Be kind to the lightning rod man. He has a father, perhaps, and a mother, who knew him in his innocent youth Perhaps even now, in some Western village, fond hearts are beating for him, and sweet lips breathe love's d-arest prayers for his welfare. Therefore lay him down tenderly, ford his hands peacefully on his breast, and close his eyas gently as you put him to rest under the branches of the weeping willow, where the birds carrol all through the summer days their softest songs. But plant him deep—plant him deep.

If you want to get even with a man who a al ways cramming reason into your ears for the purpose of suppressing your feelings, watch him during a thunder storm like that of Sunday. Press is a little cripple, whose legs were cut off by the cars. He had a three-wheeled velocipede, on weich he would go around to sell his papers. This gave out the other day, and the little fellow was compelled to drag himself about as best he could until he met a sympathetic gentleman, who took him to a store, bought him a new velocipede, lift-ed the little fellow on it, and sent him on his way rejoicing. The man refused to give his name, but the angels turned to the book and scored a few big marks alongside of it.

Naples Letter to New York Times.

Facts About Coral. There are from 10,000 to 12,000 persons actually employed in the town of Torre del Greco in the manufacture of coral. Only a portion of these are seen in the factories, for the engravers and those who mount the oraments, work mostly at their houses. The number employed by Signor Gagliardi is 200, outside the factory, and 80 within. In the branch factory that he has established at Bosiotrecase, near the once buried city of Pompeii, there is about the same number of persons at work. One-third of these are children ranging at which these people are paid, though small in comparison, to the sums given in the United States, is not so low as might be expected, when the number of ing among the lower class of Italians is considered. The engravers are, of course, paid according to their ability. The captain of a coral boat will receive for his season's work the sum of 500f. for his season's work the sum of 500f. An ordinary workman, one whose business it is to file the beads, and who does his work satisfactorily, will make about a dollar a day, while the women and children earn from 60 cents to $2 a week. Each operative has by his or her side a small earthern vessel, in which the beads are thrown as soon as the special operation for which they are employed is performed. When a certain number are ready, the beads are taken to the deak and the operative is paid accordingly. The sum paid for drilling 1,000 beads is about 5 cents, and the number per day that can be drilling 1,000 beads is about 5 cents, and the number per day that can be drilled by one girl with the awkward instruments they use is about 5,000. The grinding is paid at the same rate, but the filing, being a more difficult operation, brings the operative a larger return for his labor. The amount of coral sent from Torre del Greco to different parts of the world varies greatly. In certain countries there is an ex-coral sent from Torre del Greco to different parts of the world varies greatly. In certain countries there is an excellent market for it, while in others it is appreciated only to a small extent. France, for instance, takes a very small proportion, the finest and most expensive coral ornaments being sent to Germany, England and America. The Chinese have but very little fancy for coral, while in India and Africa it is a favorite ornament, and worn in profusion by women of all classes. The coral trade between Torre del Greco and the East Indies amounts to some $1,400,000 per year. The largest manufacturer and exporter is Signor Giuseppe Massa, who sends out forty-four boats and employs about a thousand persons. After him come several houses, the heads of which are Signori Perrara, Sautoponte, Asbione and our kind entertainder, Signor Gagliardi. The great mass of coral is sold by weight, the scale of prices being fixed according to the size and color of the beads. The coral market is subject to very little fluctuation. Pieces of special size and beauty command very high prices. There is now exposed in one of the larger coral shops of Naples a ball of coral about the size of a hen's egg, and of a beautiful rose-color, for which the sum of $700 is demanded. Among the branch of business. Corn and Pork. We produced 1,587,000 bushels of Indian corn in the United States last year. In the four years, ending with 1880, our total product of this king of cereals was 5,020,000,000 bushels. The bare production of this corn requires a well-cultivated area of 60,000,000 acres; which vated area of 60,000,000 acres; which means not less than 2,000,000 farms, and gives employment in agriculture alone to 5,000,000 workmen, representing a population of not less than 25,000,000. The chief uses of this article are for bread, feed and the manufacture of whiskey. We export in the grain condition about 90,000,000 bushels, and there is about as much converted into spirits. We export of corn converted pound of tobacco in any other form spirits. We export, of corn converted into pork, lard, beef, mutton and dairy than the pinch mingled with poison products, not less than the value of that makes up the ridiculously expen-$320,000,000 a year, representing say sive and utterly worthless article of 600,000,000 bushels of corn. Philadelphia Times. There are few current delusions that have become so firmly fixed as the trade trick which claims that the only original cigarette, warranted not to kill or ruin the larynx, is the one wrapkill or ruin the larynx, is the one wrapped in rice paper. During the last ten years cigarette smoking has grown apace in this country. At the beginning of the war the cigarette was the mark of a foreigner, the Spaniard especially. All the continental nations, however, do most of their smoking in this way. The ready-made cigarette is only a comparatively late invention. It was created in deference to the im-It was created in deference to the impatient spirit of the American, who cannot give the time or possibly acquire the skill necessary to roll a cigarette. The address with which this job is done abroad elicits admiration. So great an adept was Napoleon III. in the making of this small solace that with one hand, the left, he could arrange the tobacco and roll the paper into a condition fit to smoke. This, however, is a by no means rare accomplishment in a by no means rare accomplishment in France, Spain or Italy. It was the American who invented the patent cigarettes, not so much to save the consumer the trouble of making the article as to get a good chance to adulterate them. There is cigarette made in America that any man, boy or woman would smoke if the making and mixture of them could be seen. Every brand makes a loud boast of using rice paper, whereas any one who takes the trouble to examine the rice plant will see at a glance that there is no fibrous consistence in it to make paper of the sort used in cigarettes. Prodigious fortunes have been made and are making, and millions of people are slowly ruin-ing their digestive organs by inhaling the foul stuff wrapped up in the various brands that claim to be pure. NEWS OF INTEREST.

A contemporary corrects our statement, made on what we thought good authority, that the postoffice has not paid its way since 1828. It says that eight years since that date, the last being 1865, the revenues have exceeded the expenses, and that in 1852 the surplus was nearly a million and a half. Mr. James, we observe, has already reduced expenses by cutting off star routes to the extent of $400,000.—New York American. Senator David Davis has written a letter to a friend in Illinois, in which he says, among other things, that "new parties are not organized in a day, but the next presidential election is nearly four years distant, and there will be abundant time for the people to take the matter in their own hands and create a great organization to protect their interests, now held in the grip of great. organizations and monopolists."

The other half is consumed by the producers. The annual hog crop, converted into pork, lard, hams, hadon, etc., for export and for consumption in the urban and manufacturing districts of the United States, may be moderately stated at about 1,285,000 tons, or 2,470,000,000 pounds. This is the smaller part of the total production. The larger part is consumed by the producers, and enters to a greater extent than any other food supply—including both corn and pork in all forms—into the daily subsistence of the domestic population of this country.

A Luminous Comet.

Out in Laramie the papers publish nice little personal notices. Here is one from the Boomerang: "Has any goggleeyed astronomer noticed recently, floating through space, a bald-headed planet, with apparently no regular orbit and evidently drifting soul west, by soul like a bob tail comet looking for a drink? The luminous comet Henry E. Crosby has drifted into space, and those who have from 50 cents to 25 stock in him would like to know where he went to." Who is Mrs. Winslow?
