"We must carry our beautiful baby to town,
Some day when the weather is fair," we said,
"We must dress him up in his prettiest gown,
And wave the hair on the top of his head;
For all his cousins, and all his aunts,
And both his grandmothers proud and dear.
Declare it is shameful and every way blameful,
To have had no picture of him this year. COLD WEATHER IS COMING.

And he lay like a lamb on his mamma's lap, And the darling now has a twelvementh more Of bewildering graces from sock to cap. Just look at his dear little laughing face, At the rosebud mouth, at the violet eyes.— Why, the photograph-taker, that vanity shaker, Will think, this time, we have brought him

We carried our child to the town one day,
The skies were soft, and the air was cool,
We robed him richly in fine array—
Ribbons and laces, and Swiss and talle.
He looked like a prince in the artist's chair,
sitting erect, and brave, and grand,
With a big red apple, he scarce could grapple,
Held close in the palm of one dimpled hand.

We have also provided for the needs of Misses, who will find a good line of CLOAKS, bought expressly for them, ranging according to age from 10 to 16 years.

"He is taking it now!" We held our breath!
We furtively peeped from behind the screeu!
"What a pose!" we whispered then still as death
Waited—and baby was all serene
Till the critical moment, when, behold,
The sun was catching that lovely look,
Such a terrible roar it shook the floor!
And that was the picture the swift sun took;

A wrinkled face and close shut eyes, Aud a mouth that opened so very wide That our dear little sister, sibyl-wise, Declares she can see the cry inside. Aunts and cousins and grandmothers dear

Haven't got over their anger yet; But we thought it was funny, and paid our money, For that strange phase of our precious pet.

Ah! children, older than baby, think,
Dear little children, blithe and sweet,
With your curis of gold, and your cheeks of pink,
And your naughty tempers, sudden and fleet—
What an awful thing it would be for you
If an artist should happen along some day,
And observing the pouting, the frown, or the flouting,
Should take a picture of you that way.

JUDGE CLIFFORD.

ears that He Cannot Resume His Duties in the United States Supreme

WASHINGTON, October 9.—Justice Nathan Clifford, of the United States Supreme Court, arrived here yesterday afternoon from Boston very much fatigued by the journey. After reaching the National Hotel he became weak, and his symptoms were for a time very alarming. Drs. Toner and Lincoln were summoned and have been in attendance more or less since yesterday. Indigestion and some congestion appear to be the causes of the infirmity Justice Clifford, although in his seventy seventh year, has enjoyed exceptionally good health, and is a man of great physical endurance. During the circuit he has just finished he has been unusually busy in writing opinions, a mental tax which his son endeavored to persuade him from doing. In Boston on Thursday, before leaving for Washington, he ate a hearty dinner and took the through train for Washington. He did not sleep well on Thursday night. So far as the attending physicians can discern there is no evidence whatever of paralysis. He uses his limbs with freedom, but cannot articulate. He will not be able to take his seat on the bench on Monday next, and may be physically incapacitated for duty during the term of court. Mr. W. H. Clifford, the son of Justice Clifford, arrived to-night from Portland, having been seventh year, has enjoyed exceptionally

The latter entertain hopes of being able to capture two or three congressional districts now represented by Democrats, but more than this they have not the slightest than this they have not the slightest expectation of accomplishing. The ef-forts of this committee have been main-ly directed to doubtful congressional districts for some days past, and the documents now being sent out are des-tined to districts which the committee foolishly imagine they can gain from the Democrats in consequence of local divisions in the party.

Governor Jarvis.

Reidsville Times. At the Reidsville mass meeting Gov. Jarvis took the people with him from the start. His arraignment of the Republican party, for its waste of three millions of dollars for the State since the war, was a crusher. He did it in a colloquial style, as if in conversation with a Republican. "Where's that Republican?" he asked, and the crowd would point to two or three standing around. Then he continued with, "Now, Mr. Republican, if you will only show where one dollar of that money went for an insane asylum for the colshow where one dollar of that money went for an insane asylum for the colored people, or a deaf and dumb asylum, or—for I am—not a hard-hearted man—Governor Reid, you know I am not a hard-hearted man—if you will show where only one brick was laid, or one single spade full of dirt thrown, for either asylums or the building of railroads, then I will advise you to vote for Capt. Buxton—and then the big school appropriation—the hundreds of thouse ands of dollars of school money, they spent, and not even a school house built, asingle brick laid, and not even a sign of a child taught, nor a school teacher to teach them. Where is that money, Mr. Bepublican? Gone! Gone where? It's gone, What was it spent for? And Capt Buxton wouldn't say.

