RO. D. GRAHAM,

HON. JEFFERSON DAVIS. OF THE CONFEDERACY IN THE DORSEY SUIT.

Mrs. Dorsey, General Early Thinks, -Mr. Davis Agitated While Talking of the Dead Confederacy. New Orleans Times, 18th.

Yesterday, Hon. Jefferson Davis, Gen. Jubal A. Early, and Mr. I. U. Payne, appeared in the Second District Court, in answer to a summons issued to that effect, to give their testimony in the matter of the succession of Sarah A. Dorsey, in order that it may be preserved in perpetuam rei memoriams. Hon. Jefferson Davis filed a petition some time ago setting forth that he had govern to four that Stampan Perce Ellig cause to fear that Stephen Percy Ellis, Mortimer Dablgren, and Inez Ruth Ellis Peckham, intended to attack the last testament of Sarah A. Dersey, de-ceased, on the following grounds:

First, That the testatrix was not of sound and disposing mind when she made said will. Second, That she was at the time of making said will under undue influence of petitioner. Third. about the charges published. I think That the motive inducing her to make said will was illegal and contrary to entirely alienated before the former's public policy.
At 11 o'clock yesterday the depositions of the witnesses began—Messrs. E. H. Farrar and C. L. Walker for plaintiff, and W. R. Mills for defen-JEFFERSON DAVIS CALLED AND SWORN.

By Mr. C. L. Walker: "I am Mrs. Dorsey's legatee. I reside in Harrison county, Miss., at Beauvoir. I met Mrs. Dorsey when she was a little girl, about 1845, in Natchez. With intervals our intercourse has been continuous since that time. I knew her father and her maternal grandfather very well. knew her husband. Mr. Dorsey's plantation and mine were on opposite sides of the river. I had been interested in this part of the country from 1835.

Mrs. Dorsey's ancestors by the maternal side were the pioneers of the country on St. George Lake.

By Mr. Farrar: "I went to live at the country of the country from 1835.

would be better on the seashore. Mrs. Dorsey heard of my intentions, and she invited me to come to Beauvoir. I told her that I would not stay at her house without compensating her. I rented a cottage from her at $50 per month.

Mrs. Dorsey acted as my amanuensis, on hearing that writing was painful to me; this continued until the return of my wife from Europe. I became the owner of Beauvoir in January, 1878.
"Mrs. Dorsey had a desire to go to Europe, She proposed to me to take all of her property and furnish her with enough money to pay her expenses abroad. On her leaving for New Or-leans she sold Beauvior to me, and 1 gave my notes to her in payment. A supplemental deed was attached to the original transfer, as there had been no mention made of a vineyard on the ground. Mrs. Dorsey only lived a short time Beauvoir after I bought it. I held a power of attorney from her; she was very much embarrassed in business affairs, and I think was "VICTIMIZED IN BUSINESS TRANSAC-TIONS in Tensas parish. "She asked me to act as her attorney and put the request on the ground of friendship, which I could not resist. I acted under that mandate when Mrs.

Dorsey was unable to attend to her business. Was never in Tensas parish Mrs. Dorsey came to New Orleans in 1879 for advice and for the benefit of her health. The troubles in Tensas parish arose from the fact that she had leased certain property there; had taken notes for the rent, and several of them had been protested for non-payment. I never received any money under the power of attorney.

"Mrs. Dorsey had the most brilliant of intellects, a quick perception and a great knowledge of languages and the natural sciences. She wrote fluently and well. As an amanuensis she put down things as they were said. Her mind was well balanced and under her own control. These reports about my using undue influences with her are a bundle of enormous falsehoods—this was said with great vehemence and in an agitated manner-false as to her, false to me, and false in every particular, She was an independent woman; lar, She was an independent woman; if I had been seeking for bequests, I could have gotten them for large amounts. I stopped subscriptions gotten up for my benefit in Mississippi, Texas and Georgia. I have but little left, but among my possessions is independence of character.

