DISMARKI'S RELIGION. we know he died as he had lived, without any renumbation of the peculiar faith of his fathers and of his people.

But while this was the case, as with most great thinkers in our day and time, he was very liberal in his religious tabeled in the United States of M. C. Jenkins, white, was taken from public sentiment, and his head is pretty level.

A short shrift.

New York, April 25.—A dispatch from Columbus, Ga., says: Louis Whitten Common Columbus gious tenets. His religious belief is supposed to be summed up in Lothair when he says:

"Chance, necessity, atomic theries, nebular hypotheses, development, evolution, the origin of worlds, human ancestry-and what then? There must be design. The reasoning and the re-search of all philosophy could not be valid against that conviction. If there were no design, why, it would all be nonsense; and we could not believe in nonsense. And if there were design, there must be intelligence; and if intelligence, pure intelligence; and pure intelligence was inconsistent with any disposition but perfect good Man requires that there shall be direct relations between the created and the Creator, and that in these relations he should find a solution of the perplexities of entrance. LONDON, April 25.—A special train bearing Lord Beaconsfield's body left Paddington station for Wysomble at 2.30 o'clock Sunday morning and on the Frye's speech the other day, reminds us that he, at least, is not satisfied of that fact. Let us remember that "the few bright Southern land," were the days in which the carpet-bagger revelled, and imagine Mr. Frye, addressing the Southern Senators, and then hear him: "The "pen of history, with iron point, has "written down with blood the history of those few years following the war "on your bright Southern land, and "your harders and their children, reading these terrible pages one of these future days, will hide their faces in "their hands and put their hands in the "dust." Raleigh News and Observer. The sword of General Johnstone Jones will wear at Yorktown is a valuable relic, worn by his great-grandfather, Major Cadwallader Jones, durrender at Yorktown, and in other battles in which he participated. The blade of the sword was presented by General LaFayette. It is a genuine Toledo, and can be bent from point to hilt. A tradition exists that this blade is one of a lot of Toledos presented by Charles III, King of Spain, to George Washington, and by him distributed as presents among his general officers. The sword was also worn by General Jones's father, Cadwallader Jones, the third of that name in the direct line of descent, as Colonel of the Twelfth South Carolina Regiment in the late war. The Major Cadwallader Jones, who served on LaFayette's staff, was the grandson of the Peter Jones who founded the city of Petersburg, Va. Another Cadwallader Jones, it is also said, carried the sword in the war of 1812, and yet another in the war with Mexico, 1847-'48. So the good blade has

Unveiling of the Farragut Statue. WASHINGTON, April 25.- The statue of Admiral David G. Farragut, recently erected in Farragut's square at the intersection of Connecticut Avenue and Seventeenth street was unveiled this evening with appropriate cere-monies. C. F. HARRISON. April 1, 1881. 1mo City Tax Collector How many suffer torture day after day, making life a burden and robbing existence of all pleasure, owing to the secret suffering from Piles. Yet relief is ready to the hand of almost any one who will use systematically the remedy that has permanently cured thousands. Simmons' Liver Regulator is no drastic violent purge, but a gentle assistant to nature

-ONE CAR LOAD-

This distressing affliction occurs most frequent.

The disturbance of the stomach, arising from the imperfectly digested contents, causes a severe pain in the head, accompanied with disagreeable nausea, and this constitutes what is popularly known as Sick Headache.

CAPMON.—As there are a number of imitations offered to the public, we would eaution the community to buy no Simmons' Liver Regulator or POTATOES.
