When we read is a rural paper that some orator was "received with an ovation on rising to speak," there is room for doubt whether he was greeted with applause or with a fusilade of eggs. Ovation is a worst of Latin origin, and our is the Latin for eggs — Philadelphia Record. Ell Perkins wondered because a Mexican did not know the name of the President of the United States. There is probably not one in a hundred citizens of the United States who can tell Eli the name of the President of Mexico. Ell should go and take a bath. Even here it is a question wheth-er it is Garfield or Blaine.

There was joy on the farm when Ben, the oldest boy, came back from college in his sophomore year, and the village was proud of him. "Cheese it, cully," he said when he met an old friend, the son of a neighbor who jeined farms with his father; "cheese it, cully; shove us your flipper, clench daddles, pardy. How's his nibs, and what's the new racket?" And his proud old father said: "It was jest wuth more's twice the money to hear Ben rattle off Greek jest like a livin' language."

THOMASVILLE FEMALE COLLEGE COMMENCEMENT.

A Brilliant Event of the Festive

THOMASVILLE, N. C., June 1.—The commencement at our female college closed to-night with a brilliant concert, by far the most attractive event of the season. The entire commencement occasion was a delightful series of intellectual and esthetic enjoyments, such as are not often to be had within college lectual and esthetic enjoyments, such as are not often to be had within collage walls, and the occasion was as pleasant and profitable as the combined efforts of president, faculty and students could make it. Everything combined to make this, the twenty-fourth annual commencement, a success, and indeed it was a grand success.

The day was perfect. Thomasville was its gayest, the girls looked their prettiest and everybody their happiest. At 9.30 this morning the doors of the new chappel—a large, elegant and commodious hall recently erected—were thrown open and when an hour after the exercises began, every seat was occupied and the aisles and windows were filled, the audience representing every section of the State and every portion of the Piedmont region.

After prayer and a chorus by the vocal class, Miss Maggie Thomas, of Thomasville, welcomed the audience in a tastily written and happily delivered asplustory.

Thomasville, welcomed the audience in a tastily written and happily delivered salutatory. A vocal trio preceded the delivery of school diplomas, which duty was performed by the able and worthy president, Prof. H. W. Reinhart, in his usual good humored style, after which the orator of the day, Rev. W. A. Nelson, D. D., of Shelby, was introduced. Dr. Nelson didn't like the way commencement orators had of confining themselves in their selection of themes to mere educational or philosophical themselves in their selection of themes to mere educational or philosophical subjects and therefore chose for his subject, "Girls," and he divided girls into "little girls," big girls," fashionable girls," womanly girls," and the "girl that ought to be," and without further introduction "dived" down into his eccentric subject with a boldness which would have startled a Billings or a Twain. But there were no fears for the good natured divine, and after an hour's "disquisition on girls," in which he kept the audience in the best of humor by his jovial sayings and delightful jokes, he came out unscathed with a lovely boquet of flowers for a trophy. Whatever may have been the impression he made upon his audience, the opinion that it takes "divines for wit" certainly grew very popular in that audience before he closed and sat down amid great applause.

"Caliph of Bagdad," followed the address, and the president then delivered the belles-letters' and full diplomas to the graduates. A vocal solo, "Rock of Ages," by Miss Minnie Reinhart was rendered very happily, and the valedictory was read by Miss Belle Wingate, daughter of the late president of Wake Forest College. Of either the valedictory or the salutatory too much cannot be said in praise. They were indeed far above the ordinary productions of college graduates and were characterized for an absence of all sick sentimentality, &c., so common in school girl compositions, and, altogether, gave evidence of the general excellence of the Lord," the training which the writers had received in this as well as in kindred departments.

An anthem, "O, Praise the Lord," closed the avarcies of the morning.

