer, so that unless it is wilfully blind, or its voice is stifled by the machine politicians, it cannot fail to make a good nomination. Among the three or four gentlemen who the nomination seeks—Mr. B. H. Meyer, those who are seeking the nomination—Mr. Seymour. Thousands of Democrats in all parts of the country who have the welfare of the Republic and of their party at heart are looking toward the Democratic ticket, in the hope that it may be chosen to head the Democratic column in the coming struggle. A dispatch from Syracuse on another page seems to indicate that, notwithstanding his well known disinclination to again enter the political arena, Mr. Seymour, if he were commanded by his party to take the field, not hesitate to do so. Mr. Seymour, it will be seen, has no sort of doubt that he could carry New York, which is the real battle ground in the next presidential election. The party that carries it is responsible to certain to carry the country. If Cincinnati should reverse the order of the States on the ticket nominated at Chicago, giving the first place to the Empire State and the second to Ohio, it would lend an additional interest and excitement to the November struggle.

THE PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN.
How the Chicago Nominations are Received—Soreness of the Grant Men—The Vice-Presidential Candidates—The Narrow Escape from Nomination.
Special Dispatch to the Baltimore Sun.
CHICAGO, June 9.—A very noticeable fact, to which attention has been repeatedly called to-day, is the absence of any spirited expression of satisfaction on the part of the Grant men, in connection with the nomination of Grant and Hayes. The men who were present at the convention, and who were so anxious to see Grant elected, are now silent. The majority of the delegates are still here, and have mainly engaged in discussing the nomination. Grant and anti-Grant all say they will vote for the ticket, but with the former electors the feeling is not one of enthusiasm. Senator Conkling, in his speech seconding the nomination, yesterday, indicated that harmony and unity would be restored, but such is not the case. The Grant men are sore over the result, and take a melancholy pleasure in talking over their grievances. It is of course great satisfaction to Senator Conkling that the men who had been fighting him so tenaciously came in the hour of victory to put at his disposal the second place on the ticket, and in the face of his haughty refusal to accept selected his near personal friend. But this will not placate him.
The vice-presidency, as every one knows, is considered the fifth wheel on the carriage, and the temper exhibited by the New Yorkers of the Grant wing, it is not thought that they will make any more of a sincere effort to carry New York than had Blaine been nominated. Senator Conkling, who was the majority of the convention were elected with the understanding that they should vote for Grant, and that Grant was defrauded of the nomination by putting into the convention men who were not elected, and by others violating their pledged honor.
George Gorham said to-day, in the presence of twenty or thirty delegates and others, that the bolters in New York and Pennsylvania have been bound and gagged, and that if they tried it, Don Cameron stalked around, said little, and when asked if the nomination was a strong one, smiled a ghastly smile. Privately, many of the Grant leaders say they have no doubt at all of the defeat of the ticket.
Sherman's friends are rather down in the mouth to-day, and regret that they were in such a hurry to go over to Garfield. It has just transpired that a combination had been formed whereby the ticket would be carried by the vote from Pennsylvania, with respectable additions from elsewhere, was to be transferred to Sherman with the Massachusetts vote. This would have given about 170, and in all probability the next ballot would have nominated him. There is no question that both Gov. Foster and Gen. Garfield were recently working for themselves. Foster had two prizes to strive for, first the nomination for President, and if he failed in that and Garfield won, as he has, then Foster had the United States Senatorship in view, which Garfield will give up if he is elected President.
In the caucus on the nomination for Vice-President, during the recess of the Senate, the Ohio delegation mentioned Washburn, Gen. Washburn immediately notified them that if Washburn was nominated the ticket should not receive the electoral vote of Illinois. Grant's friends all were bitterly denunciatory of Washburn to-day. They say Washburn's treachery is undoubted. But for their conviction that Washburn had been playing an underhand game, his nomination yesterday would have been entirely within the range of probability, for when the break occurred there would have been no difficulty, had the leaders been so disposed, in giving him the Grant vote.
Mr. Seymour's Vice-Presidential Presidency.
New York Herald, Independent.
