THAT EXTENSION. The first tangible evidence that the Baltimore people and the Baltimere & Ohio Railroad Company are seriously considering the proposition to extend the Virginia Midland beyond Danville is furnished by the following account of a meeting in Baltimore, taken from he Sun of that city:

The committee appointed by the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association of Baltimore City, of which Mr. John E. Hurst is chairman, to confer with the officials of the Baltimere and Ohio Railroad company relative to the ex-tension southward of the Virginia Midland Railroad, met yesterday at Cam-den Station. There were present Messrs. John King, Jr., Wm. Keyser and Robt. Garrett, vice-presidents of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company; Mr. John S. Barbour, president of the Virginia Midland Railroad, and members of the committee referred to, namely, Messrs. John E. Hurst, Wm. H. Baldwin, Jr., Daniel J. Foley, H. G. Penniman and German H. Hunt. Mr. John R. Bland, secretary of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association, was also present. No definite action was taken. All the parties to the conference were impressed with the importance of the subject, and numerous plans were suggested whereby the desired object could be attained. Various cratic Senators, but like a whipped cur, maps were exhibited, and on these were shown how certain strips of railroads in North Carolina and South Carolina might be connected by lines of railroads, but just what these were the chairman of the committee of conference did not feel at liberty to make public. The prospects for an independent line to the South from Baltimore are believed to be encouraging. The railroads represented in the conference desire it, the merchants and manufacturers of Baltimore want it, and the people of the South favor it. The question is, Whe will build it? Yes, the question is, who will build

The Camden route, described in these columns yesterday morning, must have been considered, as it offers almost the only outlet from this city. It is, therefore, not at all improbable that if the line is ever built to Charlotte, it will be eventually, if not immediately, extended in the direction | tral south of Nova Scotia. It has been of Charleston, and, in all probability, tap the South Carolina branch at Camdem. a brief article from the New York Sun on the Mahone bargain. Here is another in the shape of a supplement. It is about as strong as they make 'em:

Our esteemed contemporary, the New York Times, printed, yesterday, a letter from one of its correspondents giving an interesting account of an interview with Gen. L. A. Sheldon, the second self of Gen. Garfield. Among the subjects discussed was Senator Mahone, of Virginia. "I understand," said Gen. Shelden, "that he and his friends do not want to go back to Virginia to do battle in the companies taunting them have their opponents taunting them with the remark, You have gone over to the Republican party, and have nothing to show in return." This, then, is Senator Mahone's standard of political morality; he is not only ready to barter principles for offices, but he is not ashamed of the trade! On the contrary, he glories in it, and is anxious to make public exhibition to his friends of the consideration for which he sold himself! We know that when the slave auction block used to exist at Richmond, the poor slaves, when put up for sale, took a pride in bringing a high price; but we never heard before that this feeling extended to any of the white men of Virginia.

Many Northern papers have begun to sharpen their arrows and test their bow string, for a warfare upon Jefferson Davis's forthcoming book, "The Rise and Fall of the Confederate Government." Some of them pretend already to have found its weak spots, al-beit they have only been permitted to beit they have only been permitted to look at it through a field-glass which are coming in from national banks has shewn only the preface and a few commending the action of the Secretary small extracts published in THE OB- and offering to keep their bonds and have them stamped and extended. ent Republican journal, says: "We are to pay at any time, which is an advanin favor of war on Conkling, but we do not think it ought to be carried on at the expense of the public business, or with Conkling's own weapons. Conkling cannot be beaten at his own game any more than the devil can be successfully fought withfire. The thing the devil really fears and flies from is not fire but holy water, and the thing that Conkling fears, and which will finally ruin his trade, and, if it comes in his lifetime, drive him out of politics, is in the inflexible adherence of the administration to business principles in the management of the various federal offices in this State."

It is said that the mission to Mexico was offered to ex-Senator Bruce, of Mississippi, but after consideration he declined. One reason of his declination, so it is said, was that he would not be willing to take his family to a country and climate subject to epidemic dis-such anch as yellow fever. Liberia af-fords a worse climate then Mexico and yet fourges and some of the Raleigh Radicals want to send Jim Harris these.

Railroads, railroad combinations, railroad projections, plans, schemes and prospects, are now engaging public atten everywhere. Hence the papers are full of them. The present issue of THE OBSERVER is assuredly not an exception to the general rule. There is no more important subject. Railroads make and unmake cities and towns, and their importance as factors in our growth and prosperty were never more fully recognized in the South than they are to-day.

The Mahone of North Carolina, who is to lead the Republican party out of the mire and mud, will have a great undertaking before him, particularly if he be required to cleanse them of all their sins. One of their members | gin, of New Jersey. of the Legislature has been accused of larceny, another has not clearly shown that he was not guilty of the crime of forgery brought against him, and now comes the story that still another has eleped with the wife of one of his fellow citizens. And the first year of their membership has not yet expired.

The Senate was resting yesterday and will rest to-day, "on motion of Dawes." The motions of Dawes, by the way, are bringing his fellow-Republican Senators into ridicule and himself into contempt. He moves into the most remarkable statements and is immecontinues to bark and scowl at the and the James River Valley. enemy.

Size of the Crop and Its Condition-Stock in the West.

Washington, April 15.—Reports of April 1st, received at the department of agriculture, show an increase of nearly four per cent. of the area sown in winter wheat. Anti-Judaism in Germany.

LONDON, April 15.—A dispatch from Berlin says: The anti-Jewish petition, sent to Prince Bismark on the 13th inst., had been going about the empire for signatures for six months past, and that it aims at the imposing of a re-striction on the immigration of the Jews into Germany, and excluding them from certain walks of activity altogether; in fact, undoing much of the legislation of the past, in their favor, but the objects of the petition are hopeless in view of the utterances of the government, that it does not intend to permit the existing law affecting the Jews to be repealed or altered. Prince Bismark has also told Bunderath that the anti Jewish agitation is against his wishes. Crown Prince Frederick William, if not emperor, also, has still less sympathy with the movement.