TROOPING TO GOVERNOR'S ISLAND

A Delegation of the Republican Hancock-English Campaign Club Visits the Democratic Nominee.

N. Y. Herald, 11th. Gen. Hancock came to the city in an early boat yesterday morning, and called to see ex-Governor Seymour at 111 Park avenue, his temporary place of so-journ while in the city, but did not find him in, he having gone to Irvington to spend Sunday. The General left his card, feeling greatly disappointed. Un-til late in the day many visitors re-mained on Governor's Island strongly in hopes that the ex-Governor might come there to see Gen. Hancock, but in this they were disappointed.

There were a good many visitors to the Island, although yesterday was one of the days upon which the General expects exemption from receiving callers. A feature of special interest was the A feature of special interest was the visit of a delegation from the several Assembly district associations of the Republican Hancock-English campaign club of this city. There were fifty in the delegation, made up of professional and business men and representing fifteen of the twenty-four Assembly districts, besides a number of invited guests. They were introduced individguests. They were introduced individ-ually to the General by Dr. George H. Mitchell, the president, and received a most cordial welcome. Dr. Mitchell, in a brief speech, gave a history of the or-ganization and said that the 1,100 ante-Republicans, but now anti-Republicans, enrolled as members were among the General's ardent supporters, and hoped to add many more to its list before elec-tion day. The General spoke a few words of thanks in response, and wound up apologetically for not saying more by observing that the present was not the time for speeches, but for action. "Three cheers for General Hancock, the next President of the United States," said Dr. Mitchell, and they were given with a will and a tiger. "If you take me from this pleasant place," said the General, "the responsibility will be yours."

"We will take the responsibility," followed from a chorus of voices. A campaign song to the tune of "Hold the Fort" was sung with hearty enthusiasm, and then ensued a general conversation.

"We are none of us officeseekers." remarked one, "so you need not be afraid of us, General." "You don't look like it," observed the General. "I think I could tell one at a glance. I have been fortunate, however, in this respect. I have had only one application for office thus far. Of course it was a little premature, but the man didn't want to be behindhand. This applicant asked to be appointed Minister to Corea. As Corea is a place where no white man is allowed to land and keep his head on his shoulders I told him he should have the place."

This story was greeted with roars of laughter, and shortly after the delegation withdrew, greatly pleased with their visit. A German gardener who was among the delegation, was in ecstacies over the free and off-hand Democratic manner of their reception.

We recommend that these gentlemen agree to put by all past differences; to work zealously for the success of the Democratic party, and to treat each other as gentlemen. We think this adjustment will be perfectly honorable to both gentlemen and we take pleasure both gentlemen, and we take pleasure in saying that we believe it will be entirely satisfactory not only to their im-mediate friends, but to the whole community.

WADE HAMPTON, JOHN BRATTON, JOHNSON HAGOOD, We accept the foregoing adjustment. JOHN J. DARGAN, JOSEPH H. EARLE.

The Masons and the Obelish.

The corner stone of the Egyptian obeby the Khedive of Egpyt, was laid in Central Park Saturday afternoon with imposing Masonic ceremonies, 10,000 members of the order participating and many thousands of people witnessing the grand procession and laying of the stone. After the stone had been lowered Grand Master Anthony went through the usual ceremony, and then turned towards Lieut. Gorringe and in a few well chosen remarks presented to that gentleman the congratulations of the Masonic fraternity. Lieut. Gorringe did not reply, but bowed his acknowledgements. The remaining portion of the ceremonies then took place, and at the close Grand Master Anthony made an address on masonry, and discoursed on the mystical marks found Central Park Saturday afternoon with