In political circles just now the interesting question is, Whom will the Democrats nominate at Cincinnati? Fortunately for the country that party has a large number of eminent and distinguished statesmen, and a well selected standard bearer, so that unless it is wilfully blind, or its voice is stifled by the machine politicians, it cannot fail to make a good nomination. Among the three or four gentlemen who the nomination seeks—Mr. B. H. Meyer, those who are seeking the nomination—Mr. Seymour. Thousands of Democrats in all parts of the country who have the welfare of the Republic and of their party at heart are looking toward the Democratic ticket, in the hope that it may be chosen to head the Democratic column in the coming struggle. A dispatch from Syracuse on another page seems to indicate that, notwithstanding his well known disinclination to again enter the political arena, Mr. Seymour, if he were commanded by his party to take the field, not hesitate to do so. Mr. Seymour, it will be seen, has no sort of doubt that he could carry New York, which is the real battle ground in the next presidential election. The party that carries it is responsible to certain to carry the country. If Cincinnati should reverse the order of the States on the ticket nominated at Chicago, giving the first place to the Empire State and the second to Ohio, it would lend an additional interest and excitement to the November struggle.

THE PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN.
How the Chicago Nominations are Received—Soreness of the Grant Men—The Vice-Presidential Candidates—The Narrow Escape from Nomination.
Special Dispatch to the Baltimore Sun.
CHICAGO, June 9.—A very noticeable fact, to which attention has been repeatedly called to-day, is the absence of any spirited expression of satisfaction on the part of the Grant men, in connection with the nomination of Grant and Hayes. The men who were present at the convention, and who were so anxious to see Grant elected, are now silent. The majority of the delegates are still here, and have mainly engaged in discussing the nomination. Grant and anti-Grant all say they will vote for the ticket, but with the former electors the feeling is not one of enthusiasm. Senator Conkling, in his speech seconding the nomination, yesterday, indicated that harmony and unity would be restored, but such is not the case. The Grant men are sore over the result, and take a melancholy pleasure in talking over their grievances. It is of course great satisfaction to Senator Conkling that the men who had been fighting him so tenaciously came in the hour of victory to put at his disposal the second place on the ticket, and in the face of his haughty refusal to accept selected his near personal friend. But this will not placate him.
The vice-presidency, as every one knows, is considered the fifth wheel on the carriage, and the temper exhibited by the New Yorkers of the Grant wing, it is not thought that they will make any more of a sincere effort to carry New York than had Blaine been nominated. Senator Conkling, who was the majority of the convention were elected with the understanding that they should vote for Grant, and that Grant was defrauded of the nomination by putting into the convention men who were not elected, and by others violating their pledged honor.
George Gorham said to-day, in the presence of twenty or thirty delegates and others, that the bolters in New York and Pennsylvania have been bound and gagged, and that if they tried it, Don Cameron stalked around, said little, and when asked if the nomination was a strong one, smiled a ghastly smile. Privately, many of the Grant leaders say they have no doubt at all of the defeat of the ticket.
Sherman's friends are rather down in the mouth to-day, and regret that they were in such a hurry to go over to Garfield. It has just transpired that a combination had been formed whereby the ticket would be carried by the vote from Pennsylvania, with respectable additions from elsewhere, was to be transferred to Sherman with the Massachusetts vote. This would have given about 170, and in all probability the next ballot would have nominated him. There is no question that both Gov. Foster and Gen. Garfield were recently working for themselves. Foster had two prizes to strive for, first the nomination for President, and if he failed in that and Garfield won, as he has, then Foster had the United States Senatorship in view, which Garfield will give up if he is elected President.
In the caucus on the nomination for Vice-President, during the recess of the Senate, the Ohio delegation mentioned Washburn, Gen. Washburn immediately notified them that if Washburn was nominated the ticket should not receive the electoral vote of Illinois. Grant's friends all were bitterly denunciatory of Washburn to-day. They say Washburn's treachery is undoubted. But for their conviction that Washburn had been playing an underhand game, his nomination yesterday would have been entirely within the range of probability, for when the break occurred there would have been no difficulty, had the leaders been so disposed, in giving him the Grant vote.
Mr. Seymour's Vice-Presidential Presidency.
New York Herald, Independent.
