In spite of the strongest opposition ever exhibited against John Kelly since he has been leader of Tammany, he has come on triumphant and again appears as the leading sachem in that remarkably cohesive and powerful organization. The New York Herald, one of his strongest and bitterest opponents, maintains that the small majority by which he was chosen was obtained by fraud. It says: "The manner in which the "Boss" Kelly majority was secured adds another chapter to the disgraceful record of the leaders of Tammany for many years past. The hall was packed by a disreputable dodge with the heelers of the "Boss," who at an early hour created a scrimmage which was made to serve as an excuse for bringing in the police, contrary to all the usages of the society. The packing of the hall resulted in keeping out upon the streets for hours men anxious to vote for reform. Every delay that could be contrived was resorted to for delaying them, until numbers, hopeless of the fair chance which was their right, retired from the scene in disgust. The majority thus unfairly obtained for the "Boss" ticket showsthat "Bossism" dies hard. The fact, however, that it was no mere preference for one man over another, but of a sharp line drawn by men of principle against the unprincipled faction personified in the "Boss," shows unmistakably that the victors of last night elected themselves into a contest which arrays every honest element of the community against them." And yet Tammany continues to hold on, and, as the Herald elsewhere admits, controls the Democratic party, which controls the largest city in the Union.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Herald says: The entire success of Secretary Windom's plan for extending the maturing six per cent. bonds at three and a half per cent. is now considered certain in treasury cir- probably be translated to Texas or cles. The belief of the best acquainted Georgia. He heard of these alleged with the administration policy is, how ever, that the same plan cannot be carried out with respect to the fives. If it should be finally decided not to extend the fives, it is expected that Secretary Windom will be able to call in and actually pay off between $250,000,000 and $300,000,000 of the five per cents. The money to do this with would be derived from $100,000,000 of surplus revenue, $104,000,000 of four per cents to be sold in that case, and $50,000,000 of the resumption fund, the use of which for this purpose is authorized by the Bayard amendment to the sundry civil appropriation act. If the authority to issue three per cent. treasury notes should in the end, be decided sufficient to warrant their use, the secretary would be be able to pay off $150,000,000 more of the fives.

Mr. James W. Simonton, general manager of the New York associated press, who is on a visit to California, delivered his lecture, "The Associated Press-How We Get the News," in San Francisco Wednesday evening. The telegraph instrument on the platform was connected direct with principal cities throughout the country, and dispatches were received and read to the audience. Shortly after 8 o'clock (11:40 p. m. Washington time) San Francisco announced that Mr. Simonton was speaking, and in response to his request for a line from Washington a brief outline of the scene in the Senate between MesrsMahone and Hill was telegraphed. The length of the line between Washington and San Francisco is about 3,700 miles, and this achievement of working direct over so great a distance was one of the greatest modern telegraphic

It appears to have been agreed at the the meeting in Stateswille yesterday, that the line of the Virginia Midland extension has not been actually determined upon beyond Walnut Cove, fifty he had reunited with the Democracy. miles from Danville. From this point they can take either the Statesville or Mooresville route. The meeting to be held at Winston next Thursday will doubtless have a good deal of influence in determining the route beyond Walnut Cove, and Charlotte should by all means have a delegation there to see what's going on.

News from Oregon is to the effect that ex-Senator Joe Lane, of that State, who ran for Vice-President on the Breckinridge ticket in 1860, is in declining health, and not expected to survive long. Gen. Lane was formerly a to $10. North Carolinian, and still has relatives living in some of the counties northwest of this city. He is a very old man, but until lately was in full possession of all his faculties, and was remarkably active and vigorous.

In a test case to determine the legali-ty of the celebrated anti-treating law of Wisconsin it was found that the law was inoperative because of an error in the text of its supposed enactment. The bill as drawn specifies the repeal of an old law that was dropped when the State laws underwent their recent changes and a judge found the law to be inoperative and void.

Garfield's lone friend, father Greer, has been duly rewarded for his persistency in voting for the dark horse in the Chicago convention. A man who can see so far ahead is doubtless sharp enough to be Third Assistant Postmaster General.

THE SENATE'S SESSION.

CHARGES AND REFUTATIONS RE-PEATED.

Frye Essays Sarcasm-----Burnsides Loses His Temperand Butler Takes Him Down.

