the voters of this goodly land. Fellow-Democrats! gird on your armor for the final centest, and let us make the finale sharp, short, quick and decisive. Victory is just before us, and "There's life in the old land yet."

REPUBLICAN APATHY.

It cannot be denied that there is a very large and respectable portion of the Republican party, who will shed no tears over the election of Gen. Hancock to the presidency. It is true they are not actuated in this by any love of the Democracy, but rather because they think a temporary success of the Democrats is necessary in order to secure the subsequent triumph of the Republicans. This is not always put in exact language. About as near as these disaffected Republicans come to it is in discussing the nomination of Garfield. A subordinate Grant officer in the late fight at Chicago said to a correspondent of the Chicago Times last Saturday:

"Perhaps our defeat at Chicago was all for the best." "In what way?" "Mind I do not say that I prefer the existing order of things, but I am pretty well convinced that we (meaning the Grant people) are certain to come out ahead in the end. You see in 1884 Grant will only be 62, and, with his good health and temperate life, he is good for twenty years after that. Now I am convinced that Garfield cannot be elected. Four years' rule of the Con-federate brigadiers will, I am sure, convince the country that the factional opposition to Grant was a mistake, so that a universal demand will go up for his restoration to the executive chair."

This is the inspiration that affects the Grant men, and while none of them will actively fight Garfield upon the surface, it is certain that the Republicans who think as they do will not be very active in their support, and will not let an opportunity pass for administering an underhanded blow. Practically the majority of aid offered to correspondents in searching for Garfield's past record come from Republican sources.

Conkling, Cameron and Logan have suffered a humiliating defeat inside their own party, and if the Democrats win, as win they will, these leaders will at once assume an importance which they never could hope to do with the election of Garfield. They will say at once that if Grant had been nominated he would have been elected, and the party will turn to them for aid in getting out of the slough of defeat. The election of Garfield means that the convention was right and they were wrong. The defeat of Garfield means that they were right and the party was wrong.

Another large class are the men who supported Blaine, in the late Chicago convention, but who were as signally party has had an organization as such, defeated there. They are naturally with finer prospects of victory, and the nominee with the enthusiasm which prehensions are entertained at the Britwith a greater determination to merit | would have been given to their chief.

Both of these large factions within ing questions likely to prove impedi- the Republican party, while they will ments in the way have been carefully not dare to fight Garfield openly, will secretly rejoice in his defeat.

Then again there is a very large class of the independent vote which is Republican generally, and it will go to our ticket, because it is the best of the two. Does anybody blame us for being encratic party claims to be and is verily thusiastic when we can almost stretch out our hands to victory? Does any by the people and for the people, and if body blame us for feeling good, when financial questions arise when it the Republicans feel so bad, and look

Revenue officers of Democratic proclivities, had better not go over to the enemy too fast. They might regret it before the year is out. The old adage that "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush" is not always true. Selah. The Velcano of the Florida Swamp,

On Sunday night, a week ago, a large, bright light was seen in a south-easterly direction from this city, which attracted the attention of many of our citizens at first, but concluding that it was a house on fire, they thought but little more of the matter until the light reappeared several succeeding nights in the same place, and put them to thinking again. It is much brighter some nights than others—sometimes having the appearance of the moon rising, but generally much brighter, and looking generally much brighter, and looking more like a large fire shooting its flaming tongue high up into the upper realms, frequently reflected back by the clouds. During the past week we have conversed with several parties living in that direction, all of whom had noticed the light, and located it in the great swamp south-east of here, on the Gulf coast, and about the same spot from whence the much-talked-of column of black smoke has been seen to issue for years, supposed to be a volcano, which no living man has ever been able to reach, from the fact of its being surrounded by an impenetrable swamp. We were told last Tuesday by a gentleman living in Wakula county, near this noted swamp, that the light had created much excitement in this neighbor-hood, as a loud, rumbling neise was frequently heard in the direction of it during the week. The noise was said to be so leud Thursday, about mid-night, as to arouse the sleeping family of Mr. Frank Duggle, and cause them to get up and run out doors, thinking another earthquake was on hand.