In political circles just now the interesting question is, Whom will the Democrats nominate at Cincinnati? Fortunately for the country that party has a large number of eminent and distinguished statesmen, and a well selected standard bearer, so that unless it is wilfully blind, or its voice is stifled by the machine politicians, it cannot fail to make a good nomination. Among the three or four gentlemen who the nomination seeks—Mr. B. H. Meyer, those who are seeking the nomination—Mr. Seymour. Thousands of Democrats in all parts of the country who have the welfare of the Republic and of their party at heart are looking toward the Democratic ticket, in the hope that it may be chosen to head the Democratic column in the coming struggle. A dispatch from Syracuse on another page seems to indicate that, notwithstanding his well known disinclination to again enter the political arena, Mr. Seymour, if he were commanded by his party to take the field, not hesitate to do so. Mr. Seymour, it will be seen, has no sort of doubt that he could carry New York, which is the real battle ground in the next presidential election. The party that carries it is responsible to certain to carry the country. If Cincinnati should reverse the order of the States on the ticket nominated at Chicago, giving the first place to the Empire State and the second to Ohio, it would lend an additional interest and excitement to the November struggle.

THE PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN.
How the Chicago Nominations are Received—Soreness of the Grant Men—The Vice-Presidential Candidates—The Narrow Escape from Nomination.
Special Dispatch to the Baltimore Sun.
CHICAGO, June 9.—A very noticeable fact, to which attention has been repeatedly called to-day, is the absence of any spirited expression of satisfaction on the part of the Grant men, in connection with the nomination of Grant and Hayes. The men who were present at the convention, and who were so anxious to see Grant elected, are now silent. The majority of the delegates are still here, and have mainly engaged in discussing the nomination. Grant and anti-Grant all say they will vote for the ticket, but with the former electors the feeling is not one of enthusiasm. Senator Conkling, in his speech seconding the nomination, yesterday, indicated that harmony and unity would be restored, but such is not the case. The Grant men are sore over the result, and take a melancholy pleasure in talking over their grievances. It is of course great satisfaction to Senator Conkling that the men who had been fighting him so tenaciously came in the hour of victory to put at his disposal the second place on the ticket, and in the face of his haughty refusal to accept selected his near personal friend. But this will not placate him.
The vice-presidency, as every one knows, is considered the fifth wheel on the carriage, and the temper exhibited by the New Yorkers of the Grant wing, it is not thought that they will make any more of a sincere effort to carry New York than had Blaine been nominated. Senator Conkling, who was the majority of the convention were elected with the understanding that they should vote for Grant, and that Grant was defrauded of the nomination by putting into the convention men who were not elected, and by others violating their pledged honor.
George Gorham said to-day, in the presence of twenty or thirty delegates and others, that the bolters in New York and Pennsylvania have been bound and gagged, and that if they tried it, Don Cameron stalked around, said little, and when asked if the nomination was a strong one, smiled a ghastly smile. Privately, many of the Grant leaders say they have no doubt at all of the defeat of the ticket.
Sherman's friends are rather down in the mouth to-day, and regret that they were in such a hurry to go over to Garfield. It has just transpired that a combination had been formed whereby the ticket would be carried by the vote from Pennsylvania, with respectable additions from elsewhere, was to be transferred to Sherman with the Massachusetts vote. This would have given about 170, and in all probability the next ballot would have nominated him. There is no question that both Gov. Foster and Gen. Garfield were recently working for themselves. Foster had two prizes to strive for, first the nomination for President, and if he failed in that and Garfield won, as he has, then Foster had the United States Senatorship in view, which Garfield will give up if he is elected President.
In the caucus on the nomination for Vice-President, during the recess of the Senate, the Ohio delegation mentioned Washburn, Gen. Washburn immediately notified them that if Washburn was nominated the ticket should not receive the electoral vote of Illinois. Grant's friends all were bitterly denunciatory of Washburn to-day. They say Washburn's treachery is undoubted. But for their conviction that Washburn had been playing an underhand game, his nomination yesterday would have been entirely within the range of probability, for when the break occurred there would have been no difficulty, had the leaders been so disposed, in giving him the Grant vote.
Mr. Seymour's Vice-Presidential Presidency.
New York Herald, Independent.
