Every mention of Ransom's name at the Wilmington mass meeting raised a howl. North Carolina, rich in gifted sons, boasts but one Ransom.

Who presented editor Haines with that bunch of sour grapes? The complacent old gentleman is mightily perturbed about something or other.

It would add something to the humor of the campaign here if the Republicans would undertake to demonstrate that they were not completely annihilated at the outset. Where is Buxton anyway?

miliating spectacle.

During the 45th and 46th Congresses the Democratic House of Representatives attempted to reduce the public expenditures $146,597,591.11. We will produce the records of Congress to sustain the assertion if it is denied.

Editor Haines comes to the defence of Prof. W. C. Kerr.

Editor H. also defends Garfield's Credit Mobilier record.

And editor H. is an honorable man. "They are all honorable men."

Thos. S. Tucker, Esq., and Dr. Tyre York will represent the counties of Iredell, Wilkes and Alexander in the next Senate. Excellent nominations in every respect. We accept such nominations as an earnest of intelligent and practical legislation for the State.

In four years of Democratic rule-1875, 1876, 1877, 1878-compared with the preceding four years of Republirule, the public expenditures were cut down one HUNDRED AND THIRTEEN MILLION DOLLARS. Reference to the official records of Congress, elsewhere printed this morning, establishes the truth of this statement.

The North Carolina Ananias who supplies the depraved appetite of the Northern press with criminal sensations has finally exhausted the reservoir of his intellect. His last was a feeble story about a fat lady who hugged her sister-in-law in a spasm of leave-taking until she broke one of her ribs and deflected the dorsal column.

After all the bluster it is extremely doubtful whether there will be a war between China and Russia. Chung How the Celestial Embassador who assisted the swindle known as the Kuldja treaty, has been released by the Chinese authorities and a better understanding is growing up between the powers.

The nomination of Hon. R. T. Bennett in the fourth judicial district will give cartage to interior towns, which the greatest possible satisfaction. Col. amounts in all to some $7 per bale. Bennett was not a candidate for the nomination, as we think was eminently ing a good deal of leaf and sand, which there is no real foundation. There are no arms or ammunition at Jefferson ville depot, and if such force as proper, and it was therefore unexpected. is computed at 6 per cent. of the entire is referred to can be raised for rebellious His acceptance, which has already been signified, will necessitate the convening of the congressional committee of this district and the election of a district elector. If eminent legal attainments, robust honesty and modest demeanor are factors in the "make up" of judicial character, Judge Bennett has an illustrious career ahead of him. We lose an almost invaluable help in the district canvass, but our loss is the State' gain. We are content.

THE CHARLOTTE OBSERVER is doubtless correct in its assumption that the Raleigh Observer did not have Mecklenburg's population right. We used the figures furnished us by the supervisor, and printed by us August 10—42,967. This gave Mecklenburg three members, and a surplus as stated, of 8,004. On examination, we find the population of that county stated elsewhere to be 84,110. This would give Mecklenburg two members per se, and a surplus of 7,528, which entitles her to an additional member. She will, therefore, have, as we stated on Sunday, three members under the next apportionment. THE CHARLOTTE OBSERVER is doubt-

A GROSS FABRICATION EXPOSED.

The Treasury Department has recent y published a statement showing the amount of the annual appropriations made by Congress for each fiscal year from 1873 to 1881, inclusive. A comparison of the amounts appropriated in 1880 and 1881 by the Democrats in the appropriations. The appropriations made in the years 1873-4-5 were in each case less than those made by the Democrats in 1880-81. The Democratic appropriations of 1880 exceed the Republican appropriations of 1873 by $28,000,-600, these of 1874 by $9,000,000, and those of 1875 by $25,000,000. The Democratic appropriations of 1881 exceed the Republican appropriations of 1873 by $20,000,000, and those of 1875 by $17,-000,000,—Statesville American.

Did the American expect this gross and palpable fabrication to escape notice? It is difficult to account for its publication upon any other hypothesis. Economy in public expenditures has always been a cardinal principle of the Democratic party, and with all his partizan blindness the editor of the American must know it to be so.

