Who mingles, and in our ears Bestows a box that draws forth tears? Our husband!

Who bullies us and calls us names, Makes life a burden with his graces? Our brother!

Who takes us home from singing school And sweetly spoons and plays the fool? Our cousin!

Who holds our hands in his and kneels Until we heed his mad appeals? Our lover!

Who pays the bills and undergoes The discipline that Gaudin knows? Our husband!

Who gives us pointers good advice And takes us out and asks us to dine? Our brother!

Who, all in all, are none too good For human nature's daily food? The stars, God bless them!

SYGGINOVISM OR HYPNOTISM.

Which is Exciting New York.

Sygginovism is what Dr. William A. Hammond calls the doctor Hypnotism. Hypnotism, the doctor says, means sleep, while the other word is constructed out of a Greek word signifying "to agree with another." Recent experiments by medical men in New York in connection with this later form of mesmerism have been of great interest. Persons were made to do things of which, when restored to their senses, they were unconscious. There seems to be no doubt of the sincerity of the professional gentlemen—some of them eminent—who have assisted in these experiments. On Wednesday night Dr. Hammond, who was at that time Surgeon-General of the United States Army, experimented on a person who was entirely honest and that, as the reader will see further on, is an important fact in the experiment. We give below a report of what occurred on Wednesday evening.

Dr. Hammond performed some experiments before the meeting. His subject was H. Scott Gray, the young man who has figured in several public exhibitions. He was put into the hypnotic state in a few seconds, first by showing him a bit of glass, next by asking him to listen to a tuning fork. Dr. Hammond then pointed across the room and described a stone front house. In the basement, he said, was a window and up two flights a room with a chest at the foot of the bed containing money, and ordered Gray to go and steal it. Gray first demurred, but finally crossed the room—then crawled under when he saw the chest, and opened a window, listening at intervals, tip-toed to a stepladder, ascended it and at the top went through the motions of opening a chest and transferring money by hand from it to his pocket. He returned the same way, going through the motions of closing the basement window after him. Then followed a conversation between him and Dr. Hammond, in which he was told to return the money, and he made pretense of doing so. Next he was a policeman, taken in custody by a policeman, and finally induced to return the money to escape Sing Sing. Dr. Hammond, to show that Gray was not conscious during this conversation, passed a needle through a hole in the skin at the back of the neck, and burned him with a cauterizer heated to a red heat. He stood both tests without showing any sign of pain.

HOLDEN AND NICHOLS.

With a Word About Wheeler and Everett.

A Washington dispatch to the New York Times says: The nomination of John Nichols to be postmaster at Raleigh, N. C., was the result of a compromise on the part of several applicants. Ex-Gov. Holden had held the office for several years, and his name was sent to the Senate for re-appointment by President Hayes a short time before the end of his term. It was among the names which were not reached for action. After President Garfield's inauguration there were several applicants for the place, and some fault was found with Holden's administration. One of the applicants was James H. Harris, colored, who asserted that Holden had refused to recognize his race in appointing subordinates. Another applicant was a gentleman named Shaffer. While the contest for the place was going on, the President sent in Holden's name. Since that time, the supporters named above and their supporters have watched on Nichols, and hence Holden's name was withdrawn and Nichols substituted. Mr. Nichols is reported to be an active and outspoken Republican, of excellent standing in the community. He is said to be acceptable to all sections of the party. He has been Grand Master of the State Lodge of Free Masons. An attempt has been made to displace Collector Wheeler, of the Fifth North Carolina District, and to put in his place one Everett, who was active Sherman man in the canvass which preceded the Chicago convention. Mr. Wheeler was a supporter of ex-President Grant, and it is now believed that he will be retained.

Asheville and Knoxville.

Augusta Chronicle. The statement is made with much confidence that the present owners of the Spartanburg and Union, and Spartanburg and Asheville Railroads, desire to work in with the South Carolina Railroad, and are not ready to be swallowed up by the enemy. It is thought, too, that arrangements can be made with the East Tennessee and Gulf Railroad to open and complete the Western route from Knoxville and Morristown to Asheville, Spartanburg, Alston and Charleston. This will give Charleston a fair opportunity of getting the business brought up the Tennessee lines to Knoxville, as well as the Western business to be rendered accessible by the completion of the Louisville and Nashville connection with Livingston and Knoxville, and the Cincinnati Southern's mooted connection with the same place.

New Engagements are Announced.