"I never talked to Mrs. Dorsey about MAKING HER WILL. I never knew about her will; I did not know that I was her legatee; I first learned that she had made her will when she came to New Orleans. She when she came to New Orleans. She said, 'I shall expect you as my friend to see that my wishes are faithfully carried out.' I promised, I afterwards wrote to her to ask for instructions to carry out her will. She replied when near her end, She left instructions with Mr. Payne, and he gave them to me after the return of the party who had taken her remains to Natches. When the will was probated I then for the first time knew of its contents.

"Mrs. Dorsey was perfectly well acquainted with my private affairs, She knew that unless I recovered my property, then under litigation, I would lose

erty, then under litigation, I would lose everything. She knew more about my public eareer than I did myself, I never tried to be the hero of my own stories-never told her about my career. We used to talk a great deal about matters. We differed on many points; she always got the best of the argument. There was nothing of obstinacy about

"I know A. Mortimer Dahlgren; met him at Beauvoir. He stayed there un-til Mrs. Dorsey came to New Orleans. When he first came to Beauvoir he showed a disposition to attend to local affairs. He took charge of the newspaper at Handsboro', which was afterwards removed to Pass Christian. As his own affairs improved his interests in his sister's affairs decreased. He was the youngest child of the family, and his sister (Mrs. Dorsey) took great interest in him. He was ungrateful to her. He asked me for a general letter of introduction. I did not give it then, and not until it was asked for by Mrs. Dorsey. I extended an invitation to him to remain at Beauveir.

"Mrs. Dorsey never spoke to me except kindly of her relation. She had a great deal of pride, and she disliked to speak ill of anybody. There was a difficulty between her and Dahlgren. They were reconciled, however, at my solicitation. showed a disposition to attend to local frequently read the Episcopal Church service on Sundays. She was baptized a Roman Catholic because her faith was one. When she came of age she became an Episcopalian. At her last moments her friends wanted to send for a priest but she asked for Dr. Kramer, of Christ church. He and Dr. Leacock came. Mrs. Dorsey was an Episcopalian, I think

"IN REGARD TO HER RELIGIOUS DEand the adoption of the Aryan philoso-phy, I talked frequently to her. We.

"I never noticed instability of opinion "I never noticed instability of opinion in Mrs. Dorsey; never noticed any tendency to vacillation. Her father was a good Democrat, and she died one. She did not beleive that the Confederacy was still in existence, but its truths were eternal and would prevail. I believe so too—if that's insanity, both of us were crazy! [Spoken with vehemence.] I think she was up to the highest standard of enthusiasm on that subest standard of enthusiasm on that subject. I talked to her about the surgical operation. Dr. Choppin said it would require a minute examination to decide whether the operation was necessary. I was opposed to

"I don't think she beleived that the operation would terminate fatally. She was encouraged to believe that it would cure her. The cancer was in her breast. I had reason to think that she would survive me. If our cases had beed re-versed I would have done for her what she has done for me. I knew nothing death. When Mrs. Dorsey was dying she asked me to give her sister Inez money to buy then her voice failed.

I asked her if she ment mourning, and she nodded her head in assent.

she said later. Mrs. Prentiss, who was present, said: 'Give her your love.' Mrs. Dorsey's bright eyes flashed fire, but she spoke not.

"I never saw Mrs. Peckham and Mrs. Dorsey much together. Mrs. Dorsey had a good temper; when people quarreled with her she let them go, and when they recovered she received them cordially. I never tried to alienate Mrs. Dorsey's affections from her relations. Mrs. Dorsey once promised to give Dahlgren a piece of land in Ar-kansas, but he woul not go there; in lieu he took money from her. She was om-Beauvoir, I think, in 1876. My wife niverous after knowledge. I never gave reports have gotten out, for I have received volumes of letters asking for assistance. Beauvoir was bought by Mrs. Dorsey for $3,500; very few improvements have been made on it since.

By Mr. Mills: "I never saw Mrs. Dorsey during the war. Was not acquainted with the family of General Dahlgren, Mrs. Peckham made an attack on me and wanted me to leave Beauvoir. She told me that remarks were going about of my staying there, and showed me a letter wherein it was stated that my presence there had given rise to a great many unpleasant remarks. I think that she instigated the author of the letter to write what I read. I answered her in such a manner as led me to expect a visit from her male relatives, which has not occurred yet.

"I am seventy-two years old, and was born in Todd county, Ky." The testimony was here closed.
