HOME AND COUNTRY.

Man With a Wife Must Let the Re-

The other night, soon after a ward meeting had opened, one of the electors present began edging for the door, as if he meant to leave the place. He was soon stopped by a friend, who said:

'Don't leave us now. I want you to hear what that speaker is saying. Hear that. He says we must triumph or the country is doomed."

"Yes, I know, but I've got to edge along towards home," was the reply.

Louisville Courier-Journal. I think that one of the most fascina-ting qualities of the child is its love of truth after it has been thoroughly trained to appreciate that troublesome virtue. I saw it illustrated a day or two ago on the occasion of an attempt at barter. The heir of the house owns a pony; a farmer came into the yard with another pony, and also a proposal for an exchange. The points of the strange animal were gravely canvassed by the boy and the ten-year-old sister. When the father came on the scene he was addressed by his oldest daughter in this fashion, and with great rapidity of niterance: "Pany this is a splendid utterance: "Papa, this is a splendid pony, he don't kick and plunge, and run away, and balk and crib, and he hasn't got any spavin." The trade didn't come

From a party just from Beaufort county, and well acquainted with all parties, we learn that strong suspicion of being implicated in the assassination of Gen. Bryan Grimes has rested for some time on two white men named Matthews and Parker. Matthews is a young man from Granville county, keeping bar for Burt Paramour, in Newbern, and Parker resides near the locality where the desperate deed was committed. Both of these men are quite intimate with the Paramours, between whom and Gen. Grimes a bitter feud existed. Gen. Grimes's evidence, it is thought, would have involved Paramour in the arson of his mill. Our informant says Matthews wears a num-ber 5 or 6 shoe, which would corres-pond with the size of the track found on the edge of the swamp. The particulars of the evidence against these men we could not gather, but it is thought Parker piloted the way in the swamp and Matthews shot Gen. Grimes as he was passing. Our informant the same was passing. Our informant the same was passing. was passing. Our informant thought that these parties were arrested, probably, as he was telling us, on Tuesday. We understand both New York and Baltimore detectives have been at work on the case.

A Milwaukeean's Feat.

Chicago Times. A young Norwegian named Rasendahl, from Minneapolis, gave an exhibition here this evening of walking on the water. It was a complete success. water. It was a complete success. With his feet secured in two small boat-like structures, the young man walked rapidly and easily upon the surface of the water. The peculiarity of Rosendahl's invention is the possibility of making progress by an actual walking movement. There was no striking back or side ways, but a straightforward walk at the rate of at least three miles an hour. Thousands of spectators witnessed the feat, and the crowd was very enthusiastic over the young man's success. The swell occasioned by passing tugs did not disturb the walker to any noticeable degree.

War Currency.

Our currency, the best money the world ever saw, might now be in the shabby condition of that of Peru if the greenbackers had been permitted to have their way. At Lima to-day, you have to pay, in Peruvian currency, 40 cent for a single egg and $150 for cabbage. Onlone sell for $5 per dozen, and an ordinary suit of clothes authors $200. A man with a small family, and practicing close accounts, may require to scratch along on $20,000. This is not quite so bad as it was in Figure in the time of the assignate, where a single preprints to stratch along on $20,000 frames, nor as it you'd kinder stand off as I do and let this glorious old Republic squeeze through some mighty fine knot holes."

"A Constant Reader" of the Baltimore Sun writes from St. Mary's couny, Md., to know what are the salaries of the President, of members or Congress, etc., saying that there is a dispute as to the repeal of "the salary grab" bill. The so-called "salary grab" bill increased the salaries of the President, Vice-President and members of Congress, but the "grab" part of it was the retro-active clause by which members voted themselves "back pay" at the increased rates of salary from the beginning of the Congress for which they were elected. When the reaction came members put back their salaries to the old figures; they could not, however, compel e restitution of the back pay, and con-tented themselves with providing that any money returned by members might be covered back into the treasury. The salary of the President is now $50,000 a year, that of the Vice-President $8,000. those of Senators and members of the House of Representatives $5,000 a year with twenty cents per mile mileage payable each way once each annual session, and $125 per annum for newspapers and stationery. The salary of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court is $10,500, and of each of the associate justices $10,000. A member of Congress who lives in Salem. Oregon, would receive $6,925 per year, or $13,850 for each Congress, while a Senator living in Baltimore only receives $5,141 per year, or $10,282 for each Congress. A Pair Compromise.

San Francisco Post. The other day one of our most esteemed young burglars was, by some oversight, arrested and fined for crea-ting a disturbance. In default of the fine he was to stay in jail thirty days. The prisoner was deeply humilia ted by this sentence, as burglaring has been so dull recently that he was not in funds: though, like 'Frisco celebrities, he would rather suffer death than endure the disgrace of being locked up. So he sent for a well known Pine street bro-

"Mr. Skinum," said the broker (they were old college chums), "I will make you a business proposition. Last month your house was entered and robbed of a fine breech-loader gun, a stem winder watch and a pair of diamond studs."

"Yes; well?"

"Well, I took 'em—but you can't prove it. Now, if you'll pay my present fine, I'll return you the gun or the watch, take your choice." "I'll tell you what I'll do," said the broker, after a second's reflection, "I'll do it for the gun and stud."

"Couldn't possibly," replied the crow-bar artist. "I want the studs to wear

Grange Grop Destroyed.

Washington, Sept. 8.—A gentleman now in this city, who is the owner of a large orange grove in Florida, to-day received a letter from his agent informing him that the recent gale which was so disastrous to shipping swept over the State, stripping the groves of the nearly ripe fruit, and so wide the nearly ripe fruit, and, so widespread was the sterm, that there is no doubt that the Florida grange crop this year has been utterly destrayed. The season had been unusually productive,
the fruit being entirely full grown but now lies on the ground worthless. It was estimated that the yield would be about a million of boxes, and it is doubtful whether there is enough left to make a shipment for the Northern market. The loss is estimated at $1,500,000.