WASHINGTON, April 20.-The Vice-President laid before the Senate the unfinished business, being the resolution for the election of Senate officers. Dawes, alluding to the statement made by him some days ago as to the persecution of a Massachusetts man in Mississippi, said that the story of that gentleman was to-day printed in the Massachusetts papers. That story corrotorated his statement in every particular, except as to the locality. The incidents had happened in the parish of Caldwell, in Louisiana, and not in Mississippi, as he stated. The gentletleman's name was Chas. Heath. He (Dawes) asked that the gentleman's statement, as published in the papers, should be printed in the Record:

Jonas demanded the reading of the article, and it was read by the clerk. It relates to persecutions to which Heath stated he was subjected in Louisiana because he was a Yankee. and gives accounts of various murders committed there, to show the condition of society in that State.

Jonas said that the Senator from Massachusetts had transferred the scene of his cock and bull story from Mississippi to Lousiana. When it was contradicted in that locality it would ersecutions now for the first time. There was nothing in the article which showed that Heath had been persecuted on account of his political opinions. He called attention to the fact that the outrages alluded to had been committed nine years ago.

He would make some remarks upon the subject when he could get some information from that locality. He sent to clerk's desk and had read for the purpose of showing that the murders and robberies were not confined to the Southern States, an account of the killing of one of the Foster brothers in Massachusetts while committing Frye arose and said the Senator from Pennsylvania (Cameron) had yesterday exhorted Senators on the other side to be "brave men." He (Frye) had never seen in all his life, he had never read in in all his life, of braver men than were to-day on the other side of the chamber. Here was the Senate in extra session with the constitution over it, with its duties before it. The Democratic party is clearly in the wrong, knowing itself to be wrong; knowing the constitution to be against it. The Republican party. is undertaking to do a duty which the constitution prescribed, and instead of the Senators on the other side putting themselves on the defensive they stood up and "carried the war into Africa," day after day, and the Republican Senators were obliged to put themselves on the defensive. There was bravery enough in the Senator from Georgia (Brown) when he rose in his place and with great dignity and with the consti-tution in his hand read day after day lectures to the Republicans on their duties under the constitution. Confession was sweet for the soul, and yet confession sometimes required a higher degree of bravery than anything else, and it was a brave act on the part of the Senater when he in open Senate admitted that he had been a Republican in the State of Georgia; that his life had been in peril; that he had then become a Democrat and, that from that day he had enjoyed perfect safety.

Brown: I said no such thing. Frye: I understood the Senator to say that there was danger when he was a Republican. Brown replied that he had said that though at the close of the war his life might at one time have been in peril, His return to the Democracy had nothing to do with his safety.

Frye, continuing, said it was brave for a Senator to say that much, It was brave in the Senator to make an attack upon Massachusetts when he had said that there were in that State 139,000 paupers, spendthrifts and drunkards deprived by law of the right to vote, and that if they were allowed to vote they would vote the Democratic ticket. The Senator from Florida (Call) needed courage to make an attack on the industries of Massachusetts, and that in Massachusetts educational qualifications were placed upon the ballot, but Frye, asserting that where the South raised one dollar for the education of voters, the North raised from $8

The Senator from Florida had been bold in calling the laboring men of Massachusetts serfs—serfs, men to be bulldozed and intimidated. If the working men of Massachusetts had been in make the opening address. Louisiana and the Conservatives of that State had undertaken to intimidate and bulldeze them there would not have been to-day enough Conservatives left fore yesterday suggested that the Republicans have a scheme for breaking the Senate dead-lock which had besore not been contemplated. The Democrats have said that they would only yield when it appeared that they were obstructing legislative business. The question then is, can the President be driven into so violent an expedient as calling an extra session of Congress.

The policy of turning out "the old Grant gang" in North Carolina, recommended by Tourgee to President Garfield seems to have commenced. The "old Grant gang" was once a pretty strong set in the State, and during the to form a decent nucleus of the party.

"cold Grant gang" was once a pretty strong set in the State, and during the days of their powel would not have a the successor of the premier of this government, and might be supposed to speak with inspiration. The South had been told that the present administration would treat her with fairness, kindness and good will, but if the speak with inspiration here at her with fairness, kindness and good will, but if the speak with inspiration here at her with fairness, kindness and good will, but if the speak with mistration he thought the South would understand it. He denied that there had been any intimidation practiced in Georgia, and reiterated his former attatements as to numbers of voters in Massachusetts who were discounted as the seen served upon the parties interested.

