Newspaper For Sale.

A weekly Democratic newspaper, in a neighboring town, on account of the pressure of other business on the present editors and proprietors, is offered for sale, either in whole or in part. The paper is well established, in a thriving town, with a large circulation, and has a business that would return a very fair remuneration to the purchaser. It is a very desirable property, and is offered for sale at a very low price. Any application for particulars should be accompanied with references, and may be addressed to "G." Charlotte, N. C.

A Thought—Suggested by Autumn.

The leaves are drying slowly. Turning red and sombre brown; The withered grass, the faded flowers, As the chilly winds sweep down. The summer's benediction Mingled with autumn's sighs, And we miss the sweet affliction Of the wood ticks in our shoes. The long gaunt branches shiver In the moaning, sobbing blast; The vines and creepers quiver, As the stormy wind flies past; The summer time has left us Now, to join the cold, dead years, And going has bereft us Of the savings in our ears. The sky is clothed in shadows, And the earth is dark and cold; And all the fields and meadows Are growing gray and old. The hills of the summer, All are turning into snow, And yet may freeze the bumper Of a box that stung our toe. The diurnal rain drops patter On the summer's sash; And the flying halibutons cluster, And the woodcock's quills, And the autumn poet climbing, Up the pallid, mournful wreck, Singing a miserable rhyme, At the papers by the peck. —Brooklyn Eagle.

Turning Leaves.

"Here is a sketch," said the poet, "Into the editor's graces, 'That I tossed me off in an idle hour To pass the time away.'" "Here is a club," was the answer, "In a hand and smiling way, 'With which I frequently toss me off Six poems in a day.'" The mother who brings up her boy to run rather than fight will turn out a man who can be buffed when he knows he has a sure thing. A tree never shakes its leaves in the autumn. Miss Anthon saw the mysterious figures "929" in many places on the Rochester sidewalks. "It's no such thing," she said, clenching her hands; "and I won't be either, till my next birthday—Elmira Free Press." To Drain Lands—Drink whisky and spend all your time at a village saloon. This recipe will surely drain you of all your lands in a very short while. "I want to see the villain that wrote this article. Where's the proprietor of this paper?" "He's out," "Where's the managing editor?" "He's out," "Where's the printer?" "He's out, too." "Where's the printer?" "He's out, too." "Where's the printer?" "He's out, too." The man on the fence expects to save himself by a hedge. HOW THEY LIE.

The Daily Dish of Deception and Falshood Served Up by the Indiana Republicans.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 2, 1880.—A person living outside of the State of Indiana is wholly ignorant of the malignant bitterness with which the Republicans are fighting the Democrats in this campaign. They have from the start up to the present time invited an industryously circulated the most despicable, infamous, and unmitigated lies ever concocted in the brain of men claiming the least respectability. They have pinned their faith on carrying Indiana or dying, imported negroes! Money and every other thing, every minute, every hour, and every day of the campaign a miserable and contemptible lie is concocted and spread broadcast all over the State. On every train coming into the State negroes are brought to defeat the free white people out of their rights. From every stump the bloody shirt is unfurled, and the men who follow after Hancock are denounced as "rebels" and "traitors." And into every county in the State hundreds of dollars are being sent to corrupt the honest masses. Never before in the history of this country was a people subjected to such vindictive and villainous abuse as the Democratic party of Indiana are to-day by the party in power. Gen. Hancock does not escape. His brilliant career, his deeds in the war for the preservation of the Union are forgotten, and he is pursued with damnable lies and scoundrel hate. Since his clear, concise and emphatic letter, sitting down upon the rebel claims bugaboo, he has been more abused than ever. The more desperate the cause of the Republicans the more numerous THEIR WICKED LIES.

AT THE HEADQUARTERS

but little can be learned beyond the boasting usual to partisan headquarters. Each side has, however, made a careful canvass of the state by townships, and each furnishes a result claimed to be genuine. The Democrats claimed that these returns give them 60 of the 92 counties by a majority of 45 counties by 29,075 and give the Republicans 32 counties by 22,800 majority—leaving the Democratic net majority 14,900. The Republicans claim 47 counties out of the 92, by majorities aggregating 30,875 and give the Democrats 45 counties by 29,075 and give the Republicans 32 counties by 22,800 majority—leaving the Democratic net majority 14,900. The Cincinnati Enquirer, which has outsped all the papers in enterprise, has made a canvass of the state by its local correspondents, and reports up that in 4 townships of the 1,128 the Democrats have gained 2,087 on the vote of 1878 and the Republicans 1,550, and that the Democrats have lost 1,016, while the Republicans have lost 1,438. At this rate of increase and decrease throughout the state the Democratic majority would be 12,500. The most striking result of the Enquirer's estimate was that the greenback vote will reach 40,000 this year, if the localities canvassed are samples of the whole State. This result will astound both sides, and help the Democrats.

Vance in Virginia.

Baltimore. That inimitable political orator, Gov. Vance, has been doing splendidly in the past few weeks, and it is said has fairly excelled himself. He has canvassed the Shenandoah Valley from one end to the other, speaking in Winchester, Woodstock, Luray, New Market, Harrisonburg, Staunton, and elsewhere, with such a wealth of eloquence, logic and wit as has rarely been heard even in the Old Commonwealth before. His speeches are reported to have had a wonderful effect, and there no longer remains any doubt as to the role of Virginia. He has done a noble service at a critical time, and the white people of Virginia will not forget him.

