O casion of the Delay.

The Richmond & Danville train, due here at 1.52 p. m. yesterday, did not ar-rive until about 9 p. m. The delay was occasioned by an accident to a freight train by which two cars were wrecked at Drake's Branch, about 60 miles beyond Danville. The mail was obliged to wait until the wrecking train arriv-ed and cleared the track.

Conscience Money.

The Anson Times makes reference as follows to an incident which has just occurred to a gentleman who was, until recently, a citizen of Charlotte: "Our townsman, Col. L. S. Williams, returns his thanks to his repentant friend."

Alice Gates Coming.

Comic opera is growing more and more popular in Charlotte and this fact of itself would tend to give Alice Oates a cordial welcome on her appearance at the opera house next Monday night. At this time also the Lenten season will have closed and those who have of itself would tend to give Alice Oates a cordial welcome on her appearance at the opera house next Monday night. ### A Smart Little Woman.

Many people in Charlotte remember Mrs. Beasley, who with her husband and son Charley, lived in this city some years ago, leaving here for Philadel-phia just about the time the centennial celebration began and there opening a boarding house, where she entertained many persons from the South. The Reidsville Times tells this story of her: "She has invented a life saving raft for saving lives at sea that has been adopted by the government over hundreds of similar inventions. She has also in-vented a merchant's tag that one firm in Philadelphia made a contract for thirty-five thousand, and has invented an attachment for sewing machines for making complete button holes and and smoothing the rough places. She told Dr. Smith, of this town, who went to see her when in Philadelphia, that a merchant showed her what was deficient in the button holes and she at once told him she could invent such an attachment and went to work and did so, and on this slight invention a stock company was at once formed, Mrs. was twenty years ago a member of the firm of Oates & Williams, of Charlotte. There has been no such firm under that itle size being allowed so much inter-est. The doctor, her husband, is look-ing well, and their little boy is a promtitle since 1859. The colonel received a ising young man of 20; she has him at letter last week, addressed to L. S. Wil-liams, Wadesboro, containing $5, evi-dently in a disguised hand, and saying only the property of Oates & Williams.' He thinks it is conscience money, and returns his thanks to be the this rementant. the address." The Times says she was recently interviewed by one of the city papers, and was spoken of as a Philadelphian, whereas she was born at floosiertown,
