TEMPERANCE VS. WHISKEY.

THE STATE ASSEMBLED IN CONVENTION.

Line of Policy Mapped Out, and a Determined, Aggressive War to be Waged Against the Liquor Traffic - Gov. Jarvis Squarely on the Platform.

The Prohibition Convention which assembled in Raleigh last Wednesday was one of the finest bodies of representatives ever gathered in the State, and was characterized by an air of high purpose and regard for the public good.

At 3:30 p. m. the convention assembled with Mr. H. A. Gudger in the chair as temporary chairman. A very powerful and fervent prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. Thos. Pritchard, president of Wake Forest College.

The names of the delegates having been ascertained the permanent organization was effected by the election of the following gentlemen:

President - James C. McRae.

Vice-Presidents - W. S. Ball, A. H. Merritt, Roger Martin, J. W. Hood, S. H. Manning, James Atkins, E. R. Dudley, T. C. Williams, A. G. Whittaker, A. McDonald, Clay Wall, T. H. Pritchard, Geo. Allen, J. Rumpie, T. L. Vail, J. S. Nelson, T. E. Skinner, T. B. Lyman, Samuel Hunter, Dr. McKay and J. A. Buxton.

Secretaries - R. H. Whitaker, J. S. Hampton and C. N. Hunter.

Treasurer - Len. H. Adams.

Reading Clerk - N. G. Broughton.

The president on taking the chair made an appropriate address. On the conclusion of the president's address the following report of the executive committee was presented and adopted:

1. That a committee of seven be appointed by the president of the convention, whose duty it shall be to nominate to the convention twenty-five persons, naming one of the number as chairman, who shall compose the State Prohibition Campaign Committee, with all the duties, and authorities usual for such committees.

2. That the committee when chosen shall meet and elect of their number one who shall compose the executive committee, and a majority of whom shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of all business.

COUNTY ORGANIZATION.

The central executive committee recommended the following as items of business for the convention:

Resolved, 1. That a thorough organization is necessary in each county and township in the State, and to this end the friends in each county not organizing are urged to call a meeting as soon as practicable, and appoint county and township executive committees, consisting of such members as they may deem necessary, and that they place themselves at once in communication with the state prohibitory committee.

2. That this convention recommend Saturday, the 14th day of May next, as a suitable day to hold meetings and perfect permanent organizations. Prohibited that if this day is not convenient for the friends in any county, then they are requested to call a meeting at some other early date.

3. That the counties are urged to select active persons on the committees and give immediate notice of the name of each chairman and secretary to the executive committee at Raleigh.

4. That a committee of five be appointed by the president of the convention, to whom shall be referred, without debate, all resolutions offered by members of the convention, which committee shall report on the same, with a recommendation that they do or do not pass.

By order of the committee, T. E. SKINNER, Chairman.

The following were appointed as the committee of seven: Dr. Wilson, N. B. Broughton, P. A. Cumming, T. C. Williams, E. R. Dudley, of Craven, E. T. McKethan and Col. J. P. Thomas.

The committee of five on resolutions are as follows: Dr. Skinner, Prof. Johnson, of Rowan, Nicholson, of Duplin, R. H. Simmons.

The appointment of these committees was followed by brief addresses from delegates and visitors, after which the convention adjourned to meet at Metropolitan Hall, at 9:30 a. m., Thursday, and attend the mass meeting at the hall that evening.

The opening speech was made by Col. J. P. Thomas, of this city. The News and Observer thus refers to this meeting:

"By 8 o'clock, when the mass meeting began, the hall, both floor and galleries, was packed with an eager and most attentive audience, conspicuous among which were a number of ladies. Men prominent in the State, in religion, in politics, were seen everywhere, and the assemblage was notable for this reason in addition to others. It was a representative assembly of men of North Carolina, and of which any State might well be proud. The colored people, who nearly filled the galleries and occupied many seats as delegates, were notably attentive."

Col. Thomas, principal of the Carolina Military Institute, made the opening speech, and a powerful one it was, couched in beautiful language. The speaker went over the whole ground. He showed the necessity of prohibiting the sale of liquor and stamping the life out of the greatest incubus upon the public and private life of North Carolina. The manufacture and sale of liquor is either right or wrong. If right, the State or county has no right to tax it more than other manufactures. But that it is wrong and a grievous wrong each man's moral sense will at once admit. He urged work in the cause if it were attained. The amount of good done will cause the heart of patriotism to throb with delight. Peace, happiness and prosperity will reign everywhere. The conclusion of the speech was a model of elocution, and there was a storm of applause long continued. He said:

"Do your duty as freemen, do your duty as men, do your duty as brothers, fathers, sons or friends, and aid in lifting our State and its people from the vile slavement of accursed drink. The man who is the vassal of drink is the veriest of all vassals. Let us hope that next August the sun will shine upon a State redeemed, regenerated and disenthralled."

SECOND DAY.

The proceedings of Thursday, the second day, began by the reading and adoption of the following resolutions presented by Col. J. P. Thomas:

Whereas money being the sinews of peaceful movement as well as military operations, it is important for this convention to provide adequately for the legitimate business expenses of the prohibition canvass; be it therefore

Resolved, That the executive committee be authorized to propose to each county in North Carolina a certain sum of money, with the request that the amount be promptly paid, and that this apportionment be in proportion to the wealth and population of each county.