The great effort of the Democratic party since its accession to power has been to restore the government to that economy in its administration which prevailed before the era of Republican corruption and wasteful extravagance. How it has succeeded we now propose adduced are taken from the official records of Congress—not from a partizan decument preserved in the control of the control o document prepared in the office of the that not only was an order made but

Secretary of the Treasury. The actual net ordinary expenditures, exclusive of the public debt, principal, premiums and interest, and exclusive also of pensions appropriated for by the Forty-third Congress and the Fortyfourth Congress, are as follows:

Republican Forty-third Congress. 1876..... 136,600,417 67

Total...... $278,674,049 72 Forty-fourth Congress, Democratic House. 1878 107,326,433 07

Total......$223,572,644 08 Here, then, we have stated for each fiscal year the actual net ordinary expenditures for the years 1875 and 1876 under the appropriations made by a Tom Cooper-the boss distiller, and Republican Congress, against which we the boss of the Republican party-has place the expenditures for the same ordered Brigadier-General Rufus Bar- purposes for the years 1877 and 1878, ringer to make a speech at Iron Station | under the influence of a Democratic on the 10th of September. It is a hu- House, showing an actual saving of $55,101,404.64, made under the greatest difficulties placed in the way of retrenchment by a Republican Senate and a Republican administration.

Now let us compare the expenditures appropriated for by the Forty-second Congress, Republican in both branches, and the Forty-fifth Congress, when the House was Democratic: The actual net ordinary expenditures, exclusive of the public debt, principal, premiums and interest, and exclusive also of pensions, appropriated for by the Fortysecond and Forty-fifth Congresses, are as follows: Republican Forty-second Congress. 1873.....$151,129,210 04 1874..... 165,080,570 34

Forty-fifth Congress, Democratic House. 1880..... 131,994,037 17

Total $258,492,489 31 This exhibits a decrease of fifty-seven millions seven hundred and seventeen thousand dollars in round numbers, or to be exact, of $57,717,291.07,

Taking the saving effected by the Democratic Houses of the Forty-fourth and Forty-fifth Congresses over the expenditures of the Forty-second and Forty-third Congresses, when both them together, the total exhibits a saving of one hundred and thirteen millions of dollars in round numbers (or, to be exact, of $112,818,695.71), in the four years, 1877, 1878, 1879 and 1880, as compared with the previous four years, 1873, 1874, 1875 and 1876.

Here we rest our case for the present, and challenge the American to impeach the mute witnesses who so completely wanton corruption and extravagance.

The South looms up as the inheritor this would be that the government of an immense industrial wealth. The would have the pleasure of killing off abandonment of cotton manufacturing the Utes a year or two sooner than if in the Northern States is only a matter the compact was carried out. That's of time. It is inevitable. The reasons are briefly summarized by the Manufacturing & Industrial Gazette, published at Springfield, Mass.:

The Southern factories have the advantage of better location, and when they have secured new and improved machinery will do an unrivaled busi-They can save freight, buy cheaper and hire cheaper labor. They shipping, marine risks, and freight and cotton crop. The difference between the cost of a bale sent to Fall Biver, Mass., and a bale sent to Columbus, Ga., is $8 06, the former costing $51 71 and the latter $43 65." This makes a tax of 18 per cent. which Fall River pays in competing with Columbus. It is esti-mated that if the planters could manufacture their cotton near home they would save $50,000,000 in transportation. A prominent manufacturer in Mississippi says that that State can manufacture cotton at a cost of from 15 to 20 per cent. cheaper than it can be made in New England. In Georgia new mills are exempt from taxation for ten years, and this exemption is extending into other States. The water power of the manufacturing sections of the South is very fine, and the hours of labor are longer in the course of a year, while the saving of heat and light is considerable. As yet the South manufactures only coarser goods, yarns, ducks, unbleached muslins, sheetings, shirtings, osnaburgs, jeans, &c., but the time is not distant when it will come to make prints also, cambrics, laces, and all the finer qualities of staple goods. tion. SHERMAN-HANCOCK LETTERS.]

