Not dance?

Not dance? Just take her hand in yours in an easy, friendly way,

And glide along, with noiseless feet,

At the closing bour of day.

Just let a soft-tress of her hair

Blow lightly o'er your cheek,

With the words you cannot speak. With the words you cannot speak.

Not dance? Why every hour is worth

Its weight in solid gold.

Each steples freighted with the joy Of a happiness untold!
Why speak of dancing as a sin,
Because of Fland's daughter?

"Yes," said the witness. "I remember the defendant's mother crying on the occasion referred to. She was weeping with her left eye—the only one she has—and the tears were running down her right cheek." "What," exclaimed the judge. "how could that be?" "Please your honor," said the witness, "she was awfully cross-eyed."

As he lay on a very awkward and uncomfortable set with hard straw mattress he able cot, with hard straw mattress, he wore a thin alpaca coat, black pantaloons, white stockings, which hung in loose folds about his ankles, and a pair of dollar-and-a-half embroidered slipof dollar-and-a-half embroidered slippers. He makes no attempt at dress parade, but looks like a man who means business from beginning to end, and who is determined to succeed. At first he appeared weary and languid, as if he wanted to sleep and could not. Presently somebody spoke to him, and his eyes brightened up and showed a wideawake man. His gargling of mouth and throat with cold water was done several times in presence of the audience. One of the attendants carefully measured out four ounces of water. This Dr. out four ounces of water. This Dr. Tanner returned to a bowl after using it, thus showing that he had not swallowed any. The statement has gone out that he refrains from swallowing water because if he did so without eating

WHO IS DR. TANNEH?

The Man Who Expects to Fast Forty Days.

Dr. H. S. Tanner is an Englishman by birth, and came to this country when seventeen years old. He is a well-preserved specimen of nervous-sanguine man, with excessively strong will-power. He has iron-gray hair and sharp features, and looks much more like a yankee than an Englishman. Before were inscribed, respectively, "The Peters Prize," "The Price Prize," "The Venable Prize," "The Vance Prize." Wilmington Review: Mr. B. G. Worth, president of the Duplin Canal nal works for the past two days, and says below Shelter and the first tide creek, where the sluiceway has been enlarged the water is doing great execution. In one week's time Major Young hopes to have the sluice way between the little tide creek and the river so enlarged that it will carry a large and rapid current. By the time the work reaches Meeks' he thinks that he will be able to convince the public that the first litten miles of the canal can be constructed for $10,000, his original estimate.

Newbern Nut Shell: During one of the thunder storms which visited this section last week, lightning struck the house of Major Edward Whitford, who is the near Swift Creek, and for a wile made things shiver. The shaft came down the chimney, completely demolishing that and tearing off a side of the house, entered a lower room.

ter because if he did so without eating food it would disintegrate the lining of threat and stomach. Such a statement, being sheer nonsense, was made by somebody who knew nothing of the subject. The reason the deeter refrains from taking water is that the test may be all the more severe. After awhile it was announced that a lady was in the hall who would play on the piano. This was pleasing intelligence, for the exhibition was becoming monotoneus to the spectators, and must have been more so to the faster himself. Tell her I want