The manner of announcing engagements seems to be frequently this: The groom steps into his club, and tells an intimate friend; the lady writes to her intimate friends, and her mamma has the day before informed all the grandparents, the aunts, and cousins. It then flies on the wings of the wind; it is caught up by Jenkins; it appears in the newspapers. The young couple give it a final endorsement by walking arm in arm in Fifth avenue. Much pain is given and much harm done by unauthorized announcements in the fashion newspapers of engagements which are removed but which do not exist, and it is in doubtful taste to allude to them in print.

A SHOWER COMPLIMENT can be had by every lady who will use Parker's Ginger Food.

For promptly securing the blood and purifying the system there is nothing like it, and this is the reason that it is so popular. It gives a new complexion to the cheek. See notice.

THAT BOY OF GALLAGHER'S.

The Remarkable Feats of an Attempt to Get to an Early Train.

New York News.

The circumstances were as follows: Mr. Gallagher had to take a train, left at 6 o'clock, so he arose before daylight to breakfast, and thought he would put on his thick boots instead of the very light shoes he had on over evening. Now it seems that Gallagher's son had worn the old man's boots while roller skating, and had left the skates on the boots, and in the darkness Gallagher didn't notice this fact as he pulled the boots on, though he thought the boots felt heavy. He then trod his way to the head of the stairs, the skates making no trouble on the carpets. Then he started to go down stairs. He got there peacefully sudden. He was only annoyed as he picked himself up, and said very wicked things as he started for the dining room.

Breakfast was laid, but only a dim light was burning. Immediately he set foot on the polished floor. Mr. G.'s feet flew into the air and his head came down with a terrible force. The wild yell that he gave brought his wife and mother-in-law from the kitchen. He arose from the floor, but they immediately started off in different directions, and after wrenching his spine and knee-joints terribly in trying to control them, they got away, and he jarred the spine column the whole length as he went down. "Land of gringos!" the floor is oiled," he roared, as he began to make efforts to rise. "Have you apoplexy or have you been drinking?" asked his wife as she strove to assist him to get up. "You hold you law, you idiot!" he replied, and then she let go of him sort of sudden, and down he went, bruising himself in six different places. "Gosh," "tunket," "drat" and "durn" were the words called into requisition to relieve his mind at this time, and he told his mother-in-law, who had fallen laughing, into a chair, that he hoped she'd meet cows every time she went out. Then he assayed to rise once more, and got upon his feet. The skates began to slip, but he struggled like a hero and clutched the air wildly to keep his balance. No use. As he fell forward he wildly grabbed the tablecloth, and as a result yanked the entire breakfast upon him. The hot tea scalded him, the pepper got into his eyes, the mustard into his mouth and the eggs all over him. His cries were fearful. They hauled him from the debris and started to put him to bed, when he thought of the money Mr. Gallagher was terribly used up, but he started at once to find his son and the lady's sighing over his great grief was heard blocks away.

After the Old Bible.

A lawyer and a Wall street speculator were the chief competitors in the bidding for the Gutenberg Bible, and the congratulations that naturally go out to the lawyer who secured the prize are tempered by regret that the speculator missed it. Both wanted it, and we infer from the bids, both needed it. The book was started at $5,000, and was run up to $8,000 at which figure Hamilton Call secured it. It was printed by Joannes Gutenberg in 1450-55 and was the first book printed from movable types. But the high price realized for this book, the sums paid for other works on the last day of the Brierley sale would be noteworthy. Three Eliot Bibles sold for $900, $800, and $550 respectively. Five sermons by Increase Mather, translated into the Indian tongue, and printed in 1698, brought $115. The sale realized in all about $30,000. The fourth and last part of the library will be sold in a few months.

AN UNEQUALLED HAIR DRESSING.

Producing as Rich and Cleanly Appearance as if Nature Alone Had Imparted It.

BURNETT'S COCOAINE is the best and cheapest Hair Dressing—kills dandruff, cleans, irritates, and promotes a vigorous and healthy growth of hair. No other compound produces these results. The superiority of BURNETT'S FLAVORING EXTRACTS consists in their perfect purity and great strength. They are warranted free from the poisonous and acrid oils which enter into the composition of many of the fictitious fruit flavors now in the market.

To Accommodate the Public.

The proprietors of that immensely popular remedy, "Wine of Cardui," have prepared a special preparation of "Wine of Cardui" for the special occasion of those who, from any reason, dislike to prepare it for themselves. It is very convenient, and as the quantity is small, it is more easily taken by many. It has the same beneficial action in all diseases of the kidneys, liver, or bowels.—Howe and Fenn.