The people of the Senate, reminded him that he occupied an important position here at the successor of the premier of this gate the trouble.

Richmond, April 20.—The foreclosure sale of the Petersburg Railroad, which was to have taken place under a decree of the United States circuit court to day, at Petersburg, has been postponed by order from the same court to the 10th of May next. Notice of postponement has been served upon the parties interested.

could not be paid, and he did not ask it. He contended that Massachusetts did greater injustice to the Irish in that State and to foreigners generally than was done to the colored people in the

Hampton, in reply to some portions of Frye's speech, asserted that numbers of colored people in South Carolina voted the Democratic ticket. If the Senater from Maine would go down to South Carolina at the next election he promised him that he would be met on every stand on which he would speak ored Democrat did not give good reason for the faith that was in him he (Hampton) would join the Republican

Butler said that if he saw fit. he would at some future time reply at length to the allusions made to fraud in South Carolina by the Senator from Maine. The Senator had made use of the old dodge of politicians and lawyers of calling "stop thief" in order to divert public attention from the real The real question here was had there been a disgraceful bargain in this Senate, by which the offices of the Senate were to be turned over to those to whom they do not belong.

Burnside: Or whether the majority shall rule or not? Butler: That has nothing to do with Burnside, excitedly: I say that there has been no bargain, and any man who says there has been, says what is false? He subsequently repeated the remark, that such statements were false, and added, I do not, as an honorable man, propose to sit here and listen to it, and any man who says there is corrupt bargain on this side of the chamber, I say, tells a falsehood.

Butler, quietly: The Senator may characterize it as false as much as he pleases. I say that inasmuch as the Senator has seen fit to say that the charge is false, (after a pause), I will not make it in this chamber.

Burnside, continuing, said if evidence could be brought to prove a bargain, he would vote to expel any member of the Senate who had been guilty of such a thing, or, he would favor a resolution to investigate the matter.

Butler then turned his attention to Frye's speech, which he said arraigned every Senator from the South. He denied the charges of repudiation that were made against the South; but inquired whether, admitting their truth, that was any excuse for the great Republican party throwing its powerful weight on the side of repudiation in Virginia. He warned that party that in tampering with repudiation in that State it was dealing with dynamite. These tactics were not going to dissolve the solid South. Just such speechrivited the South more than ever, and drove the people of that section together. The South would never be dissolved by Federal patronage; it would not be dissolved by abuse, vituperation bullied into dissolution. After some further discussion be-tween Hoar and Brown, concerning suffrage in Massachusetts, the Senate adjourned.

Action of the Louisiana Board of Health.

NEW ORLEANS, April 20.-The State Board of Health at a meeting held last night adopted a resolution requesting the Governor to issue a proclamation from May 1st, against the following ports, known to be infected with yellow fever: Rio DeJeneiro, Vera Cruz, Havana and Aspinwal, vessels from such ports to be subject to such detention as the Board of Health may direct. The board also adopted a resolution inviting the local inspectors of the National Board of Health to be present at all meetings of the State Board, and inviting the co-operation of the agent of the National Board in the investigation of all cases of a doubtful or suspicious character. The question of inviting the inspection of the National Board to the quarantine station is submitted to the Governor, who is favorable to the presence of such inspection, and if approved by the Governor, the State Board will cheerfully

Nominations by the President, WASHINGTON, April 20 .- The President sent the following nominations to the Senate to-day: Richard A. Elmer, of New York, to be second assistant Postmaster-General vice Thomas J. Brady, resigned; W. A. M. Grier, of Pennsylvania, to be third assistant Postmaster-General vice O. D. Hazen appointed Assistant Attorney-General for the Postoffice Department; Geo. B. Everitt, of North Carolina, to be collector of internal revenue for the 5th district of North Carolina. Collectors of customs: Abner Tibbetts, for the District of Paso Del Norte, Texas. Grier is the gentleman who cast the first vote in the Chicago for the nomination of Garfield and persisted in thus voting on every ballot from the second to the last, although for a long time no other delegate joined him.
