"Bear Old Banner."

Farewell old shirt, farewell! It grieves me sore To haul thee down, to think that nevermore Shall I unfurl thee to the Northern breeze, And with thy awful stains the heart's-blood freeze Of gazing voters, as in trumpet tones
I tell of gnastiy wounds and dead men's bones;
Talk of masked riders, of the Ku-klux klan,
And all the other awful things that man Can by imagination paint to show
The South as still the nation's deadly foe.
No, nevermore shall these wild tales excite
The woters so they cannot sleep at night.
But, filled with awful fear, awake from dreams

in which they heard the agonizing screams of dying negroes or of Unieu men, Slow starving in some Southern prison-pen.
All this is past, no more my matchless art
Of getting up such yarns can fire the heart
Of Northern men. And thee, who once with fears
Did fill their souis, they now salute with jeers.
They've learned thy crimson stains are painted on;
And hence old shirt, thy influence is gene.
So, dear old banner, which so oft I've waved,
And by thy marge rower the party saved. And by thy magic power, the party saved.

I sadly haul thee down. And well I know
That as you fall, down, too, the white plumes go,

Farewell, old shirt, to victory and thee,

An Adroit Game of Two Sharpers-A German Bank the Victim.

Baltimore American The German Savings Bank, formerly ocated at the corner of Baltimore and Pine streets, but which a couple of months ago moved into fine new quarters on Baltimore street near Pearl, was on Wednesday victimized by two sharpers, who played a somewhat novel and singularly successful game on the cashier. It was about 1 o'clock, and the cashier, Mr. Robert M. Rother, was alone in the bank, his assistant having gone home to dinner. Two well-dressed men drove up to the bank, and in a business-like way one of them jumped from the carriage, stepped briskly into the bank, threw down $50 on the counter, and said to the cashier: "There's a gentleman out there in the carriage who wants to make a deposit for his niece." The cashier, with the money before his eyes on the counter, could not for a moment suspect that anything was wrong, and without a thought passed out of the bank, and stepping down to the carriage, engaged in conversation with the man in it in regard to the deposit for his niece. While the cashier was thus occupied the first comer, who had followed the cashier to the door when he came out, stepped in a careless and unconcerned way back into the bank, without exciting in the least the cashier's suspicions. Passing out of view from the point where the cashier stood, the sharper stepped behind the desk and coolly helped himself to the contents of three of the pigeonholes, all of which contained bank notes. A letter-carrier happened to step in while the shaper was helping himself, but taking it for granted that the man was a bank official or an employe, suspected nothing, and passed out. Seeing that the cashier was finishing his conversation with his confederate the third carms out to the door of ing his conversation with his confederate, the thief came out to the door of the bank in his cool way, passed the cashier on the steps of the bank, stepped into the carriage, and both mendrove off out west Baltimore street at a rattling speed. The cashier looked after them for a moment, wondered at their haste, and suddenly bethought himself that something might be wrong. Hurrying into the bank, the first thing that attracted his attention was the roll of bills, amounting to fifty dollars, which the sharpers had left on the counter. Going behind the counter, the cashier saw at once that the three pigeon-holes had been emptied of their contents, and that the two sharpers, by their little game, had victimized the bank to the tune of $1,350. The bank officials were not particularly anxious to rehearse the details of the affair last night. The case is in the hands of the night. The case is in the hands of the GENERAL STATE EXPENSE*.

Republican and Deptacratic Rule Contrasted-Nearly Two Millions of Dollars Squandered by Republican Officeholders-Tax-Payers, Read!

Extract from Dr. Worth's Speech at Concord.

For the last three months of the year 1868 and for the years 1868 and 70, during which time the Republicans had supreme control in all departments of State and county government, they collected from the people $2,096,942.52. How did they apply it? Who can answer? He would challenge any Republican in the State to show a brick that was laid for an asylum or where a spadeful of dirt had been removed with a single dollar of that vast sum which they had collected from the honest tax-payers of the State. There is not one line or figure on record to show where one single penny of it was spent except for the ordinary expenses of the government, and can tell what became of part of it. Their legislative expenses for 1868-69 amounted to $430,958.60, and this was for nothing but the per diem and mileage of the members. And to give an idea of the savings to the State under Democratic rule he would give the expenses of each Legislature up to date. We took the Legislature in hand in 1870:

WATER COOLERS, had the record, and he proposed to show the people what had gone with the vast sums collected from them. the vast sums collected from them. The Republicans collected within three years the enormous sum of $2,096,942.52 and they not only spent all this sum, but when the Demograta took charge we had to levy a tax of ten cents on the hundred dollars worth of property to pay debts they had contracted and failed to pay, and still this would not do it. The following year we had to levy an additional tax of seven per cent, to pay additional tax of seven per cent. to pay it. The average amount of taxes collected for the past ten years is $584.049.80. Now, out of over two million dollars collected from the people, he challenged any one of them to show one dollar of it expended for permanent improvement.

