CHARLOTTE, N. C., THURSDAY NOVEMBER 4: 1880.

"They cuted me of Agua: Billousiess and Kidney Complaint, as recommended. I had a half bottle left which I used for my two little girls, who the doctors and the neighbors and could not be cured. I would have lost both of them one night if I had not given them Hop Bitters. They did them so much good I continued their use until they were cured. That is why I say you do not know half the value of Hop Bitters, and do not recommend tham high enough."—B. Rochester, N. Y. See other column.—American Rural Home. Wide mouths have come into fashion for women. This is a change from the prevailing style of the past year or two.
The proper mouth of the present season is worn in a constant but mild smile the corners being drawn back horizonfeet free from corns. Care should be taken not to broaden this into an active grin, except on mirthful occasions; nor should the lips be compressed. All should be in repose. The lips may be reddened if the natural color be too light. A practice of painting the exposed membrane of the upper lip broad and bright just at the center has crept in, but it is bad, for it gives an artificial and sensuous look. The fashionable belle has cut the puckering-string of her mouth, and no longer murmurs, "Prunes, prunes, prunes." She can kiss two men simultaneously, and give good satisfaction, where before only one satisfaction, where before only one could find room at a time.

The reader who supposes that the above is fanciful, and not plain, straight-forward fashion news, is very much mistaken. Women can change the style of their faces, if not at will, at least considerably. The hair over the forehead can be arranged to produce any desired outline for the upper part of the face; the mouth can be made to the face; the mouth can be made to widely vary its expression; the eyes can be kept partly wide open or lan-guidly half-closed, the cheeks can be rounded by using "plumpers;" the eye-brows can be arched or straightened; the color can be controlled to a high degree. Thus it is apparent that a woman can, if clever, have to some extent the kind of face she wants. The nose is about the only intractable feature. It sticks right out in unalterable independence, defying all efforts to shorten or straighten it. Let me interpolate the fact that not one woman in ten ever laughs or smiles naturally. Knowing full well our defects of teeth or expression, we try to hide or reform them. know a girl who will never go to the minstrels, or any other funny show, because she isn't pretty when she laughs. If inadvertently caught by something comic, she buries the laugh in a handkerchief; but whenever possible she does all her laughing inter-

The Raid on the Chinese in Denver. DENVER, Nov. 1.-In some respects the reports of the rioting have been exaggerated, though the result shows that it was bad enough. The report that one Mongolian had his ears cut off is a mistake. The outcome so far of the Philp trial had naturally excited a great many Democrats, and in their procession of Saturday night their transpa-rencies bore many devices and mottoes calculated to fire the Caucasian inhabcalculated to fire the Caucasian inhabitants against the Mongolians. Report now says that the riot had its start in a saloon between a white man and a celestial over a game of pool. The white man, named Tim Lewis, beat the Chinaman over the head with a billard cue. The police were called in and then the riot began. The police were powerless to check it, and the fire department was called out to chill the ardor of the mob with water. The mayor appealed to the populace in vain. The mob rushed for populace in vain. The mob rushed for the Chinese settlement and gutted it. The police meanwhile had secured many of the cheap-labor element and placed them in jail for safety. Ling Lee was the only one killed, though a number had their queues pulled out and were otherwise maltreated. At daylight all was quiet and the citizens daylight all was quiet, and the citizens were on guard. At a special meeting of the council Gen. David J. Cook was given command of the police, and two undred additional men were sworn in. The citizens have offered their services. The inquest over the dead Chinaman will be held on Wednesday. All the celestials have been placed in jail for Proprietors. A burial permit was issued yesterday to Mrs. Elizabeth Pugh for the inter-ment of the body a child that has been awaieting burial for six years. Some time during the year 1874 the sexton of the Western Cemetery applied to Mrs. Pugh, who has a private vault in the cemetery, for permission to permit a family named Beaty to place the body of their child in the vault, to remain a short time. She gave permission, and in two or three months, hearing that the body was still in vault, she instructed Mr. Garnett, the Sexton, to have it removed. He promised to have it attended to, and she thought nothing more of the matter until a short time ago. She then determined to visit the vault, and in doing so found the coffin decayed almost to dust are the coffin decayed almost a contract to dust are the coffin decayed almost to dust are the coffin decayed almost a contract to dust are the coffin decayed almost a contract to dust are the coffin decayed almost a contract to dust are contract. most to dust, except a thin shell on the outside, in which were nothing but some pieces of clothing and the skeleton of the child. The coffin was so far decayed that it could not be moved, the glass plate in the lid having dropped into the coffin. She then applied for a permit and employed an undertaker, who will remove the skeleton to the potter's field and have it.