In the afternoon, your correspondent, through the kindness of the lady principal, Mrs. Reinhart, was shown some elegant work in oil chromos and crayon by the young ladies of the college. The department of art is under the supervision of Mrs. Reinhart, a lady who has obtained enviable distinction by her paintings which have frequently taken the premium in the principal art galleries of the country. Among the paintings which were shown us we the following for the excellence:

the following for the excellence:

By Miss Alice Wilson—Scene on the Rhine; Scene on the Elbe; Scene on the Danube; Boquet of Flowers; Fruit Paintings of flowers on satin and velvet by Misses Wilson and Draughan.
Crayons by Miss Carrie Cramer—
Group of Deer; Summer; Flowers;

By Miss Hylton—Snow Scene on the Alps; Moonlight Scene. By Miss Carrie Pell—German Scene;

It is the universal expression among those who have visited Thomasville, that there is no college in the land more delightfully situated than this. more delightfully situated than this. The building, an elegant structure, is in the midst of a paradise of flowers and shrubbery and trees. In the front is a beautiful landscape garden with delightful walks and lovely retreats and in the rear is a large grove where refreshing air and cooling shades are to be found in the most sulltry weather. During the afternoon the already large crowd was augmented by large numbers of people from the surroundlarge crowd was augmented by large numbers of people from the surrounding towns, and when the grand march, "March Brilliant," announced the opening of the concert the chapel was filled to its utmost capacity, and standing room was not to be had at a premium.

After much delay, during which every effort was made to get the immense crowd into the hall, the exercises.

began with a chorus by the vocal class, "Mirth and Joy." A vocal duet by Misses Reinhart and Beckwith, "May Morning," was well rendered. Rivo King's "Popular Sketches," an instrumental solo by Miss Alice Pell, a difficult piece admirably performed, followed and a three part song, "Rest thee on this Mossy Pillow." "Meeting and Parting," by Miss Hattie Hall, who has a plaintiff voice full of sweetness, elicited expressions of congratulation.

elicited expressions of congratulation. One of the most delightful entertainments of the evening was the recitation. "The Blind Girl of Castel Cuille," by Miss Maggie Askew, a young lady of decided talents and promise in the elocutionary art. Possessing a voice full of sweetness and of full compass. capable of great modulation she was able to tell the sad story of the blind girl of Castel Cuille with an effect which revealed unusual power.

A very pretty duet, "Love Shall Guide Thee," by Misses Hall and Reinhart, was repeatedly encored. A solo by Miss Mamie Gannaway, "Last Rose of Summer," was well rendered. Also a vocal duet, "I'wo Vivandieries," by Misses Hall and 13 ckwith. A beautiful little song, "When Mary was a Las-sie," by Misses Carrie Pell, Richardson and Nelson, was sweetly rendered and highly complimented. Another song which elicited great applause was the Gondala song, a lively, exciting chorus. A vocal solo, "Swiss Song," by Miss Reinhart, was beautifully rendered. Another recitation, "The Widow Essays Poetry," by Miss Rogers, added to the variety and pleasure of the hour. A beautiful chorus by the vocal class was sung and the commencement of 1881-the most successful in the existence of the college-was at an end.

It is pretty clear that the supposed bones of William Morgan, to whom the anti-Masons are to erect a monument at Batavia, belonged to some other fel-low. Hence local people smile; but the monument was going up somewhere, and the contributors to it voted that it might as well be at Batavia as anywhere. Thurlow Weed ought to make the dedicatory oration.

Freemasonry is quite prosperous in China. An Shanghai there are three lodges, working under English constitutions, two under Scotch, one under American, and one under German; two chapters, one English and one American; one Mark lodge, besides several bodies of the Scottish Rite. A new English lodge, Northern lodge, No. 570, was recently constituted at Shanghai.

Our Consul at Smyrna has at last been able to arrive at the exact losses from the Scio earthquake. The number of persons killed was $,000 and the loss of property $13,000,000. The earthquake, it is now learned, was felt on the mainland, killing a number of persons there, and extending as far as Smyrna, where, however, no serious damage was done.

A cruel blunder was made in announcing the verdict in a St. Louis murder case. The foreman of the jury handed the clerk several slips of paper, and the clerk read: "We find the prisoner not guilty, on the ground of insanity." The culprit's face lighted up with delight, and he exultantly shook hands with his counsel. "There's a mistake," said the foreman to the clerk; "you've read the wrong slip. The one that's signed is our verdict—guilty of murder in the first degree."