Sherman's Letter to Hancock-Startling Disclosures. New York, August 26.—The "Life of General Hancock," published to-day by D. Appleton & Co., contains his correspondence with Gen. Sherman, of Deamounts appropriated in 1873-4-5 by the Republicans, shows how little foundation there is for the assertion so often made by the Democrats, that they have been economical by reducing the appropriations. The appropriations (the only ones) to politically the control of the only ones) to politically appropriations. cal affairs. Referring to orders sent by the President to Gen. Ruger, command-ing the department of the South, Gen. Sherman said: "Political orders to Ruger at Columbia I prefer should go from the President, to him through the Secretary of War. They were not military, and I dislike much to have our soldiers used in concert with a legislative body, but orders coming from the President have to be obeyed. They form a bad precedent, but thus far have prevented a collision of arms between inflamed partisans." The letter from Gen. Hancock (not included in the published correspondence) expresses some uneasiness on account of newspaper reports which he had seen, stating that he was to be ordered from New York, and appears to have furnished occasion for the following letter from Sherman:

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF U.S., WASHINGTON, Dec. 17, 1876. MAJOR-GENERAL: Lest your peace of mind may be disturbed by the foolish report bandied in the newspapers about your being ordered from New York, I will tell you that there is not a word of truth in it.

that I destroyed it and tore out leaves of the letter-book containing it. The whole thing was and is an utter fabrication? I wanted to create a sensasion. The same is true about John Sherman's intriguing to be President of the Senate that he might be President ad interum. He has told me that he has never heard the subject broached. That he would not accept the place as he preferred to be (what he is nowchairman of the Senate committee on finance. The letter concludes, No serious changes in command are being contemplated and when they are, you may be sure that I will give you the earliest notice. Truly, your friend, W. T. SHERMAN. [Signed] This letter is followed by the Corondelet letter, to which Gen. Sherman replied as follows:

HEADQUARTERS OF U. S. ARMY Washington, D. C., Jan. 27, '77. GEN. HANCOCK: Dear General:did not receive your most welcome letter of December 28th, from Corondelet, Mo., till yesterday. I am very glad to have your views in extenso upon a subject of such vital importance. Our standard opinions are mostly formed on the practice of our predecessors. But a great change was made after the close of the civil war by the amendments to the constitution, giving to the freed slaves certain civil and protective political rights, and empowerng Congress to make laws necessary to enforce these rights. This power is new and absolute, and Congress has enacted laws with which we are not yet familiar and accustomed. See pages 348-49 and 350, Revised Statues, section 1,989, edition 1873-74.

As a matter of fact, I dislike to have our army used in these civil conflicts. but the President has the lawful right to use the army and navy, and has exercised the right as he believes lawfully and rightfully, and our duty has been, and is, to sustain him with zeal and sincerity. As to the presidential election, we are in no manner required to take the least action, but to recognize him as President, whom lawfully appointed officers declare to be such a person. I hope and pray that Congress will agree on some method before the day and hour arrives.

But in case of failure to do that by or before the 4th of March, there will be a vacancy in both offices of President and Vice-President, in which event the President of the Senate becomes President pro tempore, and a new election will have to be held under the law of 1892. See title 3, chapter 1, pages 21, 22 and 23 Revised Statutes. It is well we should compare notes and agree before the crisis is on us. But I surely branches were Republican, and adding hope we may pass this ordeal safely and peacefully. I will be pleased to hear from you at any time. W. T. SHERMAN. (Signed)

The next letter published is from Gen. Hancock to Gen. Sherman, dated New York, January 2. It is as follows: Gen. W. T. Sherman, U. S. Army, Washington, D. C.: GENERAL-An anonymous communication to the secretary of war, dated Louisville, Ky. December 16th, 76, reached my headquarters on the 27th of that month from convict that paper of a desperate fab-rication and the republican party of army. It represents a "contemplated army. It represents a "contemplated uprising of the people to enforce the inauguration of Tilden and Hendricks. The depot at Jeffersonville is to be seized and is expected to arm and clothe an Indiana army of Democrats.' The endorsement on this communication, made at United States headquar-ters, dated December 26th, '76, is as follows: "Official copy referred to Major-General W. S. Hancock, commanding of the Atlantic. May draw company from Gen. Ruger, commanding department of the South, and post at Jeffersonville Depot with orders to protect it against any dangers.