Resolved, That the money thus raised be devoted to the dissemination of appropriate tracts on the subject of prohibition and of other useful documents, and especially to the paying of the necessary personal expenses of such able earnest canvassers as the committee may decide to provide for. Provided, nevertheless, That the convention do hereby record its judgment that not one cent should be used in any way not justified by the highest ethics, private or public.

A resolution inviting Hon. A. S. Merrimon to address the convention at 10 o'clock was adopted, when Messrs. Duncan, McNeil, H. A. Gudger and C. J. Montgomery were appointed a committee to make known to Mr. Merrimon the action of the convention.

At 10 o'clock Dr. S. S. Satchwell, the talented president of the North Carolina Board of Health, began the delivery of a masterly address, or rather lecture, on the evils of intemperance, particularly as considered from a medical standpoint. His address was at great length, and went over the entire ground, leaving no point untouched. He showed the effect of liquor upon the mind and the body, bringing in the great part to rest or present use of liquor, and this could be seen by any one who looks at the records and reports of the insane asylums. Then, as to the effect on the body. A thousand deaths are caused by the train of the concomitants of the use of intoxicating drinks. Bright's disease, heart disease and apoplexy are but a few of the countless physical dangers which follow the use of a deadly drug. The drunkard not only injures himself directly, or lays the foundation for diseases, but prepares a legacy for his children. So deadly is this demon, liquor, that the Legislature which orders a skull and cross bones to be placed upon every bottle of poison might well order the same emblem to be placed upon every bottle or barrel of liquor. Dr. Satchwell went on to give statistics, gleaned from facts in his personal observation as a surgeon in the Confederate hospitals. Alcohol is father of disease, parent of pauperism, breeder of discomfort, and seeks but to destroy alike the health and happiness of its victims. A president of the State Board of Health, it was his duty to warn the people of his State of the awful dangers of drink, bodily and mental. But it went beyond these dangers, and the amount of social suffering and disaster caused by it were beyond the reach of human calculation or human estimate. But few families but had a skeleton in the closet, and could tell dreadful tales of what love of liquor had done for a dear one and dear. What was needed to put a stop to this thing which was sapping the life blood and the enemy of the social, moral and political world? It is prohibition and total abstinence. We must put Satan behind us if we would save ourselves and protect society. As friends to the human race, as citizens of a great commonwealth, we owe this duty. Man is and always must be his brother's keeper. We must do this awful fountain of disease and death, nor will the humanity, the State pride of our people be satisfied until liquor is swept away, and sobriety takes its seat on that throne which drunkenness has so long occupied. We have no individuals and to society that we have not long ere this cast away the influence of drink, and proved our Saxon courage in this regard as in other things. North Carolina is behind some others of her sister States in this matter. Our jails, our penitentiaries, are filled with criminals, over half of whom are brought to their present condition by the use of liquor. These are not fancies, but facts, but plain facts, patent to any close observer. He showed the effect of abstinence in Maine, proving conclusively from the official reports that it was marvelous in its results for good. This prohibition touched the public pockets as well as the private purses. Where it was in force taxes were reduced to a minimum. There were fewer criminals and fewer courts. The voice of every physician in North Carolina would attest the facts that had been stated to-day, for they were not too painfully and sadly aware of the dread work of the destroyer.

The address was listened to with the closest attention. At its conclusion calls were made for Gov. Jarvis, who took the stage with great cheering and applause. Col. J. P. Thomas proposed three cheers for the Governor, which were given.

The Governor was gracefully introduced by Major McRae, and said that he saw a body of men was here assembled which had the good of the State at heart. It gave him pleasure to witness the proceedings, and to give his countenance and whatever influence he possessed to the cause. This call it was no doubt, as much to find out his views as anything else. The public think, no doubt, that I belong to that class of politicians that regard this question as a ticklish one. But I have an opinion in favor of the prohibition, and at first I doubted the benefit of absolute prohibition, thinking a rigid system of licenses sufficient; but the Legislature has passed the law, and I must take one side or the other. I don't stand for the 1,400,000 people of North Carolina if I remained silent, and I must take my position. In taking it I propose to do just as I have done in all public questions since I first took office. I have always, and how I wish to stand for the best interests of North Carolina, and I propose to meet this question in the same way. I never walk these streets or ride over the State but I see melancholy victims of intemperance. Knowing what is best for North Carolina and North Carolinians, I declare for the prohibition movement, and for prohibition I intend to go. [Great applause, continued for many minutes.] Whenever may be taken the bill that ought to be out, or out that ought to be in, can be put there by subsequent legislation or law. I think I knew something about the sentiments of the people, and how to win their favor. Part has nothing to do with this question. If this movement means to organize a political party, I do not go with it, but if it means to do the good work of a grand old cause, I go with heart and soul.

Another question to which I intend to address and devote myself is a similarly grand one, and that is the education of our people, both races alike. If this is done, even if prohibition does not, the people will be benefited in this action; it will have to come, and that soon. There is not a day that I do not have some painful appeal for clemency, growing out of intemperance. There is