In political circles just now the interesting question is, Whom will the Democrats nominate at Cincinnati? Fortunately for the country that party has a large number of eminent and distinguished statesmen, and a well selected standard bearer, so that unless it is wilfully blind, or its voice is stifled by the machine politicians, it cannot fail to make a good nomination. Among the three or four gentlemen who the nomination seeks—Mr. B. H. Meyer, those who are seeking the nomination—Mr. Seymour. Thousands of Democrats in all parts of the country who have the welfare of the Republic and of their party at heart are looking toward the Democratic ticket, in the hope that it may be chosen to head the Democratic column in the coming struggle. A dispatch from Syracuse on another page seems to indicate that, notwithstanding his well known disinclination to again enter the political arena, Mr. Seymour, if he were commanded by his party to take the field, not hesitate to do so. Mr. Seymour, it will be seen, has no sort of doubt that he could carry New York, which is the real battle ground in the next presidential election. The party that carries it is responsible to certain to carry the country. If Cincinnati should reverse the order of the States on the ticket nominated at Chicago, giving the first place to the Empire State and the second to Ohio, it would lend an additional interest and excitement to the November struggle.

THE PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN.
How the Chicago Nominations are Received—Soreness of the Grant Men—The Vice-Presidential Candidates—The Narrow Escape from Nomination.
Special Dispatch to the Baltimore Sun.
CHICAGO, June 9.—A very noticeable fact, to which attention has been repeatedly called to-day, is the absence of any spirited expression of satisfaction on the part of the Grant men, in connection with the nomination of Grant and Hayes. The men who were present at the convention, and who were so anxious to see Grant elected, are now silent. The majority of the delegates are still here, and have mainly engaged in discussing the nomination. Grant and anti-Grant all say they will vote for the ticket, but with the former electors the feeling is not one of enthusiasm. Senator Conkling, in his speech seconding the nomination, yesterday, indicated that harmony and unity would be restored, but such is not the case. The Grant men are sore over the result, and take a melancholy pleasure in talking over their grievances. It is of course great satisfaction to Senator Conkling that the men who had been fighting him so tenaciously came in the hour of victory to put at his disposal the second place on the ticket, and in the face of his haughty refusal to accept selected his near personal friend. But this will not placate him.
The vice-presidency, as every one knows, is considered the fifth wheel on the carriage, and the temper exhibited by the New Yorkers of the Grant wing, it is not thought that they will make any more of a sincere effort to carry New York than had Blaine been nominated. Senator Conkling, who was the majority of the convention were elected with the understanding that they should vote for Grant, and that Grant was defrauded of the nomination by putting into the convention men who were not elected, and by others violating their pledged honor.
George Gorham said to-day, in the presence of twenty or thirty delegates and others, that the bolters in New York and Pennsylvania have been bound and gagged, and that if they tried it, Don Cameron stalked around, said little, and when asked if the nomination was a strong one, smiled a ghastly smile. Privately, many of the Grant leaders say they have no doubt at all of the defeat of the ticket.
Sherman's friends are rather down in the mouth to-day, and regret that they were in such a hurry to go over to Garfield. It has just transpired that a combination had been formed whereby the ticket would be carried by the vote from Pennsylvania, with respectable additions from elsewhere, was to be transferred to Sherman with the Massachusetts vote. This would have given about 170, and in all probability the next ballot would have nominated him. There is no question that both Gov. Foster and Gen. Garfield were recently working for themselves. Foster had two prizes to strive for, first the nomination for President, and if he failed in that and Garfield won, as he has, then Foster had the United States Senatorship in view, which Garfield will give up if he is elected President.
In the caucus on the nomination for Vice-President, during the recess of the Senate, the Ohio delegation mentioned Washburn, Gen. Washburn immediately notified them that if Washburn was nominated the ticket should not receive the electoral vote of Illinois. Grant's friends all were bitterly denunciatory of Washburn to-day. They say Washburn's treachery is undoubted. But for their conviction that Washburn had been playing an underhand game, his nomination yesterday would have been entirely within the range of probability, for when the break occurred there would have been no difficulty, had the leaders been so disposed, in giving him the Grant vote.
Mr. Seymour's Vice-Presidential Presidency.
New York Herald, Independent.
