THE ROTHSCHILDS.

Extension of Their Partnership--How Their Millions are Spent.

Paris Cor. Boston Journal.

The Rothschilds have been attracting no little attention themselves here in Paris by the announcement of the extention of the act of partnership, which expired September 30, of this year, to 1905. The Paris branch of the famous family is quite large. The dowager Baroness Rothschild, who lives in the family mansion in the Rue Lafitte, had five children—Baroness Alphonse, who is at this date at the head of the family; Baron Solomon, who died a long time ago; Baron Gustave, Baron Edmond and the Baroness Nathaniel Rothschild. The venerable dowager is a veritable fountain of charity. She gives away hundreds of thousands of francs every year. In the summer she lives in a splendid country house at Boulongne, where apartments for each of her sons and daughters are kept constantly in order.

Baron and Baroness Alphonse Rothschild live in the old mansion in the Rue St. Florentine, where Tallyrand once resided. They are gay and are extremely fond of society, and are seen everywhere in the monde; the Baroness is one of the most accomplished equestriennes who frequent the Boise Boulogne. Her husband is an enthusiastic patron of the turf. He has stables at Meantrif and Chantilly, and lavishes millions on them. Solomon Rothschild was a delicate-minded man, fond of conversation, books, pictures and society. His widow has a daughter who will, it is said, be the richest heiress in the Paris family. Baron Gustave is the only one who has married outside the family.

One of the sons of the late Nathaniel Rothschild bas just purchased the splendid mansion of Count Toistel in the Avenue de Friedland; and another named Arthur spends his life in collecting books. It said that no none else in France, except the Duke d'Aumale possesses such inestimable treasures of rare editions and luxurious bindings as this young Rothschild. One of the latest additions to the delegates to Paris of this phenominally rich family is Baron Adolphe Rothschild, of Naples, who has closed out his business and retired with the serenity of conscience, promoted by the knowledge of the possession of $180,000,000 francs. He may be seen now and then in the Bois, lolling negligently in the blue carriage, which is one of the peculiarities of the house. He is a great collector, and will spend hundreds of thousands of francs upon any trifle which he happens to consider he must have. There is but one Catholic in the family, and that is the young Duchess of Grammont, who, it will be remembered, was the daughter of Baron Rothschild, of Frankfort-on-the-Main, one of the richest members of the group.

HE TOOK A GROSS.

A New Article of Commerce of Value to Restaurant Keepers.

New York Graphic.

While the proprietor of the Maison Doree, New York, was standing behind the counter the other day wishing that a little of the business wave that the Eastern papers say so much about would slop over into his restaurant, as it were, a young man with a beaming smile on his face and a big box under his arm entered.

"Don't want any sleeve buttons, nor nothin'," growled the dyspepsia distributor, glancing at the box.

"No, nor I," said the stranger, affably, depositing the box on the counter, and removing the lid. "But what you do want is the greatest invention of recorded time—the restaurant keeper's friend—the boarding house keeper's salvation!"

"Roach poison?" said the steak stretcher contemptuously.

"No, sir," retorted the young man, taking a handful of singularly shaped objects out of the box. "Something that beats the phonograph and the telephone all hollow. I refer to the 'Skidmore chop!'"

"What's that?"

"Why, its the most economical device of modern times, and I'll prove it right here. Suppose you are serving a dinner to say a half dozen persons. Now, how many chops do you usually put on the table?"

"Well, about two apiece, say twelve."

"And how many are eaten?"

"Hum! about four."

"Exactly; that is about the average, as our restaurant statistics show. As a matter of course, however, you are compelled to cook three times as much as you need to make a show. Now, if you could save six chops every meal it would amount to—"

"A fortune," said the man of cutlets, eagerly. "All we can do with 'em now is to work 'em up into hashes."

"Peace to your hashes," said the agent, "all this ruinous waste is now prevented by the introduction of some dish of the patent Skidmore Indestructible Rubber Chop, put up in packages of one dozen and warranted for five years," and the food economizer exhibited some life-like imitations of cooked mutton chops.

"Looks like a good scheme," said the conductor of stews, thoughtfully; "but don't the customer ever—"

"Ever grumble? Not in the least. He only notices that one chop is tougher than the other, and finally gets his fork in and chews ahead. The smaller ones come higher, as they are made of a little more limber article of rubber for lambs' chops. Can't be told from the genuine by the naked eye. All you have to do is to grease 'em on both sides, warm 'em up a little, and serve them mixed in with the others, same as usual."

"Seems like they are about as tender as the regulation kind," said the restauranter, jabbing one with a fork. "Don't they never get eaten by mistake?"

"No—no—that is, not now. We did lose a few that way when introduced, but now that we make the material tougher, it don't happen any more unless they will swallow them whole. Why, here's a specimen that's been in use in a Chicago eating saloon there for years, night and day, and you can't see the first tooth print in it yet."

"That settles it," said the restauranter; "I'll take a gross."

"I thought you would," said the chop agent, as he took down the order and emphatically declined an invitation for some lunch. "I will drop around in a few days and show you samples of some soft, white rubber oysters we are getting up especially for the country trade—make the best article of indestructible salad ever known," and he shouldered his box and walked off in the direction of Baldwin's Hotel.