PERSONAL AND POLITICAL NOTES.

Gen. Grant will preside at a Republican meeting at Stamford, Conn., October 21. Webb Hayes intends to wait a few years, and then propose to the Princess Mercedes. Speaker Randall has gone West to participate in the political canvass in Ohio and Indiana. Col. Thomas A. Scott has returned to Philadelphia from the White Sulphur Springs, much improved in health. The New York World thinks Brooklyn will give 25,000 Democratic majority and New York city 65,000 majority. A newly-married couple were sitting in a palace car when she said: "George, ain't you glad? We're relatives now!" Ex-Senator Waitman T. Wiley, of West Virginia, addressed the Republicans of Martinsburg last Saturday, during which he declared that whoever defamed General Hancock showed himself a craven libeller. The Republicans of the 15th congressional district of Pennsylvania, after having balloted 182 times, failed to nominate a candidate for Congress. The convention then adjourned until October 11. The Secretary of the Republican Hancock and English club of New York city, in a card to the World, states that the club now numbers over 1,300, all of whom have heretofore voted the Republican ticket.

Mr. Daniel Dougherty has declined the Democratic nomination for Congress in the second district, Philadelphia.

Mr. Daniel Dougherty has declined the Democratic nomination for Congress in the second district, Philadelphia. He says he prefers to remain where he has ever been, in the ranks. Delaware's "little election" occurs to-day. Inspectors to hold the election in November, and in the country districts assessors and road commissioners will be chosen. It is proposed to hold a mammoth meeting of all the Democratic clubs in the Valley of Virginia, at Staunton, on the 13th of October. It will be the largest meeting ever held in that section, and some of the ablest speakers in the country will address the people. Hon. Lorenzo English, ex-attorney-general of the State of Illinois, and Republican candidate for Congress against the Hon. George L. Converse, in the Columbus (Ohio) district two years ago, has declared his intention of supporting Hancock and English. The New Orleans Democrat does not believe that Mr. Acklen, who is a bolting candidate for Congress in the third district, can take a single Democratic vote from the regular nominee. As for Mr. Acklen himself, the party, it says, is well rid of him. Col. David W. Magraw, who commanded the 116th Pennsylvania regiment during the late war, and a Republican ever since the organization of the party, has written a letter announcing his purpose to vote for Hancock and English. Col. Jerome and Mme. Bonaparte, having returned from France, purpose spending the coming winter in Washington, D. C., instead of Paris, their usual home at that season. They have placed their daughter at the Georgetown convent. In view of the desperate efforts of the Republican managers to wrest Indiana from the Democratic column it is fair to assume that Garfield will abandon the fight if Landers is elected Governor one week from next Tuesday. Judge Thomas E. Hogg, who, like his Scotch namesake, was a poet of note, died at his home in Denton, Tex., a few days ago. He was recognized as a leading lawyer in that State. His father was a brigadier-general in the Confederate army. Mr. Fallis, a Cincinnati banker, formally and publicly said that government securities would sell at ninety cents should Hancock be elected. Mr. Theodore Cook promptly responded that he would give a million of four per cents at par in the event of Hancock's election. Mr. Fallis declined the proposition. Senator Blaine made a brief speech to the Republicans of Lancaster, Pa. He said he had lived in Maine long enough to know that her people were loyal, and that she would give her soldiers in November for Garfield. But Senator Blaine was equally confident of a Republican victory in Maine at the recent election. Senator Ben. Hill, of Georgia, called with his wife on Gen. Hancock Friday. Other visitors were ex-Gov. Z. B. Vance, of North Carolina, Senator B. F. Jonas, of Louisiana, Gen. Egbert L. Relyea, of New York, Charles J. Faulkner, of West Virginia, and Capt. Hugh Monroe, of Mobile. As the day closed a number of business men from the small towns of Ohio and Central New York called in a body. At a meeting of the Tammany committee Thursday evening Hon. John Kelly urged the members of the committee to work hard from now until election day for the success of the Democratic ticket, and to see to it that all the legal voters are registered, notwithstanding the threats of Davenport. He advised Democrats to take colored people by the hand. The Southern people were educating the negroes, and in years to come the race down there would be more intelligent and better citizens. Mr. Stillson Hutchins, editor of the Washington Post, proposes a grand national contribution to aid the Democrats in their canvass. He says the collections of the Democratic national committee so far during the canvass are less than $100,000, and that he is credited with having given $25,000 and Hon. Augustus Schell $20,000. Mr. Hutchins says the Republicans are raising an immense fund to be used in Ohio and Indiana. According to the Indianapolis Sentinel forty-nine distinguished Democratic speakers are expected to address meetings in that city on to-day. In the list appear the names of seven ex-Governors, ten major-generals, and a half dozen United States Senators. Messrs. Seymour, Bayard, Randall, Thurman, Fremont, Furney, Kernan, Trumbull, Slocum, Rosecrans, Palmer and Dougherty are among the speakers mentioned. Chairman Jewell appeared before the New York Union League Wednesday evening, and appealed for money to carry on the Republican campaign. He said much as he liked money, none could be taken from the party. The league appointed a committee of fifty, among whom are some of New York's most solid bankers and merchants, who are trying to raise a million or two. Subscription papers have been in circulation in Wall street for some time, and Jay Gould is credited with giving a handsome check for use in Indiana.
