Buffalo Bill says the Indians are an ill-used peeple, and that they fear the miners more than they do the soldiers. And it is not strange that they do. A miner plays a much better game of draw poker, and it is a cold day when he can't rake in an indian's pile with three aces and a king, and have

IS THIS DEATH?

Putting a Watch on a Body in Hopes

BALTIMORE, January 5.-To-day the friends of Miss Barbara Liefeld, the daughter of a wealthy German citizen, who died last Friday and was buried yesterday, placed a watch over her coffin, believing that she is in a trance yesterday, placed a watch over her coffin, believing that she is in a trance and will come to life again. The case has a number of interesting features has a number of interesting features. has a number of interesting features, which are exciting much surprise in the western section of the city. The young lady, who was about eighteen years of age, was found dead in bed at her residence, corner of Fremont and Waesche streets, and her physician gave the cause as heart disease. On Sunday she was to have been buried, but to the astonishment of her friends the face assumed a life-like appearance, and the undertaker expressed the opinion that the body had turned partially on its side during Saturday night. The fune-ral was indefinitely postponed and further developments waited with intense interest. Not only did the cheeks assume a rosy hue, but there was a noticeable absence of the coldness and stiffness usually characterizing the limbs of a corpse. The hands were surprisingly warm and up to yesterday morning a warm perspiration was per-ceptible. Yesterday the body became rapidly cold and several physicians who examined it pronounced life extinct. The funeral accordingly took place in the afternoon, the coffin being placed in a vault in St. Alphonsus Cemetery. To-day the friends of the lady visited the cemetery and insisted on the coffin being opened, when they were greatly agitated by the discovery that the body had again become warm, while the color had returned to the cheeks. By the advice of the cemetery authorities the remains were not removed, the precaution, however, being taken to leave the coffin open and place a guard in the vault. The painful suspense under which the parents of the girl are labor-ing has completely prostrated them. The result is looked for with much interest and curiosity.

Western Railroad Matters. NASHVILLE, January 7.—In the case of the minority stockholders of the Nashville and Chattanooga Railroad against the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, for the appointment of a receiver, a decision was given yesterday, refusing the petition. The attorney for the defense was about to open when Judge Baxter said further argument was not necessary; that none of the allegations of the bill had been sustained; that so far from the Nashville and Chattanooga road having been operated by the Louisville & Nashville to the prejudice of the stockholders, that the management was fair and efficient in every respect. In regard to that part of the bill praying for an injunction to revent the lease of the Nashville and hattanooga by the Louisville and Nashville, the court accepted the assurance that no such lease had been intended, and none would be made except by application to a court.

Cost of Indian Wars.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 .- Secretary Ramsey submitted to the Senate to-day Distribution Company, estimates of the expenditures by the department on account of Indian wars occurring between 1865 and 1879. The report states that it is impossible to ascertain the exact amount which should be charged to these wars, because the expenditures for this particular purpose during the last two years have not been kept separate from the othr expenditures of the War Department. Statements, however, made up from the best attainable data show the amount expended from the appropriations of the quartermaster's department on account of these wars to have been $32,680,341 fund.
