ponents of the Republicans on the September State election; but the frantic and fatuous policy of ingenious Brother Blaine has in all probability sealed that State to the opposition for the general election of November. The heat of passion which his course since the late election engendered has fused the elements of hostility to the Republicans for the cerning campaign. Everything nice and new in the Millinery Department, and a new Milliner from elements of hostility to the Republicans for the coming campaign.

Let us see what Mr. Blaine really did. First, he wrote to General Garfield that they had lost the State through the sale and purchase of three thousand Republicans at thirty dollars apiece. Mr. Blaine was excited when he wrote that, and perhaps ought not to be held responsible. Straightway he wrote again to Garfield, saying that only wholesale frauds in the remote plantations of Aroostook county could keep the Republicans from a "victory." This was Mr. Blaine's over-shrewd device to cover his party's retreat from the State one of the Best Establishments in New York.

The Greenbackers of Maine are now united with the Democrats for the greater campaign. They last Wednesday, in convention at Portland, ratified with tremendous enthusiasm the union of the two opposition elements on the electoral ticket.

Mr. Blaine's over-shrewd device to cover his party's retreat from the State campaign, and if possible to so confuse the country as to leave the result in doubt and destroy its effects until after November. This ambition o'erleaped itself. The Maine Greenbackers were fired with indignation at Mr. Blaine's charges of fraud and were fanned to white heat at the thoughts of wrong-

DEMOCRATIC CONFIDENCE. It appears to be here to stay, but has not come from any causes assigned by radical orators and the press of that party. No sectional party is competent to legislate for the wants of the people of the whole country. A sectional party like the Republican party is too full of sectional hate and hidebound in sectional animosities to provide measures of relief or inaugurate. WASHINGTON; September 23.-In Democratic circles confidence in the result of the presidential election is esmated by the encouraging reports received daily from all directions. that comes from many sources in Virginia that the electoral vote of that State is safe for Hancock. The Republicans had little thought of Virginia in their calculations before the Maine election, and now, on the heel of that disheartening result, they have neither energy nor money to spend upon such an unpromising field as Virginia would be for Republican endeavor, even under the most favorable circumstances. It is stated upon the authority of a Republican member of Congress from the South that recently Senator Don Cameron earnestly advised the national committee of his party against making any fight for the electoral vote of Virginia declaring it to be plainly out of the power of the Republicans to capture it, even though the committee should have the means requisite to pay the capitation tax for the negroes, and otherwise put the demoralized and disbanded Virginia Republican party in fighting shape. It is stated also that General Mahone told a member of the Democratic national committee that whehever it should become apparent that the Republicans would seriously contend for the electoral vote of Vir ginia he would urge his friends to take down their electoral ticket. The trouble is that such an event might not be-

There is the timid, fearful man, who plays an essentially nervous game; who never leads trumps unless he has amazing strength; who plays entirely for his own hand; who is given to putting on his best cards second hand, for fear he should lose the opportunity of ever making them; who, if he has a had hand, is always ready to throw down his eards, and who never dreams of being character of a man than whist. Florence Tilton's Husband,

Dr. Pelton, of Louisiana, who was married in London Wednesday to Miss Riorence Tilton, daughter of Mr. Theodore Tilton, is young, and well-known in New Orleans as a physician. He formerly practiced law, which becoming distasteful to him, he abandoned for the profession of medicine about six years ago. His family is one of the oldest and most wealthy in New Orleans. It is said that he first met Miss Filton abroad in 1879. An attachment sprang up between the couple, which, in three or four months, resulted in a marriage engagement. The marriage