And now what have we to show?
What have the Democrats done?
We have expended the following

Western Insane Asylum $180,000,00 Cofored Insane Asylum 42,500,00 Western North Carolina Railroad in cash for iron, interest on bonds and support of these splendid permanent improve-ments to show for it. In other words, we have spent out of the amounts collected $790,500.00 in investments that will contribute to the growth and wealth of the State for generations to come. And in this sum is not included the building for the colored deaf, dumb and blind at Raleigh, the cost of which he had not at hand. Apart from run-ning the State government, we have paid, as above stated, for improvements, and for the support of our outside indigent insane, the sum of $988,-915.17.

A SPECIMEN PERFORMANCE.

Another Outrage by a Revenue Offi-

While in Albemarle this week we heard of a most infamous outrage, committed upon a minister of the Methodist Church, who is well known and beloved throughout the bounds of the North Carolina Conference, by an internal revenue officer—one of those infamous scoundrels who, having sold their character and principles for offi-cial preferment, and thereby having lost the respect of all decent men, have become utterly shameless, and are capable of committing almost any kind of outrage. The facts of the case referred to are these: Sometime ago, during a protracted meeting in the Methodist church at Albemarle, the pastor, Rev. C. M. Pepper, was several times annoyed by unbecoming conduct by one Burnes, a revenue officer, stationed at Albemarle. Finally the pastor took oc-casion to reprimand Burnes for his misconduct, but without calling any name. This was several months ago, and it is well known that Burnes knew at the time that the minister rereferred to him, but he did nothing at all at the time about the matter.

On Saturday evening, September 4th Mr. Pepper, while conversing with some one on the streets, was approached by Burnes and asked whether the remarks made on the above mentioned occasion referred to him. Being answered in the affirmative, Burnes said: You are a God-damned rascal." Mr. P. quietly remarked that such language did not hurt him, whereupon the cowardly officer struck him upon the cheek, with the palm of his hand, asking at the same time whether that (meaning mediately seized by two parties who were present, and no further difficulty were present, and no further difficulty occurred at that time, although he muttered something about a pistol.

A warrant was soon issued, and Burnes was carried before Esquires Green and Atkins. On trial he used yery insulting language, among other things calling Mr. P. a "damned liar," but he submitted and was fined a small amount for contempt of court.

amount for contempt of court. Afterwards he followed Mr. P. and cursed him shamefully.

Burnes appealed from the magistrates' decision to the Superior Court, and his case came up on last Tuesday, when, although he was in town, he treated the court with utter contempt, failing to put in his appearance when called, thus forfeiting his bond of $200. (We learn that he gave as his excuse for not being present when his case was called, that he was putting on a clean shirt, and the judge, who is a Republican, excused him.) We do not know what final decision was reached in the case, but all that was necessary for Burnes to do to get the case removed to the Federal Court, which would be equivalent to an acquittal, would be to make an affidavit that the outrage was committed in the discharge of his official duty, which, we suppose, he would not hesitate to do.

We do not wish to be understood as and his case came up on last Tuesday, he would not hesitate to do.

We do not wish to be understood as denouncing all persons engaged in the revenue business; we suppose, of course, there are some gentlemen among them. But generally they are the very scum of creation, the worst characters who can be picked up by the infamous Radical party with which to afflict our people, It is not so much that the people wish to evade the payment of the internal revenue taxes as it is that they object to having business Branchville N. J., Sept. 27.— Rev. Rev. Theodore D. Frazee, aged 30, a Methodist clergyman of this place and editor of a religious paper published at Newark, N. J., has just been arrested at the instance of Mr. Arthur Hasted, a member of his church, charged with insulting Mrs. Hasted. Hr. Hasted alleges that Frazee came to his house on Monday last, tried to kiss his wife, when she left the room. The divine called again later, and finding Mrs. Hasted, who is but 20 years of age, alone renewed his advances, and finally tried to carry out his designs by force. The lady screamed, and Frazee left the house at once, Mrs. Hasted told her husband, and when he spoke to Mr. Frazee with regard to the matter the minister laughed in his face, and told him no one would believe the story. Public opinion as to the guilt of the minister is greatly divided. Great excitement prevails. citement prevails.

An Almost Fatal Case of Fasting Statesville Landmark,

Some six weeks ago the appetite of Mr. John Wycliffe Woodward, of this place, failed him. He began to show pain but his stomach rejects all food and he has been brought to death's door by starvation. For 83 days he neither ate nor drank a mouthful except a cup of coffee once a day. For 9 days nothing whatever, except a spoonful of water, passed his lips. Without experiencing any suffering he has been gradually wasting away until a few days ago he rallied and commenced to drink water. Since that time he has been able to eat some obtains broth been able to eat some chicken broth, and it is now hoped that his appetite, and with this his strength, will soon be completely restored.