In political circles just now the interesting question is, Whom will the Democrats nominate at Cincinnati? Fortunately for the country that party has a large number of eminent and distinguished statesmen, and a well selected standard bearer, so that unless it is wilfully blind, or its voice is stifled by the machine politicians, it cannot fail to make a good nomination. Among the three or four gentlemen who the nomination seeks—Mr. B. H. Meyer, those who are seeking the nomination—Mr. Seymour. Thousands of Democrats in all parts of the country who have the welfare of the Republic and of their party at heart are looking toward the Democratic ticket, in the hope that it may be chosen to head the Democratic column in the coming struggle. A dispatch from Syracuse on another page seems to indicate that, notwithstanding his well known disinclination to again enter the political arena, Mr. Seymour, if he were commanded by his party to take the field, not hesitate to do so. Mr. Seymour, it will be seen, has no sort of doubt that he could carry New York, which is the real battle ground in the next presidential election. The party that carries it is responsible to certain to carry the country. If Cincinnati should reverse the order of the States on the ticket nominated at Chicago, giving the first place to the Empire State and the second to Ohio, it would lend an additional interest and excitement to the November struggle.

THE PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN.
How the Chicago Nominations are Received—Soreness of the Grant Men—The Vice-Presidential Candidates—The Narrow Escape from Nomination.
Special Dispatch to the Baltimore Sun.
CHICAGO, June 9.—A very noticeable fact, to which attention has been repeatedly called to-day, is the absence of any spirited expression of satisfaction on the part of the Grant men, in connection with the nomination of Grant and Hayes. The men who were present at the convention, and who were so anxious to see Grant elected, are now silent. The majority of the delegates are still here, and have mainly engaged in discussing the nomination. Grant and anti-Grant all say they will vote for the ticket, but with the former electors the feeling is not one of enthusiasm. Senator Conkling, in his speech seconding the nomination, yesterday, indicated that harmony and unity would be restored, but such is not the case. The Grant men are sore over the result, and take a melancholy pleasure in talking over their grievances. It is of course great satisfaction to Senator Conkling that the men who had been fighting him so tenaciously came in the hour of victory to put at his disposal the second place on the ticket, and in the face of his haughty refusal to accept selected his near personal friend. But this will not placate him.
The vice-presidency, as every one knows, is considered the fifth wheel on the carriage, and the temper exhibited by the New Yorkers of the Grant wing, it is not thought that they will make any more of a sincere effort to carry New York than had Blaine been nominated. Senator Conkling, who was the majority of the convention were elected with the understanding that they should vote for Grant, and that Grant was defrauded of the nomination by putting into the convention men who were not elected, and by others violating their pledged honor.
George Gorham said to-day, in the presence of twenty or thirty delegates and others, that the bolters in New York and Pennsylvania have been bound and gagged, and that if they tried it, Don Cameron stalked around, said little, and when asked if the nomination was a strong one, smiled a ghastly smile. Privately, many of the Grant leaders say they have no doubt at all of the defeat of the ticket.
Sherman's friends are rather down in the mouth to-day, and regret that they were in such a hurry to go over to Garfield. It has just transpired that a combination had been formed whereby the ticket would be carried by the vote from Pennsylvania, with respectable additions from elsewhere, was to be transferred to Sherman with the Massachusetts vote. This would have given about 170, and in all probability the next ballot would have nominated him. There is no question that both Gov. Foster and Gen. Garfield were recently working for themselves. Foster had two prizes to strive for, first the nomination for President, and if he failed in that and Garfield won, as he has, then Foster had the United States Senatorship in view, which Garfield will give up if he is elected President.
In the caucus on the nomination for Vice-President, during the recess of the Senate, the Ohio delegation mentioned Washburn, Gen. Washburn immediately notified them that if Washburn was nominated the ticket should not receive the electoral vote of Illinois. Grant's friends all were bitterly denunciatory of Washburn to-day. They say Washburn's treachery is undoubted. But for their conviction that Washburn had been playing an underhand game, his nomination yesterday would have been entirely within the range of probability, for when the break occurred there would have been no difficulty, had the leaders been so disposed, in giving him the Grant vote.
Mr. Seymour's Vice-Presidential Presidency.
New York Herald, Independent.
In political circles just now the interesting question is, Whom will the Democrats nominate at Cincinnati? Fortunately for the country that party has a large number of eminent and distinguished statesmen, and a well selected standard bearer, so that unless it is wilfully blind, or its voice is stifled by the machine politicians, it cannot fail to make a good nomination. Among the three or four gentlemen who the nomination seeks—Mr. B. H. Meyer, those who are seeking the nomination—Mr. Seymour. Thousands of Democrats in all parts of the country who have the welfare of the Republic and of their party at heart are looking toward the Democratic ticket, in the hope that it may be chosen to head the Democratic column in the coming struggle. A dispatch from Syracuse on another page seems to