London, June 28 .- A Cabul dispatch reports that the answer to the British ultimatum has been received from Abdurrahman Khan. Its tenor, it said, expresses wise doubts in regard to the Khan's sincerity.

The Standard says it is understood that after a somewhat excited meeting of the cabinet, a resolution was adopted to support Labourche's motion to rescind the vote of the House regarding Bradlaugh's motion. #### That Tarboro Riot. Raleigh Observer.

On Friday, the 18th inst., we published the news of a riot in Tarboro, and of the killing of one McCabe. We were shown a telegram on the night of the State convention which conveyed the information. The last issue of the Tarboro Southerner says the telegram was bogus. The papers of the State generally published the report of the affair as it first came. The Southerner says that on the Thursday the State is concise enough to suit the hardest of to light, because somebody's deeds are convention was in session, A. McCabe and Dr. Duggan, of Tarboro, had a street fight, or rather a mere skirmish. In order to get off a joke on the Edgecombe delegates at the convention, some parties concocted the highly sensational telegram which was received, stating that a terrible riot was in proress there, signed the name of Capt. S.S. Nash to it, and sent it to one of the delegates. Of course there was excitement among the delegation, and telegrams were sent to Tarboro. One of them read: "Are the women and children safe?" Another: "Shall we get a special train and return at once?" Answers were immediately returned, to the effect that all was quiet, nothing well said we got our choice in both instances. So much for political sagacity.

Bad boys need not go West in order to find adventure, commit crime and swing into the next world from a gallows tree. Two Chicago boys, aged respectively seventeen and nineteen years, started a year ago for the East in search of adventure, and they found it before half way here by killing an old man for his money. Then, instead of be-coming tremendous fellows among hard characters, as boys in books al-ways do when they have killed their man, they spent a year in jail, and yes-terday were strangled on the gallows. He began his business career by stealing, and when a companion threatened to tell he shot him. No member of the trio was old enough to be trusted away from apron strings, and other boys who are panting to distinguish themselves in blood and thunder style would do well to take the hint. An apron string in a boy's buttonhole is not half so annoying as a stout rope around his neck, and when finally untied it leaves him for something better than to horrify newspaper readers and feed the worms.

American Clocks in China, United States at Shanghai, in a recent dispatch informs the department of state that an American manufacturing company has met with remarkable success in the introduction of their clocks in China . They sent out an agent wit 400 or 500 cases of sample clocks, running six and twelve to the case, to establish a house at Shanghai, and within four days after he opened his sample rooms he had disposed of every one. The agent informed Mr. Denny that in the same time he could have sold at least 1,500 or 1,600 cases. Mr. Denny thinks that a large field is now open to American manufacturers in this particular article, and that with an earnest endeavor on their part to meet the wants of the Chinese market they can control the trade.

How Much to Show.

The doctor has proved superior to the sovereign for once. The queen of Great Britain requires all lady vocalists taking part in state concerts to appear in low-necked dresses. Mrs. Osgood was appointed to sing at one of these concerts lately. She is under orders from her physician never to bare her neck and shoulders to draughts. The queen so far departed from her rule as to permit the singer to disguise her neck in flesh-colored silk and tulle. The lilusion satisfied her majesty and maintained the authority of the subject.

Sylvanus Cobb thus writes in the Boston Christian Freeman:—We would by no means recommend any kind of medicine which we did not know to be good—particularly for infants. But of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup we can speak from knowledge; in our own family it has proved a blessing indeed, by giving an infant troubled with colic pains, quiet sleep, and its parents unknown rest at night. Most parents can appreciate these blessings. Here is an article which works to perfection, and which is harmless: for the sleep which it affords the infant is perfectly natural, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button."