Terms of indorsement imply the exercise of discretion on my part, which leads me to write to you before taking save the "buyer's commission, ware-house delivery and cartage, sampling, danger of the kind the anonymous comhouse delivery and cartage, sampling, classing, pressing, shipping, discount on bills, loss of weight in sampling for mixed packages, fire insurance before ment of troops to that place. Such purposes, it is not likely that it would begin by seizing adepot of army uniforms and therefore if there are grounds for action of the government I see no danger in the delay which will result from this presentation of the subject to you. If, however, in your better judgment a company should be sent there it shall be promptly done as soon as you notify me to that effect, as I have already said I do not act at once because in your instructions you say I "may" send company there which I construe as leaving it somewhat discretionary with me. I returned on the 31st December 1876, from St. Louis. I am Very truly yours, (Signed) WINFIELD S. HANCOCK,

Major-General Commanding. On the 19th January, Gen. Hancock wrote to Gen. Sherman that he had been so busy that he had "not yet writ-ten as he intended." In reply to acknowledgement of his letter from Corondelet, he says:
I wished to notice simply four references to the Revised Statutes and one or two other points in a brief way. I will do so but not to-day as I am house den's chances were impregnable; not so with Mr. Hendricks. Now it seems to me that Gov. Hayes has something more than an equal chance, but definite results cannot be foreshadowed. Fortunately trouble need not be provided against by the use of the army should the bill become a law. If the bill passes and Gov. and Gen. Grant vetoes Mr. Tilden's chances it will be stronger than before, certa,nly, if he and his friends supported the measure, public opinion will strengthen his position. The danger in compromising the question on a joint commission plan is that the defeated candidate might appeal to the Supreme Court on grounds of illegal (unconstitutional) decisions. I am

(Signed) WINFIELD'S. HANCOCK. Gen. Sherman's correpondence as published is dated. Washington, D. C., January 29th. He says: "The general passage of the bill for counting the electoral vote, approved by the Presi-dent, ends, in my judgment, all possible danger of confusion or disorder in connection with the presidential imbroglio. I feel certain that the dual govern-ments in South Carolina and Louisiana will be decided by the same means, which determines who is to be the next President of the United States. Therefore with the consent and approval of the Secretary of War, now absent, I want to return the troops temporarily detached, as soon as possible to the post occupied before the election, with this exception, that twelve com-panies (now 13) or the equivalent of a regiment remain here in Washington The remainder of the letter relates to Everything Lovely in Indiana.

WASHINGTON, August 26 .- A gentleman who has close relations with the Democratic national committee, and who has been in New York for several weeks, reports that the private advices received from Indiana are all to the effect that the Democrats will undoubtedly carry the State. The national committee has been informed that Indiana would not call on the party outside of the State for any financial aid, and that the party in that State would perform the unparalleled feat of supplying all the money needed in the campaign. The same gentleman says it is considered as a matter of course that Mr. Hendricks will be a member of President Hancock's Cabinet.

The Brigand Reyes Escapes. SAN FRANCISCO, August 26 .- A dis-

Reyes, after a fight with Sheriff But-ners's posse, escaped to the Santa Reta Mountains. Captain Yrezetagena gives a long account of their raid in Sonora containing no new points of interest. He claims that their motive was not plunder, but the support of Gen. R Ramirez and the overthrow of the Diaz government.

In Westport there are already three clubs. and each has flung a banner to the breeze. Never before has Westport had more than one club. The Democratic vote has heretofore been about four hundred. This fall it will reach at least five hundred. The first club to organize was the Hancock Legion, of which ex-Senator Lees is President. It is composed of soldiers and young men, and was organized on the day of the nomination. The next was the Saugatuck Hancock and English Club. President, James Knox Polk (nephew of President Polk), and numbers about 125 members. Ohio In October.
